TRUCK, DRIVER VANISH ON UP-ISLAND JOURNEY

PORT McNEILL (CP)—A truck loaded with bottled gas has been missing since Sunday on a rugged 150-mile trip to this northern Vancouver Island community from Courtenay.

Police and logging company employees are searching for the truck and driver, Franklin Lowrey, said to have recently moved to the Island from Kamloops.

Wilson, Pearson Carry Day At Commonwealth Meeting

BY JOHN RODERICK

TOKYO (AP)—Moscow radio declared today the Soviet Union "will exert full effort to ship modern weapons" to North Viet Nam to help defeat U.S. forces.

The broadcast was an analysis of the trip of Alexander N. Shelepin, No. 3 man in the Kremlin, to Hanoi, the North Vietnamese capital. Shelepin arrived in Peking from Hanoi today for talks with the Chinese, who have been critical of Soviet military aid to North Viet Nam.

"All available aid will be extended to North Viet Nam to defeat the U.S. aggressions," said Moscow's Japanese - language broadcast, monitored here.

Shelepin's 24 - hour stopover came on the heels of President Johnson's State of the Union message in which he pledged anew to defend South Viet Nam from aggression but made new overtures for peace.

A correspondent of the Japanese Kyodo news service reported from Peking that Chinese observers there brushed aside Johnson's peace offers and attached significance only to his determination to fight on in Viet Nam.

TASS REPORTS

Tass, the Soviet news agency, told of the speech in a seven-paragraph dispatch from Washington which said:

"Johnson said that he couldn't foresee how long the Viet Nam war will go on and that it might well be a protracted and tough war or protracted and tough talks or both. On the one hand, the president expressed the hope that he will be able to end the Viet Nam war, and on the other hand he left no doubt as to the United States intention to carry on the war for months or even years."

Watchdog Group Checks Boycott

By IAN MacDONALD
Times Ottawa Correspondent

LAGOS, Nigeria—The Commonwealth pulled itself back from the brink of destruction here Wednesday. In a new found unity it hammered out a positive program for the early toppling of the Rhodesian rebel regime of Prime Minister Ian Smith.

Reached at the end of the two-day crisis talks was a great personal victory for British Prime Minister Harold Wilson, but he was given major assistance by Canada in initiatives suggested by Prime Minister Lester Pearson early in the 16-hours' work of the final day. The conference closed with the issuing of an official communique.

The delegates agreed to accept the plan of Prime Minister Pearson for a watchdog committee to check the effect of economic sanctions against the breakaway country.

In agreeing not to resort to force immediately they thus gave Britain time to prove its claim that it can topple the white-minority government which seized independence Nov. 11.

CARRIES WARNING

But the communique carried the warning that the use of force "could not be precluded if this proved necessary to restore law and order."

The representatives of 20 Commonwealth countries, meeting outside Britain for the first time, also agreed to meet again in July if the Rhodesian rebellion is not ended by then.

The watched dog committee, which will sit in London but whose makeup has not been disclosed, will advise Commonwealth governments on possible action by them or the United Nations, including provision of help for Zambia, Rhodesia's northern neighbor.

The communique showed the meeting resisted some demands for immediate military intervention. How long Prime Minister Wilson had gained to show sanctions could do the job was not indicated. Wilson went to Zambia for talks today with President Kenneth Kaunda. Zambian students demonstrated with shouts of "Wilson go home" and "Action now."

Several spokesmen said Pearson unquestionably was the second key figure at the meeting and that his diplomatic skills helped soothe feelings and pave the way for agreement. The machinery set up to direct the economic-sanction war on Rhodesia was a Pearson proposal. It brings the Africans and other Commonwealth countries directly into the campaign.

WRITTEN ASSURANCE

This was among the factors that mollified the African countries along with a written assurance of determination to overthrow Smith and agreement that use of force is not precluded if necessary to restore law and order. Wilson sold them on his contention that the Smith regime will be on its last legs by about March. Although Wilson conceded in some ways, he skillfully did not pin himself down to any absolute date. However, the undertakings now mean that if need be he can tell his political opponents at home that Britain's hand can be forced eventually by the other Commonwealth countries.

He was described as being both off and on the hook. Wilson's performance in winning over the Africans on the continuation of sanctions and away from militant demands for immediate armed intervention was described as a masterful political and diplomatic move.

By the time he was done he Continued on Page 16

U.K. MINISTER PLANS VISIT TO SALISBURY

LUSAKA (Reuters) — Commonwealth Secretary Arthur Bottomley of Britain will visit Salisbury, it was announced here today by the British High Commission.

He will have talks with Sir Humphrey Gibbs, the British governor of Rhodesia who is not recognized by Premier Ian Smith.

The date of the visit was not announced.

British sources in Nairobi said Bottomley would go to Salisbury Friday to discuss with Gibbs the current situation and details of a proposed plan to distribute famine relief in Rhodesia.

British MPs Ordered Out

SALISBURY (Reuters)—Three Labor members of Britain's Parliament visiting Rhodesia have been ordered by the Rhodesian government to leave the country immediately, a government spokesman said here tonight.

The government's announcement came less than 15 minutes after the departure for Lusaka of one of the three MPs—Christopher Rowland, a parliamentary private secretary at the foreign office.

The others, David Ennals and Jeremy Bray, spent the day in Bulawayo — Rhodesia's second city, some 300 miles south of Salisbury—and had not yet returned to the capital.

Famine Aid For India

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government is planning to send $9,500,000 worth of wheat and $1,300,000 worth of rapeseed to India as famine relief, a government source said today.

Other purchases being made include $750,000 worth of dried peas and $450,000 worth of dried milk powder.

The balance of the $15,000,000 special relief program will go in purchase of other foodstuffs to be shipped to India. The kind of food is being discussed with Indian government representatives.

Slides Close Highway

TRAIL (CP) — Snow slides near the summit during the night closed the Salmo-Creston section of the southern Trans-Canada Highway. The department of highways said it expected to take most of today to clear the slides, result of mild temperatures combined with a 12-inch snowfall overnight.

Brezhnev Opens Talk

MOSCOW (AP) — Leonid I. Brezhnev, leader of the Soviet Communist party, began talks in Outer Mongolia today and diplomatic sources in Moscow said the consultations probably centred on tightening defences against China.

EVERYONE is smiling as New York Mayor John Lindsay, left, and chief Transport Workers' Union negotiator Douglas L. MacMahon announce the end early this morning to the 12-day transit strike. Partial subway and bus service in North America's largest city was restored shortly after the settlement was announced. (AP Wirephoto.)

UNIONISTS FREED

N.Y. Transit Strike Over

NEW YORK (AP) — This city's unprecedented, multi-million-dollar subway and bus strike ended shortly before dawn today, minutes after entering its 13th day.

By noon, near-normal service was restored. The transit authority announced that five hours after the settlement runs were operating on all lines of the subway system and buses were maintaining schedules normal for the time of day.

Cars continued to clog city streets, however, the result of the morning rush of 3,500,000 persons to their jobs in the city.

Mayor John V. Lindsay said in a broadcast that all the city transit authority's 6,500 subway cars and 4,000 buses could not be expected back in use "until late tonight or early Friday."

The striking AFL-CIO unions —the Transport Workers Union and the Amalgamated Transit Union — agreed to mediators' settlement terms shortly before 6:30 a.m. EST.

BUS SERVICE RESUMES

By 8 a.m., the first segment of the 237-mile subway system was carrying its first paying passengers since New Year's Day—on the shuttle train between Grand Central Station and Times Square. A half-hour later the transit authority announced that 3,200 buses were in operation.

Although describing it as "fruitless to get into the numbers game," Lindsay evaluated the new two-year labor contract for 34,400 workers at $52,000,000. But a transport workers union lawyer said it "is for $39,980,000 to the penny."

The Transit Authority estimated the unions' original demands at $680,000,000. The demands were reduced to $216,000,000 before the 5 a.m. Jan. 1 strike and scaled down again to a reported $100,000,000 during negotiations.

"No doubt there will be argument that the terms were too low or too high," Lindsay said. "But the judgment was made in behalf of the public, the city of New York and the rest of the country."

The workers went back to their jobs pending union ratification of the contract.

STRIKE COST MILLIONS

Lindsay placed the strike cost at more than $500,000,000, including $200,000,000 in wages lost.

The Commerce and Industry Association, however, has evaluated the economic impact at more than $100,000,000 a day.

Lindsay said he didn't know exactly where the money would be found to finance the agreement. He expressed the hope of maintaining the 15-cent fare "in the best interests of the people."

Although independently incorporated and supposed self-sustaining, the transit authority for several years has had to turn to the city to make up multi-million-dollar deficits.

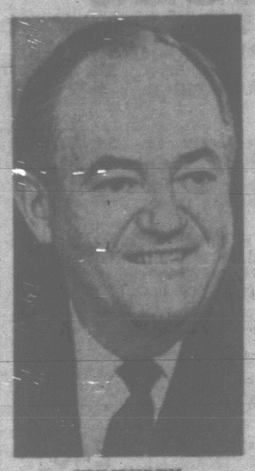

In late morning, Supreme Court Justice Abraham N. Geller signed an order freeing ailing Transport Workers Union President Michael J. Quill and eight other labor leaders from jail sentences he imposed for contempt. At the same time he dismissed a proceeding which sought $324,000-a-day union fines for ignoring an injunction forbidding the strike.

The transit authority requested Geller's actions.

Quill, who collapsed two hours after being jailed, has been in Bellevue Hospital. His colleagues were in jail.

Humphrey Signals Victory

HUMPHREY
. . . leaves for U.S.

NEW DELHI (UPI)—Vice-President Hubert H. Humphrey and Secretary of State Dean Rusk conferred at length today with Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin, reportedly on Viet Nam.

The hour and 43-minute secret session was one of the longest between American and Soviet leaders in years. It ran 15 minutes longer than scheduled.

He was solemn-faced when reporters caught a momentary glimpse of him through the glass doors of a conference room during the meeting.

But the vice-president later emerged smiling from the conference. He and Ambassador Chester Bowles, who also attended the session, held up two fingers in the traditional V for victory sign as they sped away in a limousine for meetings with Indian officials.

U.S. and Russian spokesmen refused to disclose what was discussed, and by mutual consent Humphrey and Kosygin refused to answer reporters' questions.

But reliable sources said the talks centered around the war in Viet Nam.

Gun-Butter Formula For a 'Mighty' U.S.

WASHINGTON (CP)—The United States is mighty enough to provide all the guns required in Viet Nam while building "a great society" at home, President Johnson said Wednesday night.

The U.S. will stay in Viet Nam until Communist aggression ceases, Johnson told the nation in the annual State of the Union address to the new session of Congress. (See Story Page 3).

Democrats and Republicans applauded his determination to press for peace in Viet Nam although "we have received no response to prove either success or failure" on the current American peace offensive.

Republicans attacked many of Johnson's domestic program proposals and his assertion that the budget deficit for the next fiscal year would be held to $1,800,000,000.

Johnson said if sacrifices have to be made at home because of commitments abroad they will be borne by those able to pay rather than the poor—perhaps a reference to the general tax increase about which there has been speculation.

Johnson did recommend resumption of excise tax rates on autos and telephone service which had been reduced only 12 days ago, and also some tax-structure overhaul to improve revenues.

If the "necessities of Viet Nam require it, I will not hesitate to return to Congress for additional revenues," he said.

He forecast budget spending

Viets, U.S. To Observe Tet Truce

SAIGON (UPI)—The United States and South Viet Nam announced today they will observe a ceasefire in Viet Nam during the lunar new year celebrations starting next week. The truce is expected to last at least three days.

The Communist Viet Cong earlier announced they would observe a four-day ceasefire beginning at 12:01 a.m. Jan. 20.

The lunar new year, called Tet, begins at 12:01 a.m. Jan. 21, ushering in the Year of the Horse in the Oriental calendar, and ending the Year of the Snake. The horse is considered the most propitious of the calendar.

HIGHWAY HOLE OPENS AND TRUCK FALLS IN

ABBOTSFORD, B.C. (CP) — A Sumas man was injured today when the truck in which he was riding dropped 50 feet when a section of the Sumas highway caved in.

George Streber is in hospital here for examination, but is believed to have suffered only minor injuries. His son, also in the truck at the time, was not injured.

Police said an old mine shaft caved in during the night, leaving the hard surface of the road intact. The road collapsed as the truck passed over, dropping the vehicle into a deep hole.

Ousted MLA Demands 'Immediate' Byelection

William Hartley, who lost his seat in the legislature this week due to mistakes by government-appointed returning officers two years ago, today demanded that Premier Bennett call a byelection immediately to fill the Yale seat during the coming session.

Premier Bennett today brushed off the demand, reinforcing his refusal Wednesday to call byelections in either Yale or North Okanagan (where MLA George McLeod died last month).

Instead, the premier said he personally would look after the needs of the two ridings—as well as his own South Okanagan—during the session.

"The premier will be a special watchdog," Mr. Bennett put it.

"He thinks he's some sort of 'big daddy,'" snapped Mr. Hartley, who sat through two sessions as a New Democratic Party member. He was contacted in his home at Merritt by The Times.

"The people of Yale are quite competent to run their own affairs and select their own representative.

"If he can get away with this in North Okanagan and in Yale, how much longer are the people going to have representative government in this province?

"The government appointed the returning officers who committed the irregularities in the election.

"So it is the government, through its own mismanagement, that has caused this elec-

ROUND-A-BOUT

By DOUGLAS HILLSIDE

A spy tells us that city motorcycle policemen have been ticketing city garbage trucks double-parked in the course of their duties.

While the fine income will make little difference to the civic budget (unless it's the driver personally who pays the fine), the idea seems commendable. Double parking, done chiefly by commercial vehicles, has long been a hazard and a nuisance downtown.

Spelling "mistakes" wrong we thought we'd make you smile in sympathy with stupid writers and flub-fingered printers.

But down in the printer's realm somebody made a mistake and spelled the word right . . .

During Safe Driving Week (Dec. 1 to 7) there were 78 Canadians killed on our streets and highways and 1,500 injured.

"This may not be attributed either to faulty roads or vehicle design," said Canadian Highway Safety Council director W. Arch Bryce. He blamed "ignorance, inattention and willful breaking of the law."

But just recently CBC-TV aired a campaign showing up the unsafe features which could be remedied in new cars—rigid rear view mirrors which scalp people, projecting knobs and door handles which could be recessed, rigid steering posts which spear drivers.

Letting car designers completely off the hook may make Mr. Bryce's comment the sweeping statement of the week.

Ex-Gestapo Chief, Aides Under Arrest

MUNICH (AP)—Dr. Wilhelm Harster, chief of the Gestapo in Naiz-occupied Holland, was arrested Wednesday on suspicion of complicity in the murder of 83,000 persons. One of them was Anne Frank, whose diary immortalized the ordeal of Dutch Jews under Nazi rule.

Two wartime assistants, one a woman, were arrested with Harster.

Harster, 61, is also suspected of complicity in the attempted murder of 317 persons. He was a major - general in the SS (Elite Guard) and was responsible for transporting Jews to concentration camps.

Those arrested with him were: Wilhelm Zoepf, 57, an adviser to the Nazi security police on Jewish matters. He is suspected of aiding and abetting 94,328 cases of murder.

Gertrude Slottje, 63, also an expert on Jewish matters for the security police in Holland. She is suspected of aiding and abetting in 93,328 cases of murder.

ONLY FATHER SURVIVED

Anne Frank and three members of her family died in a concentration camp after they hid from the Nazis in an Amsterdam attic for nearly four years. Only her father, Otto Frank, survived.

Their fate became one of the famous epics of the war through publication of The Diary of Anne Frank. It later was made into a successful play and a movie.

A Vienna police officer, Karl Silverbauer, admitted in 1963 that he took part in the arrest of the Frank family while serving with the Gestapo in Amsterdam.

He was suspended from the Vienna police force and while Austrian authorities probed into his wartime activities fled to Switzerland. There, he told an interviewer the Franks had been betrayed by a Dutchman who worked in their drugstore.

The authorities said Harster, Zoepf and Miss Slottke would probably be brought before a Munich court to answer the charges.

NEGOTIATIONS UNDER WAY

City Police Seek 9 Per Cent Pay Hike

Victoria City Police Commission was told by the policemen's union that Port Moody police were recently granted an 8.2 per cent hike to move ahead of the Victoria level.

Other items mentioned in Wednesday's preliminary discussions on what promises to be lengthy negotiations included a request for changes in annual vacation regulations. There was also an indication that the old problem of courtroom appearances could be a major negotiating factor.

The commission countered union requests by asking for a two-year agreement rather than the existing one-year contract.

The union officials indicated that they would be prepared to accept a two-year wage contract but they would want to be able to open the contract for discussion on working conditions at any time during the two-year period.

The commission is also asking for the insertion of a clause denying a policeman the right to work at any other job.

A police union spokesman said no members of the force were at present "moonlighting."

"I can say definitely that no members of this department work at other jobs," he said. "We might be able to go along with this providing the word employment was clearly defined. If it included off-duty police work I don't think we could go along with it."

The police commission stand was that it was not the intention of the commission to ban an off-duty policeman from doing off-duty police work.

A major balk came from the union officials when Police Chief J. F. Gregory asked for a clause to be inserted in the agreement giving him the right to appoint a sergeant-major to be in charge of police force discipline.

Union discussions on this point had resulted in unanimous disagreement with the idea, the meeting was told.

Chief Gregory said the man he was looking for should be an expert in the field of discipline but need not be an expert in law.

The police union stand was that anyone with the rank of sergeant-major should be proficient in all phases of police work to earn the respect of the force.

Further discussions will be held during the next two weeks.

TWO KINDS IN BRAIN

'Secretary' Cell Found

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Discovery that the brain has two different kinds of cells—one of which secretes a substance that prevents repetition of harmful actions and thus may be a key factor in learning—was reported Wednesday by a British scientist.

Dr. John Z. Young, professor of human anatomy at University College in London, spoke at a conference at the California Institute of Technology.

He said his research was with small octopi but he is sure the newly found cell exists in the brain of all animals, including man.

Scientists heretofore have believed the brain has only one kind of cell, the function of which is to pass along electrical impulses.

BLOCKS THE SIGNALS

The special, substance-secreting cell, Dr. Young said, gives off an enzyme which blocks the passage of signals through other cells when those signals tell the body to do something which the brain has learned will be harmful.

He discovered the existence of the cells and the secreted enzime in studying how an octopus learns when to attack and when to retreat from an unfamiliar object.

The two kinds of brain cells apparently form an electrochemical switching system. The switch remains open when the octopus touches something that means food but closes—through action of the secretary cell — when it touches something that means danger, Dr. Young said. Structural difference between the two types of brain cells was found with an extremely powerful electron microscope.

UNION IN TRAVEL BUSINESS

VANCOUVER (CP) — The British Columbia Federation of Labor (CLC) has gone into the travel business.

The 100,000-member body will charter a DC-8 aircraft from Canadian Pacific Airlines to carry unionists to Britain and back for a three-week holiday.

Secretary-treasurer Pat O'Neal said Wednesday if all 140 seats available are filled the unionists will pay about $350 per person for the trip.

Affiliated unions will be told the seats will be filled on a first-come-first-serve basis.

The flight will leave Vancouver Sept. 24 and return Oct. 15.

FISTFULL OF APPOINTMENTS

Grits Propose Lamoureux As Speaker

LAMOUREUX
. . . not unexpected

The nomination of Mr. Lamoureux, 45, deputy Speaker in the last Parliament, was not unexpected. And it's regarded as a foregone conclusion the Cornwall, Ont., lawyer will be acceptable to Opposition parties when his nomination goes before the new Parliament Tuesday.

As deputy Speaker, the government has nominated Herman M. Batten (L—Humber-St. George's), deputy chairman of committees in the last Parliament.

Mr. Martin's announcement, on behalf of Prime Minister Pearson who returns from the Lagos Commonwealth conference today, said the nominee as deputy chairman of committees is Maurice Rinfret (L—Montreal St. Jacques), deputy Liberal whip in the last Parliament.

The new Speaker of the Senate will be Senator Sydney J. Smith (L — British Columbia), succeeding Senator Maurice Bourget (L—Quebec). It is traditional that French- and English - speaking Speakers alternate in both Houses.

NAME CYC DIRECTOR

Mr. Martin also announced appointment of an interim director of the Company of Young Canadians. William M. McWhinney, 26, of Ottawa, now national director of the Canadian University Service Overseas, was given the assignment.

Parliament has not yet passed legislation establishing the Company of Young Canadians, but Mr. Martin said the interim organization would allow work to begin on a pilot project.

He also announced two reappointments to the United States - Canadian International Joint Commission. Donald M. Stephens, 62, of Winnipeg and Rene Dupuis, 67, of Beauharnois, Que., will serve for another two - year period. Mr. Stephens was first appointed in 1958, Mr. Dupuis in 1962.

Mr. Lamoureux's nomination as Speaker had been expected since retiring Speaker Alan Macnaughton decided not to seek re-election in the Montreal riding of Mount Royal in the Nov. 8 general election.

WORK DRAWS PRAISE

An easy - mannered, polite-spoken man who maintains a gentle but firm control over debates, Mr. Lamoureux has been warmly praised by all sides for his work in the Speaker's chair. During discussions last year on the possible appointment of a permanent Speaker, his name was among those mentioned.

It was also widely expected that Mr. Batten, 66, would move up to the deputy Speaker's post. He gained some experience during the last Parliament when he occasionally substituted for Mr. Macnaughton and Mr. Lamoureux.

Mr. Batten was chairman of the 15-member House committee that hammered out the design of the new Canadian flag in 1964.

Mr. Martin also said the government is considering ways in which the International Control Commission may be more effective in guaranteeing the neutrality of Cambodia. Canada is consulting with the other commission members — India and Poland.

WAR TO END WITH WHIMPER?

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—Buried deep in President Johnson's State of the Union message is a 10-word proposal to North Viet Nam to start scaling down the war in Southeast Asia without negotiations or even an agreed ceasefire.

"We will respond," he said, playing it in low-key, "if others reduce their use of force."

Some of the president's closest advisers think that is, in fact, the way the war may begin to end—not with a great conference or a formal truce but with a slow dwindling of hostilities.

In his address to Congress Wednesday night, the president for the first time put the full weight of his own authority behind this alternative with a flat commitment to begin de-escalating the conflict if and when the Communists are ready.

In recent days dispatches from Viet Nam have indicated some decline in Viet Cong offensive activity. Administration officials said they had no way of judging whether this is significant. It could have been, however, a factor n Johnson's offer.

Johnson's major effort, now three weeks old, is to get the Communists to agree to a conference and a ceasefire. But in this field he had no significant new concessions to offer, though two points he made may be read by Communist leaders in Hanoi with special interest.

ACCEPTS 'ANY GROUP'

He declared the United States is ready to discuss and consider "the views of any group," specifically including a four-point peace program advanced by Hanoi.

The reference to "any group" was broad enough to include the National Liberation Front, the political arm of the Viet Cong guerrillas fighting in South Viet Nam. Participation of the front in a peace conference has been one of Hanoi's objectives. Johnson himself had said previously this issue would be resolved.

The other point of possible special interest to Hanoi was a promise by Johnson "to withdraw our soldiers once South Viet Nam is securely guaranteed the right to shape its own future."

This commitment is two-edged: The troops will be withdrawn someday but not before South Viet Nam is secure from Communist conquest.

Exactly where the peace offensive stands was left a mystery though Johnson reviewed it at length. He simply said that so far there has been no response from Hanoi "to prove either success or failure."

NEW U.S. PROGRAM

Teams Assigned To Viet Villages

APPOINTED interim director of the Company of Young Canadians is William M. McWhinney, 26, of Toronto. He is national director of the Canadian University Service Overseas.

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. aid officials outlined Wednesday a long-term plan aimed at permanently wiping out Viet Cong control in the South Vietnamese countryside.

The new pacification program is a successor to the ill-fated strategic hamlet program of the early 1960s.

The core of the new effort will be assignment of specially-trained teams of 60 to 80 South Vietnamese to villages that have been freed from the threat of large-scale guerrilla attacks.

The teams are being trained to ferret out hidden Viet Cong cells remaining in the villages, nurture respected local governments based on the existing village council system, establish good police, health, schooling and other community facilities and maintain security.

About one-half of the team members are to be armed and the teams will be prepared to stay in each village a year or as long as necessary.

The strategic hamlet concept was unable to withstand continued pressure from the guerrillas.

The strategic hamlet operation tended to destroy the existing village governmental system. Saigon government cadres would move people into a location, give pep talks and distribute a few pigs, see that limited fortifications were constructed and then move on to another site.

Eventual success of the new program hinges on the success of the fight against Viet Cong military units. And even with victory on the battle field, rural reconstruction would take years.

Estimates vary on how much countryside is Viet Cong-controlled. Some say the guerrillas hold more than one half.

The new program is starting off with small beginnings — in about 400 villages, comprising less than 10 per cent of the countryside, officials said.

The Saigon government is training about 12,000 political-action specialists and 4,000 others for duty on the village teams. The goal is between 30,000 and 40,000 by the end of the year.

American aid figures heavily. The U.S. agency for international development is stepping up its personnel in South Viet Nam to more than 1,000 from 700, with plans to send in many more.

Looting Feared In Hard-Hit Rio

RIO DE JANEIRO (UPI) — Authorities feared widespread looting today in districts devastated by the tragic rainstorm which caused an estimated 700 deaths this week in Rio and nearby cities.

Police reported 30 arrests for looting since the rain began Monday. It was believed many other looters had escaped arrest while police were concentrating on rescue work.

Several thousand homes, from mansions to slum shacks, lay open to the looters. In the hardest-hit areas, the streets were littered with clothing, television sets, refrigerators and other appliances, many of them in usable condition.

"I don't know how we can control this," said a spokesman for the chief of police. "We are totally occupied answering calls for help."

Sixteen inches of rain, half of a year's normal precipitation, drenched Rio in the 72 hours beginning Monday night. Rain was still falling at nightfall Wednesday.

Ironically, Monday's weather forecast had predicted only "intermittent light showers with thunderstorms in the afternoon and evening."

Earth loosened by the torrential downpour thundered down hillsides in Rio and other cities in southern Brazil, sweeping away homes and killing residents by the score.

At the latest word, 182 persons were known dead in Rio, 50 in Niterol across the bay and 60 in Petropolis, a resort city in the mountains above this seaport city. Another 430 persons were missing and feared dead.

Thousands more were injured, many seriously enough to require hospitalization, and an estimated 20,000 were homeless in the three cities.

NANDA WANTS TO STAY

NEW DELHI (AP) — Prime Minister G. L. Nanda was reported seeking help today from India's political kingmakers to guarantee his staying in power.

As the senior member of the cabinet, Nanda, 67, succeeded the late Lal Bahadur Shastri after Shastri's death Tuesday. He was said to feel strongly that the ruling Congress party should not ask him to step down in favor of another candidate.

Nanda was acting prime minister after the death of Jawaharlal Nehru May 27, 1964, but gracefully relinquished power when Shastri was chosen as a compromise acceptable to the party's many factions.

Nanda met party President Kumaraswami Kamaraj today and is believed to have said he should continue in office at least until general elections next year.

The plum is the leader's seat on the Congress party benches in Parliament. The man filling it is automatically asked by President Sarvepalli Radhakrishnan to form a new government.

Party leaders discussed the situation informally today. The party's powerful working committee scheduled a formal meeting Friday to plan an election.

Challenges to Nanda may come from Defence Minister Y. B. Chavan and Information Minister Indira Gandhi. Both are said to want the job.

Woman Editor Challenges Smith Regime

SALISBURY (Reuters) — A woman news magazine editor today filed an application in the Rhodesian high court here challenging the validity of the constitution enacted after the Nov. 11 seizure of independence by the white-minority regime of Premier Ian Smith.

Eileen Haddon, editor of the liberal monthly Central African Examiner, says in an affidavit that the Rhodesian censorship regulations and order made Nov. 10 were revoked by the Southern Rhodesian (revocation of censorship) Order 1965—made in Britain Nov. 19—and ceased to have any force or effect from that date.

The application is opposed by Rhodesian Information Minister John Howman, Justice Minister Desmond Lardner - Burke and Attorney-General Thomas Bosman.

In a further affidavit Mrs. Haddon contended that the present Rhodesian government is not the legal government.

The suit could force Rhodesia's judges, who have hitherto kept strictly impartial, to choose between the breakaway regime's laws and those of the British government.

STILL HAS PUBLIC DUTY TO PERFORM

'No Sympathy' for CPR Says Greene

By JOYCE FAIRBAIRN
Times Ottawa Bureau

SASKATOON — Agriculture Minister Joe Greene today levelled a broadside at the CPR for shirking its public duty to expedite the movement of food and grain to the west coast for export.

The new agriculture minister chose the wheat-producing province of Saskatchewan to sharply imply that the CPR was bowing to the profit motive in its policies on rail line abandonment and the availability of box cars to carry goods.

At the core of his outburst was the request by India for food and grains to help offset famine conditions late last year.

Canada has agreed to supply $15 million of food, with specific commodities still to be formally decided.

India wanted some wheat and asked for delivery before April 1 which would mean that the shipment would have to be at the west coast by the beginning of March.

It is understood that lack of railway facilities could interfere with this deadline.

"We have the commodities and the shipping facilities available, but we can't move it all because of lack of rail," said Greene at a press conference here.

"This is an incredible and tragic situation. We might as well be back in the stone age if we can't move our commodities."

Greene said he felt that, even thought transport facilities did not fall within his department, he should "speak as forcibly as I can to ensure that grain can and should be moved as quickly as possible."

He never had any sympathy for the CPR view that rail line abandonment and availability of boxcars must be settled on "purely economic" terms.

"I have no sympathy with the (CPR) attitude that we can make more dollars by abandoning rail lines and renting boxcars to the United States because we are a private corporation and we can do what we like," said Greene.

One of the reasons that Sir John A. Macdonald originally had given the railway a monopoly and the ancilliary rights "which are almost invaluable today" was that its profit position was limited because it had a public duty to perform.

"That public duty didn't stop in 1867 and it hasn't stopped now," said Greene.

Notice of Intent

IN HIS STATE OF THE UNION address yesterday President Johnson made it clear that the United States will proceed full-steam ahead on two fronts—in its domestic commitments to create the great society, and in its foreign commitments to defend freedom and American security. This will be accomplished by a record budget of $112.8 billions and a call for more funds if events prove this necessary.

But in preparing for a fight in Viet Nam from which the United States will never retreat or abandon its allies to Communist aggression—and he foresaw that this might involve "years" of effort—Mr. Johnson said that the United States was prepared to discuss peace with or without conditions and on any number of points, whether four, fourteen or forty, in order to bring the Viet Nam war to an early conclusion.

This is a program, in effect, which recognizes the vast wealth of the United States and is prepared to call on it in full measure to finance the broad programs of peace and war which are now under way.

In the President's words: "this nation is mighty enough, its society is healthy enough, its people strong enough, to pursue our goals in the rest of the world while building a great society at home".

This is a tall order, to be sure. Perhaps no other country in the world, with the exception of Soviet Russia with its power of total regimentation of the country's economy, could contemplate such an organization of public wealth and effort. It will have its effects in a postponements of tax decreases for the American public, but Mr. Johnson stressed that the country's great plan to raise the living standards of large sections of the nation would not be allowed to suffer: the poor would not be asked to carry the burden of the war abroad by remaining deprived of a better life.

Hanoi and Peking can be left in no doubt as to the United States' determination to carry on the war at any cost and for any length of time. But there can also be little doubt at this point that Washington would welcome a favorable reply to its peace feelers and is willing to negotiate on almost any basis except immediate withdrawal from South Viet Nam.

A critical decision therefore faces the Communists. They must choose between opposing the United States' reaffirmed and obvious strength, and opening the way to a negotiated peace based on the original Geneva agreements. There is perhaps a serious weakness in the American position by reason of the fact that the initiative thus lies with the enemy: it rests with the Communists to decide what the United States will do. And there remain the two nagging and unanswerable questions: Could the American aims have been achieved without total involvement in a costly war; secondly, will the huge expenditures now being made buy the objectives which the President has in mind?

These are largely academic questions now. The largest production machine the world has ever known is fully committed to a war on internal poverty and a war on external Communism, and with no guarantee that either conflict will soon end.

An Incomes Policy for Canada?

ONE OF THE MOST FASCINating phases of the American economic scene in the last five years has been the exercise of naked economic power by the President of the United States in the interest of holding down prices and wages.

President Kennedy started it with his famous fight with the steel interests when he forced them to roll back price increases. The latest example occurred just last week when President Johnson again backed down the steel companies. In between there have been confrontations between the White House and various producers as well as labor unions.

The economic power of the President of the United States reaches deep into the nation. By virtue of the impact of the enormous spending of the federal government—and the coercive effect of that impact on its beneficiaries—the President is able to set up and largely enforce what have come to be known as presidential "guidelines" on prices and wages.

In most countries these official guidelines are known as an "incomes policy" and, while they amount to about the same thing, they have not been very effective in the Western world, except in the United States. Britain's Labor government, for instance, has been trying vainly for a year to establish and maintain an incomes policy, and in a number of European countries such a policy has been in effect for years without having had much success in holding down wages and prices.

Canada may attempt to establish an incomes policy, following recommendations to be made several months hence by the Economic Council of Canada. The ECC is to give the government a study of prices and the relationships between costs, productivity and income; a report on how to sustain economic growth, employment and trade; and a review of policies and experiences in other countries.

The question which must go unanswered in the ECC report, however, is how the government of Canada can enforce an incomes policy, supposing that it can work one out which is reasonably acceptable to all the economic forces which must live with it. Unlike Washington, Ottawa exerts only minimal economic power over labor and management. Except by enacting unacceptably arbitrary measures, it cannot do more.

In order that an incomes policy may work in Canada, it seems evident that the general public will have to be much better educated than it is now on economics if it is to be convinced of the necessity of opposing "non-justified" wage and price increases, or concurring in those which are "justifiable" in the light of productivity increases. It won't be an easy task.

Young to Teach the Young

IN THE CONTINENT-WIDE quest for means to stimulate education of the underprivileged, the Canadian Red Cross Society seems to have turned up a promising idea.

The society, according to a Toronto report, intends to recruit high school students into a band of "Volunteens" whose efforts will be channelled into help for primary and elementary school youngsters who are not doing well in their classes.

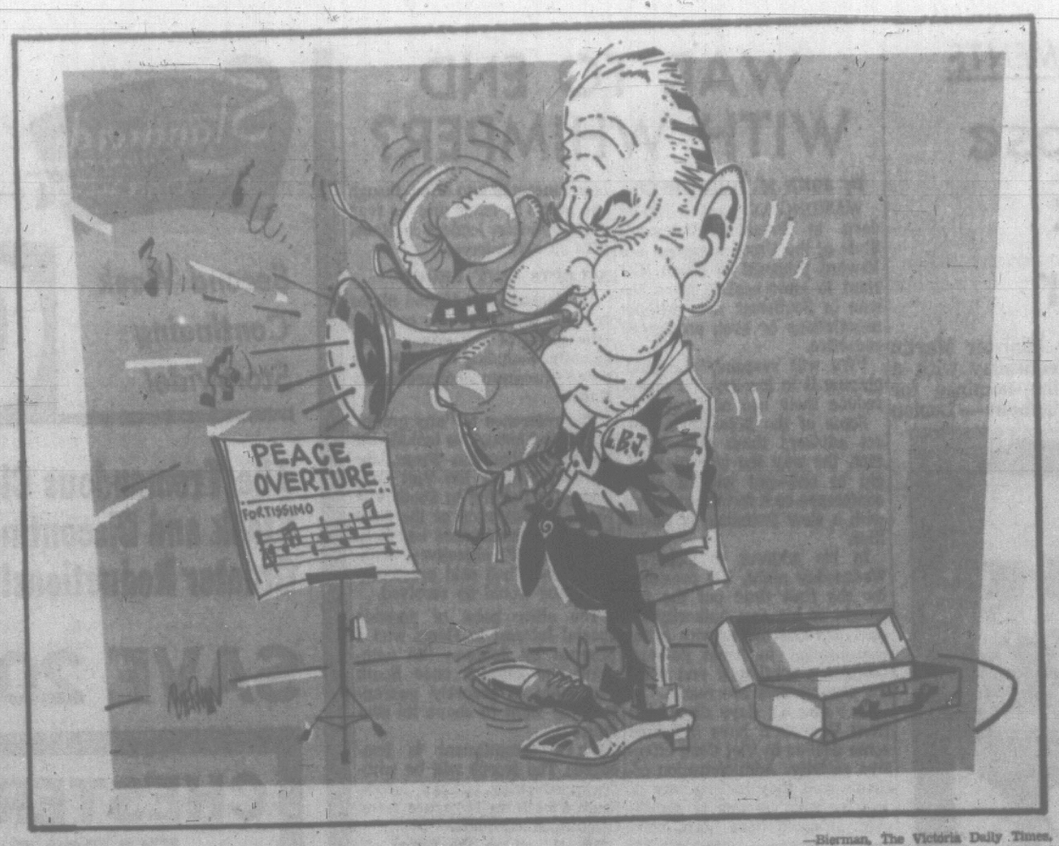

A leader of the movement expresses the opinion that teen-agers know and understand children in such a way that it is often possible for them to get ideas across to the younger people when trained adults fail.

This may be a valuable approach to the problem of avoiding dropouts in later school years. If the "Volunteens", acting as tutors for the backward, or for those children whose home environments are not conducive to study, can stimulate learning among the very young, they will have served a highly useful national purpose.

Good intent will not, however, be sufficient qualification for a "Volunteen". To be effective the high school students enlisting for the work will have to have a reasonably clear appreciation of the conditions which create difficulties for the children they hope to help.

The teen-ager has a relatively small chronological gulf to bridge with the underprivileged grade school pupil. The two should be able to communicate fluently with one another. But to do the job, the teenager will also have to understand that the narrower gap in ages is not the only distinction between tutor and pupil. A number of sociological issues also intervene.

The plan nevertheless is encouraging, serving also to give the older young people a sense of responsibility as they offer aid to their juniors.

"... It's not the blowing ... it's the fingering ...!"

FROM WASHINGTON — By WALTER LIPPMANN

The Imposing Power of Geography

DEATH came to Shastri at a high moment in his life, and the grief which is worldwide is therefore lighted with the poetic grandeur of the circumstances. He did his best day's work and died in the evening when he had completed it. The world is better for what was done in Tashkent. For mankind has needed badly to be shown that it is still possible to get on top of the intractable violence of human affairs.

Lippmann

None will suppose that peace has now been established. No doubt the way ahead will be full of trouble. Nevertheless, we have seen at Tashkent at least a part of the pattern of what might be the shape of things to come. The conflict between Pakistan and India could become a catastrophe for hundreds of millions of people. What we have been shown in Mr. Kosygin's mediation has been that the primary responsibility for making peace lies with those who are most directly concerned. The powers most directly concerned are those who are nearest the conflict—Pakistan, India, and the Soviet Union.

Mr. Kosygin was able to do what neither Mr. Wilson nor Mr. Johnson could have done. That is not because he is cleverer than they but, in the last analysis, because he is nearer. Great Britain in spite of the ties of the Commonwealth, has been helpless; the United States, in spite of its wealth and power, has been ineffective. The critical advantage of the Soviet Union has not been due to race, color, or culture, but to geography. The Soviet Union can talk with authority about peace in Asia because it is a power with an Asian frontier of thousands of miles,

Flaw in Globalism

I have come increasingly to think that the cardinal defect of United States foreign policy in this century of the wars and disappointments and frustrations has been the pursuit of idealism separated from the geography of the world. The American globalist school of thought has dominated American strategic and diplomatic policy since 1917.

In that time we have fought and won two world wars and have been unable to make peace after either of them. The globalists have always been too high-minded to make the compromises and concessions which are the essential ingredients of any peace settlement. Now we are engaged in a war which has no visible limits, and the reason given to us by our globalist leaders comes down to saying that we have appointed ourselves the guardians of the peace of the world.

Before the globalist illusion came upon us, we thought it was our business to define our vital interests and defend them. As against the gross self-delusion of globalism, there is the traditional realism which holds that a sound foreign policy is based on a careful and constant study of the geography of the world. This leads to the realization that American power cannot be equally effective all over the globe. A full understanding of this simple, self-evident, profound truth is the beginning of wisdom in foreign affairs.

Globalism is the thinking of those who have not learned the facts of life. They include the zealots of the "world revolution" who expect all mankind to imitate and follow them. They include also the idealists, who have over-reacted from their old isolationism and expect to enforce everywhere their own views of the moral law.

They cannot do that, and when they try to do it, the reality of things asserts itself and the reckoning cannot be long postponed.

Detroit Fluoridated

American Dental Ass'n Letter

Detroit last month became the largest city in the United States to adopt fluoridation by referendum, the measure winning by a margin of 5,160 out of 376,796 votes cast. The City Council had previously approved initiation of the program, but the antifluoridationists succeeded in getting the issue on the ballot in the home town of one of the measure's chief opponents, George L. FROM CALGARY — By JAMES H. GRAY

'How Ya Gonna Keep 'Em...'

IN all the palavering that has been going on over rural poverty and the survival of the "family farm", nobody seems to have asked the family farmers what they thought about the "family farm". Last week, however, The Saskatchewan Producer, in a thoughtful and well written examination of the impact of the potash boom on agriculture, posed this question: "Saskatchewan agriculture has been of a high quality, but can that quality be maintained if more and more men on the land become mine workers first and farming becomes a part-time occupation?"

Gray

The answer is plainly "no", for the Producer headlines its article "Potash Development — Agriculture Suffers."

Three potash plants are now in operation in central Saskatchewan with full-time payrolls of almost 2,000. Five additional mines are being built to employ 3,000 more.

The impact of the potash payrolls is firing up local booms all across Saskatchewan and rural municipalities are gleefully cooking up social service expansion plans to be paid for out of whopping potash plant real estate taxes.

Farm Labor Exodus

Farms for miles around are being denuded of help to man the boom in housing construction, town sewer and water installations and trucking and automotive services. All the mines are now recruiting their labor forces from the communities in which they are located. Much of this force is made up of farmers who commute daily from their farms to the mines and will undoubtedly put their crops in and harvest them while continuing to hold their steady jobs.

The Western Producer sums the situation up as follows:

"The mine employs farmers who can meet the physical requirements, their sons and sometimes their daughters. Whereas in other districts young people have to leave the farms to find work, farm families are being kept intact in the Esterhazy district—but only because the farm is a place of residence near the mine and not because of the agricultural occupation.

"The disturbing fact is that some farmers have become miners first and farming has become a part-time occupation in the evenings and weekends. The big, regular pay cheque has determined this.

"As a result of this trend, the Co-op Creamery at Langenburg is reported to be in difficulty because deliveries of the raw product have fallen off sharply. If a farmer with a dairy herd got a job at the mine, he could not do this work and still be nursemaid to cows 365 days a year. So he got rid of the cattle. Most dairy farmers in this position become straight grain farmers. Others who liked to work with cattle switched from dairy cattle to a beef herd on the farm. Agricultural officials say that it is inevitable that the farming operation becomes secondary."

If the family farming as a way of life turns out to be second choice to underground work in a potash mine, what really can be said for the family farm to justify its existence?

The obvious answer—very little—is the one everybody is trying to avoid. But can it be logically avoided?

When the people of the prairies were content with, or at least tolerated, submarginal educational, health and social services, the family farm had its place. Farm children were exposed to a smattering of education in one-room or two-room rural schools. Homeopathic remedies and the pain killer ads took care of the health needs and the farmers made and maintained their own roads, or got by without them.

Educational and social services deemed adequate by modern standards could not be provided farm families scattered across the landscape. The facilities had to be concentrated in larger centres, and the people moved to the services. As the towns became sites for consolidated modern schools, modern hospitals and modern amenities, the isolated farm ceased to be a viable social unit, just as it had ceased to be a viable economic unit.

Move to City

Since the war farmers have been transferring their operations base from the farmsteads to the towns and cities. A new class of absentee farmer has arisen, operating huge grain farms while living in the cities and towns. Here, with the steady expansion of farm sizes, is seen the emerging development of what really amounts to corporation farming, Saskatchewan style. It is the spectre of corporation farming that is alarming farm leaders.

At a recent Farmers' Union convention, a proposal was discussed to place a legal limit on farm sizes to prevent corporation farming. The delegates got a glimpse of the fabulous size of some of the American corporation farm operations from a fraternal delegate.

He cited the case of one California corporation farm which owned 2,400,000 acres, operated a subsidiary feed-lot in which it easily accommodated a single shipment of 90 carloads of cattle. The cattle were shipped from a huge 10,000-head ranch that was owned by a rubber manufacturing company. It was the corporation farms, he said, that drained off the farm subsidies that were devised to help the family farms.

With recent prairie history staring the farm leaders in the eye, it was small wonder they were alarmed. But if large-scale farming will produce food more efficiently and at lower cost than subsistence farms, why fight economic inevitability?

The only possible reply has been that a family on a farm was a social unit of such superior intrinsic worth that society was fully justified in maintaining the unit regardless of the cost.

With the flight of farm families off the farms and into towns and cities, the proposition has been becoming less tenable. Now, with the verdict of the farmers of Esterhazy, who would much rather be potash miners, the most decisive thumbs of all—those of the farmers themselves—are being turned downward. The end of an era may very well be in sight.

Looking Back

From The Times of Jan. 13, 1906:

The Music Festival Chorus met last evening to consider the planned formation of a city musical society. It was decided that such a society would be composed of singing and subscribing members and that there be an executive committee made up of 12 members.

It was agreed that the singing members give an annual concert of sacred music and that a number of free tickets be sent to the city's unfortunate.

The 'Peace Offensive'

By JOSEPH ALSOP
From Washington

THE White House announcement that there had been a direct contact with Hanoi raises, in much more acute form, the same question that has always been raised, from the very outset, by President Johnson's "peace offensive." The question is what the President has been aiming for. Despite the passionate protestations of the administration, the peace offensive has no relation whatever to anything that can rationally be called diplomacy. It is and always has been a huge public relations job, an adman's stunt on an enormous scale.

Alsop

Furthermore, it is and always has been an adman's stunt that could be equally persuasively interpreted in two quite contradictory ways. One theoretical aim was to portray the President, in the most ostentatious and noisy manner possible, as desperately seeking peace and being rejected by the men of war in North Viet Nam.

If this has been the aim (and it may still be the aim), then the purpose of the peace offensive has been to smooth the way for the intensified American effort and the greatly increased defence budget that are now necessary because of the Vietnamese War. After the failure of so clamorous a search for peace, after all, few senators are likely to object to facing up to the necessities of the war.

Opposite

The other theoretically possible aim of the peace ofensive is the exact opposite of the aim outlined above. The country's clear determination to see the thing through in Viet Nam has quite obviously been muddied and diluted, after all, by all these American dignitaries charging about the world, conversing with everyone from the Pope to Gamal Abdul Nasser.

Hardly anyone has subjected these dramatic procedings to any critical analysis. It has been almost universally assumed that it would be a Good Thing, with a capital G and a capital T, if the President's invitations to Hanoi met with a Positive Response, with a capital P and a capital R.

No American politician except Sen. Everett Dirksen has dared to ask a question, because a mood has been astutely created in which potential questioners fear to seem to be Against Peace, with a capital A and another capital P. In the press, the same mood has led to almost identical results.

In this manner, every issue has been confused, every outline of the real situation was obscured. And thus the President may perhaps be able to retreat and to surrender without too many people noticing that this is a retreat and a surrender.

It still seems hard to credit that the peace ofensive's true aim has been to create acceptable conditions for a retreat and a surrender. This kind of scuttle and run would not be characteristic of Lyndon B. Johnson. But the fact has to be faced that the peace offensive has in some measure created these conditions. So the total ambiguity of real aim cannot be blinked or overlooked.

Surrender

Another, even harsher, fact also needs to be faced at this time. The fact is that in present circumstances it is almost impossible to conceive of negotiations about Viet Nam being launched in conditions that would not lead, fatally, directly and irremediably, to retreat and surrender.

There is, in truth, only one kind of negotiation that would not produce this result. This is a negotiation conducted without the smallest relaxation of the pressure on the enemy. The fact that this was the only safe kind of negotiation was clearly recognized, in the President's Baltimore address, when he spoke so pointedly of "unconditional" talks. And this kind of negotiation Hanoi will never accept.

There is some thought in the administration, to be sure, that mutual relaxations of pressure might be justified. The bombing of North Viet Nam might be permanently halted, it is said, in exchange for the recall to the North of the large number of North Vietnamese regular troops who have now invaded the South. Maybe that would be a sound bargain if sure ways are found to enforce it.

But there is no more reason to suppose that Hanoi will keep a promise to withdraw its troops from the South than there was to believe Hanoi's promise to bring its troops out of Laos. And the promise about Laos was flagrantly broken from the day it was made.

Hysteria

Meanwhile, by the adman's drama of the peace offensive, President Johnson has also created conditions in which general hysteria will be the inevitable result if negotiations begin and the pressure on the enemy is not simultaneously relaxed. Imaginably, the President can resist this hysteria at home and abroad; but if these circumstances arise and his resistance is successful, he will have performed a miracle.

That leaves the question whether the president was wrong, or has come to believe that he was wrong, when he made the great and vital American commitment in Viet Nam. For that commitment is now the stake in the play.

To the Editor

Names, Please

In his review of Mr. James S. Duncan's recent book on Red China (Times, Jan. 8) Mr. Burchill states the following: "American officials of cabinet rank have stated categorically that they will not hesitate to use nuclear weapons in the Viet Nam war if their use becomes advantageous."

This rather serious statement would appear to call for some elaboration by Mr. Burchill, who as head of the World Federalists of Canada must presumably know what is going on. Perhaps he could tell us who these officials are, and when such a position was declared. — Trade Unionist.

Le Devoir Editor Seeks The 'Canadian Solution'

By PETER C. NEWMAN

MONTREAL — The man and his setting are somehow reminiscent of one of those Second World War propaganda films glorifying the French resistance movement — all grey shadow and noble enunciations.

Newman

You wind your way past Montreal's financial district to the cobblestone end of Notre Dame, enter through a yawning door that leads into a bare cell of an office, and there broods Claude Ryan, editor and publisher of Le Devoir.

He's a tough man. His face has the aesthetic strength of wisdom born through suffering, with hooded eyes and a nose sharpened to probe a visitor's intentions. His speech is slow, elaborately phrased and casts an incandescent light on any subject under discussion.

Rational Voice

Because his has been the rational voice rising above the staccato din of Quebec's social upheaval, Ryan has become one of the French-Canadian revolution's most influential figures, and certainly its most articulate exponent.

Not since J. W. Dafoe occupied the editor's chair at the Winnipeg Free Press has a Canadian newspaper possessed so much sheer power in forming opinion or attained such a regional resonance with its readers. A continual procession of provincial and federal politicians call on Ryan for late-night chats, to seek his advice and approbation.

It is in his role as the great enunciator of the moderate approach in the settlement of political issues that Ryan has attained his reputation. He adhered fiercely to the moderate line and opted for "the Canadian solution" to Quebec's problems when it was unpopular to do so.

"I realize," he told me this week, "that on both sides people are looking for objective voices. They know that solutions to the difficult problems facing Canada can hardly come from the extremist elements."

Reasoned Opinion

In the pursuit of his ideals, Ryan has turned Le Devoir, which in the Duplessis period was a wild voice of radical dissent, into a journal of sophisticated, reasoned opinion, dedicated to the formulation of policies which will allow both Quebec and Canada to flourish.

Ryan is the leading advocate in French Canada of "the spirit of dualism" — that real thing without which Canada would have no more meaning.

Obedience to his own rigid concept of duty has shaped Ryan's life. A former general secretary of the militant Action Catholique, he has spent most of his professional life in youth work and adult education.

He joined Le Devoir in June, 1962, but for the first two years wrote mostly on religious subjects, advocating a more progressive approach. Appointed publisher in May, 1964, at the age of 39, he now also acts as editor-in-chief, filling in for Andre Laurendeau, who is co-chairman of the royal commission on bilingualism and biculturalism.

Dedicated

Ryan is completely dedicated to his job.

He has no leisure and cares not at all for the luxuries of life. His home is a $110-a-month flat in a working district of Montreal's east end — he drives a stripped-down 1962 Chevrolet. His working day often stretches to 15 hours and he's one of the most prolific writers in the country.

In his daily outpouring of editorial opinions, Ryan is often angry, particularly with mishandling of the nation's business in Ottawa. But his basic purpose is to preserve the Canadian federation, while at the same time perpetuating the separate identity of Quebec.

New Society

"Canada offers a chance to build a new type of society," he says, "a society suited to the development of different cultures without being rigidly or exclusively influenced by one. In time we will develop a new cultural type here that we can't even visualize at the moment."

Claude Ryan may be the first of that brave new breed.

Shastri's Death Crisis for India

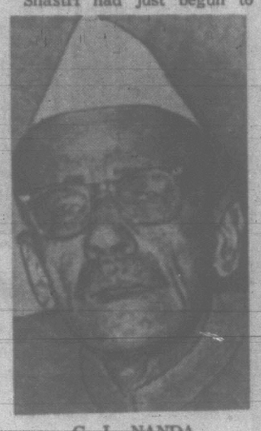

By SELIG S. HARRISON
The Washington Post

(Harrison, an authority on India and longtime resident of the subcontinent, left New Delhi last month after serving as the Washington Post correspondent in India and Pakistan for three years.)

NEW YORK—India faces its second great succession crisis less than two years after the death of Nehru—a more menacing and ominous challenge than the first, casting dark new shadows across an already troubled Asian scene.

The sudden death of Lal Bahadur Shastri has once again left it an open question whether India, with its 465 million people and ten sprawling language areas, can survive as a unified state against the onslaught of divisive internal forces.

Shastri had just begun to

G. L. NANDA

Riding a wave of personal popularity in the wake of the war with Pakistan, the adroit, 61-year-old leader had taken his first halting steps at Tashkent this week toward stabilizing a cease-fire.

He had also given the nod—in anticipation of his planned visit to Washington on Feb. 1—for major domestic reforms designed to spur lagging economic growth.

His successors will inherit a stalemated industrial economy increasingly hard hit by a Western aid freeze started during the war. With action only now charted on long-projected programs for increasing fertilizer output and grain production, food prices are rising and pockets of famine are spreading in Madhya, Pradesh, Rajasthan and drought-stricken southern states.

India has been rudely thrust back where it was in the troubled aftermath of Nehru under circumstances making it far more difficult for leaders of the governing Congress Party to arrive at a quick succession choice.

Nehru's Choice

When Shastri succeeded Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru on June 9, 1964, he was widely regarded as Nehru's choice. In his last months, Nehru had named Shastri as his key lieutenant and trouble shooter. He avoided formally designating him as deputy premier to forestall anti-Shastri manoeuvring but left no doubt that Shastri was his choice.

Now there is no party leader who bears the stamp of Nehru, and Shastri, whose power has rested on intricate manipulations among warring party leaders to keep any one from emerging in a dominant position, has not pointed the way out of the dilemma now confronting Indian leaders.

At the time of the Nehru succession, Madras Congress Party boss Kamraj Nadar held a firm grip on South Indian party factions and was able to build a winning coalition for Shastri around this southern hard core. But in the intervening months the powerful "syndicate" of regional leaders which put Shastri in power has shown signs of falling apart as individual bosses have jockeyed for position and patronage.

Kamraj himself, as one possible candidate for the premiership, would no longer necessarily play the role of a unifying figure in the ranks of the bosses.

Despite the fact that no one party leader has a head start in the race now beginning and that the present crisis has hit the country without warning at a time when no consensus on a successor has been in the making, the mood of self-confidence and unity prevailing in India since the war offers some hope that the Congress will again reach a relatively rapid decision.

Even more than at the time of Nehru's death, the national mood with the war still so fresh in the popular memory may well be to rally round the flag. The test is not likely to come in the immediate future but over a period of months.

Home Minister G. L. Nanda is expected to seek to convert his automatic succession to the premiership on the basis of cabinet seniority into a de-facto permanent decision as he did following Nehru's death. He will be powerfully situated during the present transition to build up his position.

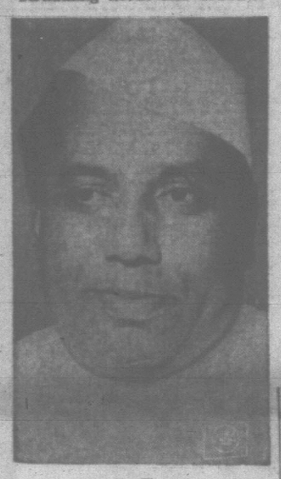

Nanda, however, has been identified with North Indian interests in the north-south dispute over making Hindi the national language and would have a difficult time coming to terms with south Indian Congress leaders. He has no independent power base of his own in his home state of Gujarat.

Party President Kamraj, who worked in a close alliance with Shastri, won an unprecedented victory this summer with the premier in getting the party to rewrite its constitution, permitting him to succeed himself. This coup was driven through the party convention at Bangalore to strengthen Shastri's control of his party in the face of a bid by hard-line Hindu leader Morarji Desai.

Fruits of Victory

Desai withdrew from the battle at the last minute and now Kamraj may be able to reap the fruits of this victory. His selection appears a definite possibility. As a rough-hewn provincial leader with almost no command of English, though, he is regarded by many Indians as unsuited to the premiership and is expected to put his backing instead behind a compromise figure more acceptable to North Indian party elements.

One contender likely to figure in party deliberations is Defence Minister Yashwantras Chavan who has the backing of the armed forces and comes from geographically neutral Naharashtra, straddling north and south.

Y. B. Chavan
. . . backed by army

Chavan gained in prominence during the war but avoided using the conflict to advance his fortunes at the expense of Shastri. He has shied away from projecting himself as defence minister and has disappointed many who expected him, after his impressive record as Bombay Chief Minister, to make a direct bid to get in line for the succession.

The other side of the coin is that he has made few enemies as a result of this low-key role since coming to the capital in 1962 and may thus be able to play a Shastri-like unifying role.

Although some of Chavan's militant anti-Pakistan statements during and since the war have had an anti-U.S. flavor, Chavan has a reputation as a strong anti-Communist.

Chavan clashed with Nehru at the time of the 1962 Chinese border war with a speech questioning Soviet friendship with India on the Chinese issue. Chavan later indicated his belief that the Sino-Soviet split led to changes in Soviet policy.

The emergence of Chavan would reflect the growing influence and prestige of armed forces leaders as a result of the war period. There is a widespread belief in India that the credit for the sharp Indian response to Pakistani-sponsored guerrilla incursions in Kashmir should go not only to Shastri but in equal measure to Army Chief of Staff J. N. Chaudhuri.

As the Congress leader who provides a link between the party and the generals, Chavan appears to be in a strategic position, though it remains to be seen whether or not he will make a bid at the present juncture.

Looking at Modern China Through Eyes of Chinese

By DENIS BLOODWORTH

SINGAPORE—The occasion was an elaborate Malaysian wedding. The eager slip-knot of men in the corner was not closing in on the bride, however, not even on the groom, but upon a young, tie-fingering, slightly defiant Chinese.

He was saying: "My real idea in going to China was to see the family in our old home village, and perhaps get myself a wife. But I couldn't stand the life. Always ordered about. Told what to think. Young people around you going through a miserable existence like a lot of machines. Work, work, work, that's all they can think of. Mention girls, and they tell you you're a good-for-nothing."

War Claptrap

There was a murmur of sympathy, and someone unwisely added: "And then you have to put up with all their claptrap about wars of liberation and world revolution."

It was as if he had thrown a main switch. "What do you mean?" shouted this theoretically disillusioned youth, suddenly electrified with fury. "All Mao Tse-Tung has done has been to make China strong, isn't it? All he's trying to do is to protect the country against foreign attack. Why support North Viet Nam? Because its right on China's doorstep and the American imperialists are trying to take it over by force. And China would be next.

"Why throw out President Johnson's so-called offers to talk? Because if the American gangsters really meant peace, they'd get out of South Viet Nam."

Fall Into Error

The foreign observer wades through the available statistics and reports, the speeches and the Communist press, and sometimes falls into the error of measuring the mood of the Chinese millions with a Western yardstick and expressing it in a single digit:

"Chinese love (hate, deride, honor, are disillusioned with, etc.) Mao Tse-tung today"—delete the words that do not apply. But it is not quite as simple as that.

"Hot-blooded youth" (the expression is the same in Chinese) are enthusiastic about the way Mao has built up China once more into a great independent state. To deduce that because they are not always as enthusiastic about the hard work, the austerity, and the Communist indoctrination that go with this, they are fundamentally discontented with the regime, is a little like saying that the British and Americans are ready to throw out democratic institutions because they have been heard to complain about the income tax that pays for them.

The Peking press claims in fact that thousands of young men and women have been writing to the newspapers to echo an October editorial on the theme: "All our work is for the revolution."

"My work is indispensable to the cause," a night-soil worker is quoted as saying. "Tears came to my eyes when it was announced that China no longer depended on foreign oil," wrote a petroleum engineer. "With every stroke of the broom I strike at U.S. imperialism," said an airport runway sweeper. And there has been much more besides.

'New Peasants'

"Forty million young intellectuals are already fighting on the agricultural front," announces the Peking People's Daily jubilantly, "and every year from now on young intellectuals in great numbers will become 'new-type peasants, at the end of their studies, as part of the 'return to the land' movement."

"And it is true," comments the young Chinese at the wedding. "All young people are eagerly volunteering for all sorts of tasks now in China, like going down to the farms."

But again this is an oversimplification. Later a middle-aged Chinese produces, with a small smile, a letter from his daughter in Canton. It says that as she is "enthusiastically volunteering" to go and do field work in the far north, would he please send her immediately a "very strong letter" giving family reasons why she must not do so, and telling her to stay in Canton or return to Malaysia. Among 700 million souls there must be faint hearts as well as fanatics.

Conversely, the European analyst may nod his head wisely when he reads that the latest slogan in Peking is "eat less when doing less work," and that the press is exhorting the masses to eat no extra food at festival time, give no foodstuffs as presents, extend no dining invitation to friends, and ask for no second helpings. Knowing that cooking oil and rice are rationed, that the Chinese grain production for 1965 probably did not exceed 180 million tons, he foresees flat stomachs and frowns in the average Chinese household —perhaps even trouble ahead.

Plenty to Eat

But then in comes our Amah, waving a letter excitedly. "From my nephew in Canton," she explains. "And look at these prices he quotes for chicken, fish, pork and rice — all cheaper than Singapore. He's told me to stop sending him cooking oil, and sauces, and cooked meat, because they can get plenty to eat now, so I shall only transfer money to him in future. He earns 60 yuan a month (about $35 — technician's pay) but he could do with a bit more."

The elderly widow of a factory foreman tells us she is contemplating retiring with her savings to South China ("The Communist banks pay interest, you know, just like any others"). She is told by other Chinese that on the mainland there is little freedom in the rural communes, and little food in the towns. She will not exactly be eating chicken every day.

Enough Rice

"And who eats chicken every day here? she demands. "My family tell me that at least in South China they get enough rice, and salt fish, and vegetables, and sometimes preserved eggs. What's wrong with that?"

The Chinese have a tradition of hard, simple living in an uncertain and calamitous world. Their demands are modest and they are thankful for small mercies. Modern China must be seen in Chinese perspective, and in terms of Chinese priorities.

Political Mind at Work Has a Whimsical Charm

By GERALD WARING

OTTAWA — There's a whimsical charm about the now-you-see-it-now-you-don't reasoning of the political mind. When it is most baffling, it is often most amusing.

The prime minister's salary is $45,000 a year. The new minister of trade and commerce, Robert Winters, works for a miserable $35,000 a year. He used to get a reputed $150,000 a year in private industry. The $40,000 president of the CBC gets almost as much as the prime minister, while the $75,000 president of the CNR gets nearly twice as much.

Waring

Does this make sense?

Of course, the PM hasn't got a 9-to-5 job. Even when he's asleep he's still prime minister, still technically on duty. Sooo—there being 8,766 hours in a year, the prime minister gets $5.13 an hour. About the same as a plumber in Toronto.

Last week Mr. Pearson had to go to Lagos, the capital of Nigeria. The air force was ordered to lay on a plane and came up with a turboprop Yukon, splendidly equipped for VIP travel—but it would take 19 hours to fly to Lagos. A pure jet DC8, on the other hand, would take only 10 hours.

Now the RCAF has no DC8s. Neither does the department of transport. They cost too much. Six million dollars each. But it's possible to rent one. So Mr. Pearson had the government rent one for his trip, from Air Canada. It's costing the government between $50,000 and $60,000—more if they have to stop at the Azores to refuel; less if they don't.

However, this will save the treasury $92.34 representing, at Mr. Pearson's hourly rate, 18 hours he won't be flying in a Yukon, 18 hours he presumably will be hard at work prime ministering, giving the taxpayers full value for their $5.13 an hour.

When Mr. Pearson contemplated going by RCAF Yukon, he invited newsmen to come along, travelling free on a plane that was going anyway. Twenty-one accepted. When Mr. Pearson chartered a DC8 the newsmen were told they'd have to pay $825 each to help cover the cost of the charter. Seventeen dropped out; only four went.

Now watch closely. Which shell is the pea under?

It's perfectly legit for the PM to take newsmen free in a government-owned RCAF plane, but not in a chartered Air Canada plane. But who owns Air Canada—lock, stock, barrel, nuts and bolts? The government. When it charters an Air Canada plane, it takes the money out of one pocket and puts it in another, and at the end of the fiscal year shifts the money back to the original pocket.

I've no axe to grind. I wasn't going to Lagos anyway. But it would have been in the interest of the Canadian public to have had the kind of full and complete reporting of the Lagos conference that 21 newsmen would have provided.

However, it appears that Mr. Pearson and his advisers were fearful that Mr. Diefenbaker would crucify the government for providing reporters with "a junket" to Lagos at public expense.

So Mr. Pearson, 14 officials, four newsmen and seven Air Canada ground crew—total 26—travelled to Lagos in an airplane that normally carries 133 passengers. Over a hundred empty seats.

The four reporters paid a total of $3,300 towards the charter costs. If the fare had been set at $160 each, probably all 21 would have gone and brought in $3,360.

Playful, Graceful Otter Quite Common in This Area

By DR. CLIFFORD CARL
Director, Provincial Museum

Dear Dr. Carl,

In a lake near our place we regularly see an animal that seems too large to be a mink. Could it be an otter? If so how can we encourage it to stay around?

It is very possible that the animal you see is an otter; these mammals are actually quite common around southern Vancouver Island and consequently they are likely to be seen almost anyplace there is water.

Dr. Carl

Otters should be fairly easy to recognize. Since they may be more than four feet long and up to 30 pounds in weight they are markedly larger than mink, though much the same in general shape and movement. When in the water an otter may be mistaken for a seal but the sinuous movements and the long tapering tail serve to distinguish it.

The only other animal with which it may be confused is the sea otter but this is a rare animal it is hardly necessary to consider it. However, to complete the picture, it can be pointed out that the sea otter habitually swims on its back, floats high in the water and practically never comes on to the shore.

The best way to encourage any animal to remain near human habitations is to feed it. This involves using a type of food that is most attractive to the animal and it should be put in a suitable place and more or less at the same time each day so it is always available when the animal comes for it.

In the case of an otter the most attractive food is probably fish, and almost any kind would do. Clams, crabs or other shellfish would also serve; chickens heads, viscera or other uncooked meat in general would almost certainly be acceptable. Location of the feeding place is not too important; the otter's sense of smell is so keen it can track down food without much difficulty. However, for ease of observation it might be desirable to place the offering near a house or other convenient lookingpost. If the animal is too timid to be lured easily within seeing range it may be necessary to place the food some distance from the house at first and then move the feeding spot progressively nearer the desired place over a period of days.

An adult otter may never become completely at ease near humans but a young animal reared in captivity may become remarkably tame. Such creatures are a great source of pleasure to their owners because of their seemingly boundless energy, their curiosity, their graceful movement both on land and in the water, and finally because of their evident enjoyment of play.

Otters seem to enjoy life more than most other mammals. They seem to be always ready for a romp. Chasing each other in a game of tag or follow the leader, they will tumble through the underbrush or roll and dive through the water like sinuous torpedoes. Their love of a slide, either on mud or snow, is well known. An individual in the Stanley Park zoo, Vancouver, used to spend hours catching a coin on the end of its nose as it sank in its pool and then bringing it to the surface where it was released with a flip of the head.

Otters are thought to be the most aquatic mammal in our area. You are almost sure to see one if you frequent our water ways regularly.

LEAK IN TREASURER'S DEPARTMENT

Drip! Drip! 'You're All Wet'

By JIM HUME
City Hall Reporter

The hard way.

The source of the leak has been known for some time but Wednesday's heavy rain made it impossible to ignore any longer.

Soggy acoustic ceiling tile flopped to the floor and twin miniature waterfalls cascaded down rapidly staining walls and over filing shelves to the floor.

Said one treasury department worker cheerfully: "It's been worse. You should walk in here on a Monday morning after a weekend of rain."

Wednesday afternoon mop and bucket brigades fought vainly to stop the flow—in between bookkeeping chores.

City engineer James Garnett says the original contractors who treated the room with a mastic compound two years ago have agreed to take a look at the roof and see if they can correct matters.

"The trouble is that when we spent the money on renovation we didn't spend enough on the roof," he said.

"Instead of putting on a new roof as we should have, we settled for the less costly method of putting the mastic compound over the existing metal roof."

One bright feature in the otherwise soppy picture is that the contractors have agreed to examine the roof without cost to the city, even though the one-year guarantee on the original job has expired.

In the main lobby immediately behind the receptionists' desk where the old building joins the new, potted plants are getting more than their share of untreated rainwater.

City officials say it would be difficult to estimate the cost of the roof treatment job as it was part of an overall contract.

And they are hesitant about estimating what a new roof would cost.

In the meantime, accountants and engineers draw their plans and add up their figures to the dismal plink of raindrops falling in commandered waste baskets.

"It isn't too bad," said one ledger man, "until it starts to drip down your neck."

While the rains continue it's a matter of two and two, a mop and a bucket make four and the phrase "you're all wet" has taken on literal significance.

GORILLA FOR STAMPS

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP)—With a little luck and 2,400,000 trading stamps, Sylvia will be married Valentine's Day. That was the deadline set by the Friends of the Zoo Society who hope to obtain a mate for the 3½-year-old gorilla at the Baltimore Zoo. Officials of a trading stamp firm say they will supply a male gorilla in exchange for 2,400,000 stamps.

FINAL ACT COMPLETED IN SHASTRI CREMATION

NEW DELHI (UPI)—The ashes of Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri were collected from his funeral pyre today by Holy Men to await an auspicious day for consigning them to the waters of the sacred river Ganges.

This was the final act in the cremation of the Indian leader, who died of a heart attack in Tashkent Tuesday, a few hours after signing an accord with Pakistan.

Led by his eldest son, Hari Khrishan, 30, male members of the Shastri family poured milk and water from the Ganges on the pyre while priests sifted the ashes of the fragrant sandalwood for fragments of bone.

CITY SIKHS MOURN

'Great Son of India' Lived Up to His Name

Shastri was a great son of India who lived up to his name, mourning Victoria Sikhs were told Wednesday night.

Ajaib Singh Sangha, secretary of the Khalsa Diwan Society, sponsors of a memorial service at the Topaz Avenue Indian Temple, said:

"Bahadur means brave—a hero, strong, steady, steadfast, persevering in trials and tribulations.

"Shastri means learned, wise, intellectual. He was expert in the study of Hindu scripture. He was a pandit, a philosopher of divine knowledge."

Both men and women of the temple appeared at the service in honor of the Indian prime minister who died Monday soon after negotiating peace with Pakistan.

The women, their heads covered with scarves, sat along one side of the temple carpet. The men sat on the other side. Western dress was worn by the majority but all traditionally removed their shoes before entering.

There were hymns by a women's choir, accompanied by a melodeon. Dr. Surat Singh Batth, who knew the dead prime minister in India, spoke of Shastri's early life in a poor family.

"There were no photographs of Shastri as a boy," he said. "The family was so poor they couldn't afford photographs."

Bank Pays $2,000 For Lemay

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — A Fort Lauderdale resident credited with helping locate Georges Lemay of Montreal last May has received a $2,000 reward from officials of the Bank of Nova Scotia in Montreal.

A Fort Lauderdale news editor acted as go-between with Canadian officials to shield the identity of the resident.

Lemay was sought by police in half a dozen countries before his capture aboard a boat here May 6, 1965. He was transferred to Miami's Dade County jail from which he escaped last Sept. 21. He is still at large.

Lemay was accused of participating in the 1961 looting of $300,000 or more in cash and valuables from safety deposit boxes of a Montreal branch of the Bank of Nova Scotia.

The Fort Lauderdale resident telephoned the news after he saw a picture of Lemay flashed on television along with a list of other wanted men. The TV program was beamed internationally via the Early Bird satellite.

Man, 74, Guilty Of Having Outboard Motor

A 74-year-old man pleaded guilty in central court Wednesday to possession of an 18-horsepower outboard motor.

William Lundy, 3179 Ayton, was charged with possession over $50 and was remanded to Jan. 20 for sentence.

Court was told he drove a 16-year-old youth to Shawnigan Lake where the youth took the motor from a boat shed, Dec. 22.

The motor, valued at $100, was recovered in the trunk of Mr. Lundy's car Jan. 8 following investigation.

"I rather suspect this situation is not as simple as it appears," said Magistrate William Ostler who ordered a pre-sentence report.

DROPOUT RETURNS TO THE CLASSROOM

He Has to Make Up for Lost Time

By DESMOND BILL
Times Educational Reporter
(Second of two articles)

John G. sat studying in the classroom at Mount View Senior Secondary School one afternoon last week after the other students had gone home.

He looked like a more than usually conscientious student.

But actually he is a dropout who left school in grade 8 and only returned a few weeks ago. Now he is trying to catch up in a hurry.

He was out of school for 18 months and for six of them he was unemployed. The rest of the time he held jobs as a construction laborer, dish washer and hotel porter.

$1 AN HOUR

At the most he earned $2 an hour but usually he got from $1 to $1.25. It was not what he wanted.

But when he tried to enroll at technical school to study and become a diesel mechanic he was refused admittance because of his poor academic standing.

He left school because "I was fooling around and I missed a couple of grades. The teachers bugged me. Also I wanted to buy a car.

"Do you know, I couldn't afford that car even when I was working. I've had it a year and it's still not paid for. I'm going to sell it."

In class John is surrounded by other youngsters who are potential dropouts. They are students taking the occupational course.

Most will end up as sales clerks, waitresses, employees in such places as bottling plants and laundries. But some, like John, may lever themselves out of the occupational program and get into another stream in the schools that will prepare them for better jobs.

Les Matthews, co-ordinator of the occupational program, says some of the potential dropouts in the occupational classes are there "because they didn't want to learn, not because they couldn't."

OCCUPATIONAL

A few of them will manage to lift themselves up into the vocational course offered by Greater Victoria School Board. But most of them will finish in the occupational courses where they start.

They go into it when they reach grade 7 level. Usually they have fallen behind two grades by that time. If they complete the course they have reached the equivalent of grade 10 level.

The course is low keyed and the accent is on job training. In the second year students go on field trips into plants to see a wide range of work conditions.

By the third year they are getting actual training on the job. By special permission of the provincial labor department and with the co-operation of the trade unions, occupational students work alongside employees in stores, plants and offices.

They assist workers on the job but do not actually do the work and in that way they are not displacing any worker from a job. They are not paid for this but it is part of their training for the time when they actually go out seeking a job for themselves.

Getting at least the equivalent of a grade 10 education is important to the students as John found in his job-hunting.

He and a friend went to a mill up-Island and were sure they landed a job until the moment when the personnel officer asked them what level they reached in school.

When they told him it was grade 8 he answered, "I'm sorry. We want people with at least grade 10."

Says John, "It was the same story every time I tried to get any kind of decent job. You'd be surprised some of the jobs for which they were asking grade 10."

Education is not for everyone. But Les Matthews and his staff are trying to make sure that Greater Victoria students get as much of it as they can take and the minimum required to get them a job.

'Narrow Case' Of Impairment

Ernest William Watts, 948 Latoria, was fined $300 for impaired driving Dec. 18 when convicted of the offence Wednesday in central court.

Magistrate William Ostler described it as "a narrow case of impairment" and permitted Watts to use his licence for business purposes.

Evidence was Watts was seen by police coming out of a supermarket in Colwood Plaza. He appeared to stagger toward his car.

Police stopped him at the entrance to the plaza and took him to the city police station where a breath test was taken an hour later revealing a reading of .13 per cent.

He told auxiliary constable E. H. Ferster he had "two, three, four maybe five or six glasses of beer," the constable testified.

Mr. Watts said in his defence he drank only four beers all day. The offence occurred at 6:10 p.m.

Police said he completed physical tests satisfactory at the station, but Magistrate Ostler noted testimony indicated accused almost fell over doing a test at the plaza.

Jewels Missing

LONDON (CP) — Police of three countries are investigating the disappearance of gems valued at more than $360,000. The diamonds, sapphires and emeralds, were posted registered air mail in London Dec. 17, bound for processing and cutting in Belgium and The Netherlands. Post Office records showed the gems never arrived.

'WHOLESALE INDIFFERENCE' PLAGUES TRI-U FUND DRIVE

PRINCE GEORGE (CP) — The Tri-Universities Capital fund drive has been slowed to a stop here by wholesale indifference, a member of the drive's committee said Wednesday.

The committee member said that the group's efforts have run into a definite "what-the-hell attitude."

It was probably sparked by the feeling that private donations to higher education will remain in private wallets until a university is built in the interior, the spokesman said.

Provincial campaign director Alfred Adams of Vancouver said he knew little of the campaign "except that it didn't get off."

FACTS DISPUTED BY CITY DOCTOR

By DESMOND BILL

Instant mysticism—a religious experience supposedly induced by a drug—was described for almost 500 fascinated people at University of Victoria Wednesday.

The speaker was Dr. Richard Alpert, a 34-year-old psychologist.

He said he was fired from a professorship at Harvard University several years ago for supplying a student on campus with LSD—the hallucinogenic drug that, he says, produces "an expansion of consciousness" and "a genuine mystical experience."

His experiments with LSD caused a colleague to describe him at the time as someone "trying to make an end run around Jesus Christ in order to go direct to the Holy Ghost."

Dr. Alpert has taken LSD 300 times but its use is now banned in the U.S. In Canada it may only be used by a psychiatrist.

MIND-ALTERING DRUG

Dr. Alpert said LSD is one of the most powerful mind-altering drugs available.

He said: "This all sounuds rather weird. . . But we think LSD is a new fact. We want to share that fact with you."

Dressed in unpressed pants, open-neck shirt and a sweater, he told his mainly student audience that he appeared before them "not as a fanatic, or as a scientist but as an explorer bringing back a report from inner space."

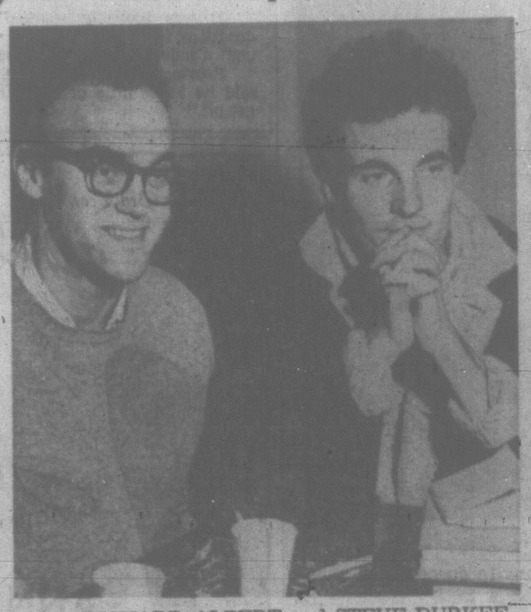

His message: LSD can do instantly what it takes years for Eastern mystics to do using yoga methods of meditation.

He said LSD is a psychedelic chemical like mescaline and peyote. It has been used by such various people as Aldous Huxley, Cary Grant and Steve Allen and they claimed it gave them one of the greatest experiences in their lives, he said.

What does it do? It gives a visionary experience of oneself and of reality such as "that known by the mystics including Christ."

Dr. Alpert said: "Imagine a chemical that gives the same experience that Christ had for half-a-cent a dose."

He said it works this way. For the first 20 minutes after a dose you notice no effect. Then the senses become tremendously altered.

DR. RICHARD ALPERT and STEVE DURKEE . . . spreading the word on LSD

Nerves become more senstive, colors are intensified and if you hear a sound like a trumpet you feel "like you are inside the trumpet note."

Then the dissociative experience starts. Your "concept of yourself starts to fall away." You look at your body and it, too, starts to disappear. "It's pretty frightening."

But at the same time you notice you are prefectly lucid. "You become a point of awareness no longer caught in this particular identity."

The experience lasts eight to 10 hours during which you "see your own life as if you were separate from it. You understand that who you are and how you live is a matter of choice, that you could be different. You discover you are not stuck with the model of yourself that was formed by the age of 6 or 13."

Dr. Alpert said LSD is not addictive and is not physically harmful.

But this was disputed by a Victoria psychiatrist, Dr. Charles Gregory, who spoke after Dr. Alpert.

Dr. Gregory said that suicides can, and have occurred, among disturbed persons using LSD. He said he himself has taken the drug and used it on some patients and that he intends to continue to use it.

But, Dr. Gregory emphasized, he would only use it under controlled conditions for selected persons and for a specific purpose. He was against its indiscriminate use.

Dr. Gregory also took issue with what was said by Steve Durkee, an artist who is in the LSD movement.

Mr. Durkee hushed the crowd when he said, "We're all prisoners; slaves most of us.

"We are deluded by what is here." He waved his hands disparagingly at the room. "All this is reality? I don't believe it.

"This is only one reality among hundreds of thousands of realities. It is possible to get out. All I want to tell you is that it is possible to get out.

"That's all I can say. I think that's enough."

Dr. Gregory commented, "I'm not concerned to seek 'the real reality.' This induced reality is no more real than the kind of reality I personally have."

CASINO DEALERS IN NEW PACT

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI)—Tom Hanley, head of the American Federation of Casino and Gaming Employees, announced Wednesday that for the first time in Nevada history, a union contract had been negotiated to cover casino dealers.

In the past, casino dealers and other workers—such as keno writers, keno runners, slot machine mechanics and change girls—were not covered by any labor agreement.

Medicine Needs More For Research

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government was urged to make substantially higher grants for medical research today or face lower quality medical care for Canadians and lower medical education standards.

A report presented to Finance Minister Sharp and Health Minister MacEachen says medical research needs $150,000,000 for new buildings and equipment in the next five years.

In addition, $100,000,000 a year was needed by 1970 to staff and operate medical research projects. By the end of the decade, the federal government should be contributing $80,000,000 a year for operating requirements.

The report was prepared by Woods, Gordon and Co. of Toronto and presented by a group of medical scientists and educationists from across Canada.

It says the government's proposed $500,000,000 health resources fund to expand all health facilities in the next 15 years appears not to have fully appreciated the capital requirements for medical research of $150,000,000 in five years.

Sharp's Invitation Clarified

OTTAWA (CP) — A finance department spokesman said today Finance Minister Sharp doesn't want to seem ungracious but what he is looking for is recommendations from industry, labor, consumer and similar groups for tax changes in his first budget—rather than a flood of mail from individual taxpayers.

The minister said in a statement issued by his office Wednesday night that he would "like to receive in writing before Feb. 12 any representations which taxpayers or associations wish to present for consideration during the preparation of this year's budget."

The spokesman said this "may have been infelicitously worded," and was not intended to be an invitation to every individual in the country to write separate letters to the minister. The department would be inundated.

"We hope this won't be interpreted as expressing a desire to hear from every taxpayer between now and Feb. 12," the the usual notice which goes out, mainly for organizations and associations wanting to point out problem areas to us."

The spokesman said the finance ministry does receive ideas and suggestions in a steady flow of correspondence from individuals throughout the year. All such suggestions are collected in a book of proposals studied by the minister and his advisers when a budget is being prepared.

What the minister is looking for now, however, are briefs and submissions from organizations representing group interests—industrial and trade associations, labor unions, consumer groups, farm organizations, and the like. Feb. 12 is the deadline for submitting them.

HOUSE NEEDING REPAIR COSTS LANDLORD $150

TORONTO (CP)—Joseph Gottlieb was fined $150 Tuesday for failing to keep a city house in good repair. Daniel J. Arney, tenant in the house, was given a suspended sentence for the same offence. Both were charged under Metropolitan Toronto's new standard-of-housing bylaw which allows housing inspectors to charge both tenants and landlords.

World report on Rothmans

The cigarette of the year

For the sixth year in a row Canada's favourite King Size cigarette has set a new world record for sales. Rothmans King Size is the world's best-selling King Size Virginia cigarette by far. The reason is Rothmans quality. Nobody knows more about making quality King Size cigarettes than Rothmans. And no other cigarette in Canada—or the world—can equal that famous Rothmans King Size quality.

Rothmans the greatest name in cigarettes

Victoria Man Gets Rights To Revolutionary Engine

By AB KENT
Times Business Reporter

Canadian manufacture and distribution rights to a revolutionary rotary engine have been bought by a Victoria shipyard machinist.

Willibald Steinlechner, 710 Front Street, said the agreement culminates lengthy negotiation with inventor Eugen Kauertz, of West Germany, a personal friend since the early war years.

Rotary engines have been mooted for years as the machine of the future, but only one is in production as the motive power for a passenger auto — the Wankel, also from Germany.

COMPACT BUT POWERFUL

FIRMS INTERESTED

So far interest has been expressed by at least two large firms with operations in Canada, the U.S., Japan and South Africa.

Mr. Steinlechner hopes there will be an early application to the Canadian manufacturing and marketing scene.

To help bring this about, the inventor is shipping his friend two sample engines for demonstration purposes.

Freighting will be cheap, since the Kauertz engine has only 22 parts, weighs less than 20 pounds, yet yields 55 horsepower, or 2.25 horsepower per cubic inch displacement.

Mr. Steinlechner says the engine could be applied to a wide variety of uses including motive power, pumps and generators.

Its fuel consumption is claimed to be one-third of convention piston engines.

CONVERT TO DIESEL

And with minor adjustment and use of an oil fuel injector, the same engine can be converted to a diesel.

Secret of the Kauertz engine success lies in its vane pistons and a timing mechanism to coordinate their operation without the use of valves.

It also solves a tricky cylinder sealing problem encountered by the Wankel.

Highly flexible in operation, the Kauertz engine has continuous power strokes and high torque.

The inventor claims that at a mere 60 rpm there is enough torque to drive a vehicle at three miles an hour.

A prototype was tested at 105 hp for 2,800 rpm, and torque continued through 4,000 rpm.

Mr. Steinlechner came to Victoria in 1953 and started his business connection with Kauertz in 1962. He is married and has two daughters, one living in Toronto, the other in Victoria.

U.S. Steel Co. Registers In Province

U.S. Steel Company of Pittsburgh—the titan of world steel companies—has registered in B.C. as an extra-provincial company, it was announced last week in the B.C. Gazette.

It listed its B.C. business objects as: Manufacture and sale of iron, steel, cement, chemicals and other materials and the fabrication and sale of products from these materials.

The notice added the B.C. branch would not be a holding company.

But Vancouver lawyer David Hossie, one of the attorneys filing the registration papers, told the Times he did not know whether the company planned to set up a sales outlet only or whether it would build some plants.

He said he was acting for Corporation Trust, a U.S. firm which specializes in company incorporations, and not for U.S. Steel directly.

PACT ACCEPTED BY OIL WORKERS

OAKVILLE, Ont. (CP) — Shift workers are to report for work Saturday at the nearby Clarkson refinery of British American Oil Co. Ltd. following settlement Wednesday night of an oil workers' stride that started Sept. 15.

Day workers are to report at 8 a.m. Monday.

John Kane, president of Local 9-593, Oil, Chemical and Atomic International Union (CLC), said the two-year contract will be signed today.

The 375 workers who left their jobs in September will receive a 35-cent-an-hour increase on rates of pay under the previous contract of between $2.15 and $3.26 an hour.

Mr. Kane said workers will receive 10 cents an hour retroactive to last April 16, an additional 10 cents an hour from today and an additional 15 cents an hour April 1.

The contract expires April 15, 1967.

A local membership meeting voted 235 to 65 in favor of the contract which was siilar to a tentative agreement reached last Sunday.

Mr. Kane said the new contract also provides the same job security as oil workers in British Columbia got several weeks ago.

Massey-Ferguson Top Exporter

LONDON (CP) — Massey-Ferguson of Britain was top British tractor exporter in 1965, shipping 51,508 units overseas—chiefly to Scandinavia, Australia and South Africa.

British Ford was second-biggest exporter with almost 40,000 units shipped abroad.

Tax Relief Asked by CMA

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Manufacturers Association asked the government today to remove the 11-per-cent sales tax on production machinery to help industry expand and meet foreign competition.

The association representing three-quarters of the country's manufacturers also sought a reduction of the top bracket of corporate income tax rates, greater incentives for industrial research and development, and more help in getting into new foreign markets, especially in Africa.

The CMA's 13,000-word brief was presented by its president, Humphrey B. Style of Toronto, chairman of John Inglis Co. Ltd., and officers of the association to cabinet ministers including Finance Minister Sharp in advance of the annual federal budget. The budget outlining tax changes and other policy decisions is expected to be presented to Parliament in March or April.

The sales tax was imposed in stages on building materials and production machinery under former finance minister Walter Gordon's 1963 budget and became fully effective one year ago. The association sought its removal from production machinery and apparatus. The brief did not mention building materials.

The brief quoted former Liberal finance minister James Ilsley, now chief justice of Nova Scotia, as saying in his 1945 budget speech that some sales taxes have a discouraging effect on modernization of productive capacity. The brief added this still is true.

Power Play Great

Leafs' Record With Penalties Best in League

Victoria Maple Leafs may have problems with injuries, but there's nothing wrong with that Western Hockey League club's power play.

League statistics show the Leafs have scored 37 power play goals, including the four scored in Tuesday's 5-4 victory over Portland Buckaroos.

Portland is next in line with 31 power play efforts.

Leafs also rate among the best in the penalty-killing department. Victoria has been scored upon 22 times while shorthanded, a figure matched by Vancouver Canucks and Los Angeles.

TOTEMS ARE TOPS

Only Seattle Totems, who have played two fewer games than the Leafs, have given up fewer power-play goals, 19.

Victoria's Milan Marcetta relinquished the individual scoring lead to Portland's Cliff Schmautz after being sidelined with a thigh injury last weekend.

But there's a "good possibility" Marcetta may be back in the lineup Saturday night when the Leafs make their next start, against Providence Reds of the American League.

Trainer Gord Marchant reported today that Marcetta, winger Lou Jankowski and defenceman Aut Erickson all are responding to treatment of injuries. Jankowski, like Marcetta, has missed the last three games because of a shoulder injury. A bad back kept Erickson out of the lineup Tuesday.

THINGS LOOKING UP

Marchant feels there is "a good chance" all three could be in the lineup for Saturday's game at Memorial Arena.

Defenceman Sandy Hucul, however, will definitely miss the game. The Leafs' team captain went into hospital Wednesday for a long-awaited, but minor, operation and will be sidelined for a week to 10 days.

"We picked out this particular week last fall," said maanger Buck Houle. "We play only two games in the next 10 days, and we're hoping that those are the only games Sandy will have to miss."

Following are the scoring leaders and complete Victoria statistics, including Wednesdays' Portland-Providence game:

Robbins Likes Foster

INDIANAPOLIS — Billy Foster of Victoria, who holds the Indianapolis Motor Speedway record for a four-cylinder car, was named as driver today on the first entry for the 50th 500-mile race May 30.

Jim Robbins Co. of Royal Oak, Mich., picked him to drive a new rear-engine car with a Ford racing engine. Rolla Vollstedt of Portland, Ore., designed the car and will be chief mechanic.

Foster, 28, qualified his Offenhauser last year at 158.416 m.p.h., a record for the breed, and was running in 11th place at 200 miles when a water manifold broke.

Jim Brown May Leave Browns for New Deal

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Jim Brown, perhaps pro football's greatest runner, said today he is considering leaving Cleveland Browns for a new goal—generating capital for Negro businessmen.

Brown, 29, says one enterprise which will occupy his time includes three leading Black Muslims and will take him into the clouded world of championship boxing.

Profits of the enterprise "will be invested in Negro businesses and organizations to try to bolster the economy of the Negro."

He and five other men have formed Main Bout, Inc., to handle close circuit television and ancillary rights to major boxing matches, including a heavyweight championship bout between Cassius (Muhammad Ali) Clay and Ernie Terrell.

The president of Main Bout is Herbert Muhammad, the son of Elijah Muhammad, head of the Black Muslim sect, and is himself a leading member. Other Muslims with voting rights include Clay and John R. Lee, a Negro attorney in Chicago.

Brown and two New Yorkers, both white—television producer Mike Maltiz and attorney Robert Aarum—complete the group.

The fullback, in Los Angeles to prepare for his ninth appearance for the East in its annual National Football League test against the West, said he is not a Black Muslim.

CASE IN COURT

Ex-Aide Claims Owner 'Welched'

CHICAGO (AP)—A Chicago Bears legal blitz is keeping George Allen from becoming the new head coach of Los Angeles Rams in a growing National Football League rhubarb.

A circuit court hearing on the Bears' petition for a temporary injunction to keep Allen from fulfilling his Los Angeles commitment was continued Wednesday until next Tuesday, Jan. 18.

The continuance came after Allen, 43, the Bears defensive coach, testified he thought he was the new coach of the Rams as of last Monday, but the Bears owner - coach George Halas thought he wasn't.

Allen, an eight-year employee of the Bears who also is director of player personnel for Halas, told Judge Cornelius J. Harrington he thought the breach of contract suit against him should be turned over to NFL commissioner Pete Rozelle.

ROZELLE DISAGREES

Rozelle has said he regards the dispute a matter to be resolved between the Rams, Allen and Halas.

Wednesday's hearing brought a charge by the Bears counsel that owner Dan Reeves of the Rams "is on trial in absentia for what he has done by waving the almighty dollar" to cause Allen to jump a Bear contract extending through 1967.

Allen's lawyer told the court Halas "welched after giving Allen permission to negotiate for the Rams job which he did not think Allen could get."

Allen said he assumed he had verbal permission from Halas to try for the Rams job, but never did get a formal go-ahead during his negotiations with Reeves between Dec. 28 and Jan. 4.

He said it was automatic in professional football that assistant coaches could try to better themselves and that he did not consider the affair tampering by the Rams.

North Dakota Coach Larks' Top Candidate

A spokesman for president Ted Workman of the Eastern Football Conference club confirmed that Mudra is one of three men in the running for the job.

Workman, in a telephone interview from Washington, said: "I have to say that Mudra is one of the three candidates and a very logical choice for the coach's job."

Both Mudra and Workman told the newspaper they have met and the 37-year-old North Dakota coach said:

"I am interested in getting the job. But first I will have to talk it over with my wife and children."

Workman declined to name the other two candidates.

In Montreal, it was reported that they are Joe Scanella, head coach at C. W. Post College in New York, and Jim Ostendarp, coach at Amherst College in Amherst, Mass.

Trimble was fired in November after three years at the Alouettes' helm.

Dave Continues Shutout Streak As Reds Blanked

PORTLAND—Dave Kelly is operating in such businesslike manner that the Western Hockey League's leading goaltender may be out of a job soon.

Kelly, 22-year-old Toronto native, rang up his second straight shutout Wednesday as Portland Buckaroos blanked Providence Reds of the American League 4-0.

Kelly now has three shutouts. He has played in only four games this season and sports an amazing 0.50 goals-against average.

The likeable little goalkeeper got his chance last week when coach Hal Laycoe decided to rest regular Don Head. Kelly proceeded to blank Los Angeles Blades, 9-0; beat Vancouver Canucks, 4-2; shut out the leading Victoria Maple Leafs, 4-0, and followed it up with Wednesday's effort.

RECORD HOLDER

Although he has yet to play a full season, Kelly holds the WHL record for consecutive shutouts—three—and the longest shutout streak—235 minutes, 22 seconds, both set in 1963-64.

Helped considerably by a rock-walled Buck defence headed by Mike Donaldson, Connie Madigan and Jim Hay, Kelly had little difficulty in extending his latest scoreless streak to 145 minutes, 32 seconds.

The Bucks moved to within two points of Victoria as a result of Wednesday's win. But Portland will have to be at its best to keep on the Maple Leafs' tails. Wednesday's game was Portland's last home game until Jan. 26. They'll play their next four games on the road.

Centre Gerry Goyer continues to wield the hottest stick for Laycoe. He scored two goals and picked up an assist for his second straight three - point night. Art Jones and scoring leader Cliff Schmautz, who counted his 26th goal, counted the others for Portland.

The performance extended Goyer's scoring streak to seven games. He has picked up 14 points in that run and has scored in 14 of his last 16 games to climb into sixth place in the scoring race.

Amerks Upset

Buffalo Bisons, last in the Western Division of the American Hockey League, aren't in a position to spot opponents big leads, but they did against Rochester Americans Wednesday night and bounced back for a 3-3 overtime tie.

Rochester, first in the Western Division, led 3-0 early in the second period.

Gerry Ehman, Brian Conacher and Jim Pappin put Rochester ahead 3-0 before the Bisons settled down. Alain Caron, Larry Wilson and Pat Hannigan replied for Buffalo. The overtime period ended with six players, five of them Bisons, in the penalty box after three fights broke out.

DOUBLE TROUBLE

Two big reasons why Oak Bay is being touted top threat for B.C. high school basketball honors are Brian Craig (left), 6-foot, 2½-inch forward, and Bill McCormick (right), 6-foot, 4½-inch rookie. Bays and Victoria Totems tackle top-ranked mainland teams, Burnaby Central and Lord Byng, in weekend exhibition series. Friday's games will be played at Victoria High, while Oak Bay is Saturday's host. Game times each night are 7 and 8:30. (Times photo by Irving Strickland.)

Fast-Starting 'Pegger Fearful Luck May End

TORONTO (CP)—As the Tournament of Champions enters the fifth round today, Canadian curling champion Terry Braunstein of Winnipeg is afraid his luck will run out.

"I gambled for each win in Wednesday's games," said the young skip after he defeated Ernie Richardson's Regina rink 12-10 to lead the round-robin tournament with four straight victories.

"Our luck may hold out," he said, "but the competition is rough and I don't think I played a safe shot all night against Ernie."

The Saskatchewan foursome had Braunstein in trouble after three ends of the fourth-round game. Richardson counted three in the first and added four in the third to lead 7-2.

Braunstein, bothered by the swingy ice, was faced with a practically impregnable house when he went to deliver his final rock in the fourth end.

Richardson, four-time Canadian and world champion, had two rocks hidden on the four-foot ring behind three long Manitoba guards.

TAKES CHANCE BOLDLY

Without hesitating, Braunstein called a combination take-out and raise back on the Saskatchewan counters. His stone was perfect and his rink scored three.

"It was our only chance to come back in the game," Braunstein said. "At first I thought we might score four, but we were happy to take the three-ender."

Earlier in Wednesday's play, Braunstein defeated Doug Cameron of Charlottetown 9-3 and Jim Sharples' Toronto rink 7-5.

Going in today's rounds, Braunstein's biggest problem, both physically and statistically, appears to be defending champion Hec Gervais and his rink from Edmonton.

The 260-pound skip dropped an 11-10 decision to Cameron's rink in the first round, but scored three consecutive victories in Wednesday's play to stand second in the tournament with a 3-1 record, starting with a 9-3 win over Jack Polyblank of Kirkland Lake, Ont.

In other fourth-round games, Polyblank's Northern Ontario rink conceded to Sharples after the Toronto quartet cleaned the house in the final end with the score reading 8-5.

BEATS WORLD CHAMPION

Cameron evened up his record at 2-2 after a thrilling 10-8 victory over Bud Somerville's world champion rink from Superior, Wis. The Prince Edward Island foursome lost earlier games to Chuck Hay's Scottish rink from Perth and Braunstein.

The Scots also remained in contention with a 2-2 record after Wednesday's round. Hay, traditional exponent of the draw game, switched his strategy to defeat both Sharples 8-7 and Cameron 9-5 in hard-hitting matches before losing 17-2 to Gervais.

Somerville dropped three games Wednesday after winning a first-round match 7-6 over Hay.

The U.S. rink, bothered with erratic shooting, lost 8-7 to Richardson, 11-8 to Gervais and to Cameron.

UNIVERSITY CURLERS SCHEDULE OWL 'SPIEL

Come Sunday morn, there's going to be some bleary-eyed collegiate curlers straggling out of the Victoria Curling Club.

Curlers from British Columbia's four universities will converge on the Quadra Street rink Saturday for a mixed bonspiel. Sponsored by the University of Victoria, the 32-rink 'spiel will start Saturday evening, continue through the night and wind up Sunday.

Host Uvic will contribute 14 rinks to the mixed 'spiel while Simon Fraser, Notre Dame and UBC will each supply six foursomes.

PREACHER PAYS

Jury Hooked By Fish Tale

MUNFORDVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — Anglers note: The "moment of truth" is when a fish takes to the bait — not when it is landed.

That was the decision of a Hart County jury Wednesday in the case of a record-size muskie.

After deliberating for nearly an hour the panel ordered the Rev. Otha Durrett to pay $750 damages for pulling in a 51-pound muskie on a pole and line that belonged to Quentin Vance. Vance sought $400 for the fish itself and $5,600 for "great values, prizes and endorsements."

He brought the suit on grounds the preacher "unlawfully defained" the fish.

Last Febuary Vance set out a pole and line in the Little Barren River. The preacher happened along, picked up the pole and — lo and behold — the muskie was on the other end of the line.

The clergyman then proceeded to have the muskie stuffed and mounted as his own.

"Unfair," cried Vance.

COAST QUEEN FACES . . . . . . RUGGED COMPETITION

Victoria's Heather Senior Favorite

Some are looking for places on the B.C. team which will go to Peterborough Feb. 5-12 for the Canadian Championships—but most are seeking their first competitive win.

The competition runs through Saturday night.

Nine of the clubs entered are from the Lower Mainland, six from the Okanagan - Mainline area, three from the northern Interior, two from Vancouver Island and one from the Fraser Valley.

Capilano Winter Club of North Vancouver has brought 24 skaters here in an attempt to retain the team trophy won at last year's event. The next largest entry is from the Vancouver Skating Club, with 11 youngsters competing.

North Shore Winter Club, which last year produced two Canadian junior champions, has nine skaters entered and Kerrisdale Figure Skating Club, which had one 1965 junior Canadian champ, has entered eight.

Favored to win the senior ladies' event is Heather Fraser of Victoria, who last month won the B.C. Coast Championship. Another win would put the youngster in the footsteps of North Shore's Karen Magnussen, who went on to win last year's Canadian junior ladies' crown.

HEATHER FRASER

Joe Summerfield, also of the North Shore club, is favored to repeat his senior men's title win at the Coast championship. He is looking to follow the example of last year's B.C. champion, Steve Hutchinson of the Kerrisdale club, holder of the Canadian junior men's trophy.

Hutchinson and Miss Magnussen are skipping the B.C. competition, to prepare for senior events in Peterborough. Also bypassing the event here are John and Betty McKilligan, the teen-age brother and sister who won the 1965 Canadian junior pairs title. The North Shore team also is headed for senior competition in the nationals.

The Canadian Figure Skating Association, governing body for all skating competitions, has opened a new category for the 1966 championships.

Competitors from across Canada will have a chance at the novice event, which will be open to the top three placers in junior events at sectional competitions.

Kathy Whitworth

Female Athlete Of Year

NEW YORK (AP) — Kathy Whitworth of San Antonio, successor to fellow Texan Mickey Wright as the premier women's professional golfer, was named the Female Athlete of the Year for 1965 today in the Associated Press annual poll.

Miss Whitworth outdistanced Australia's Margaret Smith, the Wimbledon tennis titleholder, in the balloting by 274 sports writers and sportscasters. The golf ace collected 101 first - place votes and 441 points.

Miss Whitworth won eight of the 30 tournaments in which she took part and emerged as the women's pro golf circuit's leading money-winner with earnings of $32,327.50.

Miss Smith, who also captured the U.S. tennis championship at Forest Hills, N.Y., was chosen the top athlete on 36 ballots and drew 206 points.

Maria Bueno of Brazil, loser to Miss Smith in the Wimbledon finals, was third with 204 points.

Marbles Are on the Line As Chinooks Host UBC

Saturday is the big one for Victoria Chinooks.

Victoria meets second place UBC Jayvees, in an Inter-City junior men's basketball game at 8:30 Saturday at Central High.

"UBC is playing hot," says Turner. "Every kid on the club can shoot. But they've never found Chinooks an easy match."

Chinooks edged the UBC squad at UBC in their only meeting this year.

TWO ZONE PRESSES?

If UBC takes Saturday's contest they will be in first place. Chinooks are now two points on top.

To ready themselves for Saturday's match, Chinooks have been thinking zone press, a tactic UBC has been using to some effect.

Turner explains that in last Saturday's game with Killarney, the Chinooks had played for a Killarney zone defence though the mainland team was actually playing man-to-man.

"That's why we looked a bit rugged," says Turner. "But it gave us good practice."

NORTH SHORE ADVANCES

Jayvees will be prepping themselves too for the key match with Chinooks.

The two squads will meet Friday at 8 in the Gordon Head gym.

In Wednesday action, North Shore moved into fourth place by edging Kerrisdale, 52-49, as Warren Clyne popped in 20 points. The winners led at the half, 26 - 23. Bill Humphries scored 15 points for Kerrisdale.

Queen To Watch World Cup Play

LONDON (AP)—Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip will watch the opening soccer match in the World Cup finals between Uruguay and England at London's Wembley Stadium, July 11.

Uruguay, England, France and Mexico are bracketed in the London group. The top two teams will go into the quarter-finals.

The 12 other teams in the final have been divided into three other groups.

UNITED OUTING POSTPONED

Poor Field Conditions Curtail Soccer

Park conditions have forced another delay for Victoria United, but District League teams are ready to make an abbreviated attempt to return soccer to the city sports scene after a four-week layoff.

City parks supervisor Herb Warren declared all pitches "unplayable" for weekend matches with the exception of two fields at Beacon Hill Park.

That means United's scheduled Pacific Coast League date with Vancouver Columbus at Royal Athletic Park has been postponed. Because of weather and Christmas holidays, United hasn't played since Dec. 19.

DISTRICT DOUBLEHEADERS SUNDAY

Warren's Wednesday decision also forced the District League to curtail its schedule.

The District League promptly revised its schedule and has arranged doubleheaders on the two Beacon Hill Park fields.

First division matches will be held on the lower field with Kickers facing Navy and Luckies meeting Canadian Scottish. University will play Sidney and Esquimalt will go against Victoria West in second division affairs on the upper field.

Game times are 12:45 and 2:30.

McIntyre Blanks Varsity Puckmen

Don McIntyre won't soon forget January 12, 1966.

That was the date the young goaltender and his Esquimalt McLaren juvenile hockey mates stepped out of their classification and whopped the University of Victoria Norsemen 3-0 at Esquimalt Sports Centre.

Branby Quits Riders

OTTAWA (CP)—Don Branby has resigned as assistant coach of Ottawa Rough Riders and will be replaced by former Toronto Argonaut end Al Bruno. Branby has been working on a month-to-month basis with the Eastern Football Conference club since December.

RACE OFFICIAL DIES

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—James P. Ross Jr., 58, racing secretary at Gulfstream Park and Suffolk Downs, died Wednesday night.

RIVER 'CLOGGED WITH BODIES'

150,000 Communists, Sympathizers Killed in Indonesia

KUALA LUMPUR (AP)—Malaysian government sources said today that as many as 150,000 Communists and sympathizers may have been killed in Indonesia in the last three months.

The wave of killing broke out after the army accused the Indonesian Communist party, the PKI, of masterminding the attempted coup last Sept. 30.

Recently an average of 1,000 pro - Peking Communists and sympathizers were being killed each week in North Sumatra, another source said.

"The killings were so ferocious in the Medan area," he added, "that the authorities issued warnings to the people not to take the law into their own hands."

One report said parts of the Medan River in North Sumatra "were clogged with bodies for a while." Many of the killers were led by Moslem villagers, sources said.

One source in Singapore said the people, not the army, were leading the purge in some areas.

"In North Sumatra and west Java the situation exploded and the army has gone along with it," the source said. "But in central Java the army is more active in the anti-Communist drive."

The size of the bloodbath "helps to explain some of President Sukarno's fears and why he has called for an end to the anti-Communist drive," a Singapore government source said.

"The army has kept the killings somewhat under control, but this thing is not going to simmer down for a long time. We still do not know what is happening in some remote areas."

In Jakarta, meanwhile, Indonesian student demonstrators demanded the expulsion of Peking's New China news agency from Jakarta. They said the Chinese agency had supported the attempted coup.

Big Jet Needed By Ottawa

(Times Ottawa Bureau)

OTTAWA — The government's need for a trans-oceanic jet has been illustrated twice in the past week, acting Prime Minister Paul Martin said here Tuesday.

Shortly after the news of the death of Prime Minister Shastri of India the Canadian government was faced once again with the embarrassment of having to approach the United States and get its official representative on board the American government VIP plane flying to the funeral.

The Canadian government's jet stars are only capable of flying a limited range. They cannot cross the ocean. The Douglas DC-8's and Boeing 707's are the big jets that fly the ocean. The Canadian government or RCAF do not possess such large jets.

When it had been decided that Prime Minister Pearson should attend the Lagos Nigeria conference it was realized that the 19-hour flight by the RCAF transport command's trans-oceanic turbo-prop Yukons was too long in the air for a man carrying the responsibilities of the Canadian nation. It was decided to charter a DC-8 from Air Canada which could make the flight to Lagos in half the time.

Uvic Man To Assist In Frontier

A Universtiy of Victoria student is to spend three months teaching under-educated, unemployed men at the Elliott Lake Centre for Continuing Education in Ontario.

Gerald Scholefield, 21, of 823 Sea Drive, Brentwood, has been appointed an instructor at Elliott Lake under a joint arrangement by the federal and Ontario governments. He was recruited by Clifford Waite, western representative of Canada's Frontier College.

"He will work with other university men recruited by Frontier College from various universities across Canada," Mr. Waite said.

"For many Canadians, the lack of simple educational skills presents an insurmountable barrier to steady employment. Forty-three per cent of the labor force in Canada, and 70 per cent of the unemployed have less than Grade 8 education."

Mr. Waite siad Frontier College is concerned for the welfare of 500,000 Canadians who now live under bunkhouse conditions.

Frontier College was founded in 1899 in the Algoma district of Ontario by Alfred Fitzpatrick, a Presbyterian minister. Its present headquarters are in Ontario.

Police said he was involved in a rear-end collision Dec. 19 on Esquimalt Rd., told the other driver police weren't needed and drove away.

. . . MEETING

had the Africans feeling they were on the general staff of the drive to beat Smith. There were signs of relief among many delegates including Canada when the communique was hammered out and released.

Some African nations went into the talks in a mood that was angry to the point they might have walked out on the Commonwealth. The seeds of destruction of the 22-nation organization were strewn at Lagos but they did not germinate. Prime Minister Pearson later commented that he had come to the conference knowing it would be a difficult one.

MADE IT EASIER

He was the only head of the old Commonwealth to come, which also made it easier for Wilson to attend. Australia did not participate and New Zealand Prime Minister K. J. Holyoake also stayed home and sent representatives. A total of 19 of the 22 member countries participated.

Ghana and Tanzania boycotted the talks called by Nigeria. Pearson said the issue dealt with was one "which could have had unfortunate consequences not only for the Rhodesian people but for the Commonwealth as a whole if it (the conference) had ended in division."

He added: "The communique shows that danger has been avoided.

"I believe the Commonwealth conference in facing this problem and reaching agreement has shown once again the Commonwealth's capacity for adaptability to new situations and confirms its value as multi-racial association."

The communique hammered out by officials and approved by the heads of delegations at the Federal Palace Hotel conference site showed the agreement reached after a rocky opening day when Britain was bitterly attacked by Sierra Leone and some other countries. It pointed out it was the first Commonwealth conference of its type outside of London and the first held since the Commonwealth secretariat was set up last June. Secretary-General Arnold Smith of Canada also is credited with major achievements in the results reached.

BRITAIN'S RESPONSIBILITY

The communique said the prime ministers reaffirmed that the responsibility for guiding Rhodesia to independence was Britain's but acknowledged the problem is of concern to the entire world. The leaders recalled a 1965 communique that stated that the principle of "one man one vote" is the basis of democracy and should be applied in Rhodesia. The communique expressed their concern at the danger to all multi-racial communities in the Commonwealth if the Rhodesian situation was to continue. It added: "The prime ministers declared that any political system based on racial discrimination was intalerable."

The communique also asserted "the goal of future progress in Rhodesia should be the establishment of a just society based on equality of opportunity to which all sections of the community could contribute their full potential and from which all could enjoy the benefits due to them without discrimination or unjust impediment."

tion to be declared void and it is the government that will be responsible for Yale going unrepresented in the third session of the 27th Parliament opening January 27."

CHIEF CONCERN . .

Mr. Hartley said his chief concern is that there be a quick byelection to give the voters in his riding a chance to choose a representative.

He is not particularly interested in the appeal launched by his lawyer, Gordon Dowding, a fellow-NDP MLA, from Mr. Justice J. G. Ruttan's decision voiding the election nor in NDP Leader Robert Strachan's urging that he force an issue by trying to take his seat on opening day.

"I told Mr. Dowding I would go along with an appeal if he wanted it but I'm not especially interested in that aspect. I will write Premier Bennett today formally demanding a byelection and if he calls one I certainly will order Mr. Dowding to drop the appeal right away.

"And I don't think I'll go to Victoria to hang around the Legislature.

"The election has been declared void and I fell—okay, let's get on with the job of electing someone.

"Whether it's me or Corbett or someone else doesn't matter, that's for the people to decide, but at least let's have someone representing this constituency when the laws are made."

(He was referring to Social Credit candidate Irvine Corbett who lost re-election in 1963 by six votes on a judicial recount and launched the petition to void the result, pressing the case only last fall.)

ATTEND FUNERAL

Mr. Hartley said he was late in learning the results of the court case because he was at North Bend attending the funeral of an Indian constituent's son.

But, while making his way back to his home in Merritt he visited Lytton, Boston Bar and several other communities where he was sought out by residents.

"The people are most disturbed that they haven't a representative in the legislature. Quite frankly, I was surprised because I didn't think they paid that much attention to it. But they are deeply disturbed about it."

"Premier Bennett is obliged to call an election but both he and (Highways Minister) Gaglardi are getting so cocky and conceited they seem to think they can bypass democracy."

Mr. Bennett this morning, asked for his reaction to Mr. Hartley's demand, said only that he would read his letter.

"Any time I get a letter from an MLA I read it with great interest," he said adding, with a laugh, "or any former MLA or any citizen of the province.

SMITH'S CLOTHES TORN BY RUSHING REPORTERS

LAGOS (Reuters)—Distribution of the communique following the close of the Commonwealth prime ministers' conference here touched off a frenzied scene Wednesday night as reporters mobbed an official carrying the documents.

Arnold Smith of Canada, the Commonwealth secretary-general, was shouldered aside and the conference official carrying the papers had his clothing torn as he was rammed against a wall.

for the year beginning next July 1 of $112,800,000,000, revenues of $111,000,000,000 and a consequent deficit of $1,800,000,000. This would be the lowest deficit in some years, the president said.

The military would take $58,300,000,000 or an increase of almost $10,000,000,000 on last year. Of this, $5,800,000,000 is specially marked for Viet Nam.

The non-military sector of the budget would see an increase of only $600,000,000, the president said. The modest increase implied — despite the president's formula for guns and butter too —that the axe has been used on poverty, education and other pieces of the greaty society program launched under the Johnson administration.

Johnson said too the U.S. balance-of-payments deficit would be reduced in 1965 to $1,300,000,000 compared with $2,800,000,000 in 1964. He called for eradication of the deficit in 1966.

Without elaboration, he touched briefly on some old foreign-policy goals and one or two new ones.

The U.S. remained pledged to pursuing controls on nuclear spread and disarmament.

"We will take new steps this year to help strengthen the Alliance for Progress (in Latin America), the unity of Europe, the community of the Atlantic, the regional organizations of developing continents and that supreme association, the United Nations," he said.

He said Congress will be asked to approve an international health and an international education bill for 1966—giving a new shape to foreign aid.

As last year, the president said Congress will be asked to remove special tariff restrictions impeding east-west trade. He also gave a reminder of his intent to make U.S.-foreign aid more effectively used abroad—and contingent on good behavior by recipients—when he forecast "major new directions of our program of foreign assistance to help those countries who help themselves."

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen said appropriations committees will take apart Johnson's domestic money proposals.

"Overly optimistic," said House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford of Johnson's prediction revenues would soar to $111,000,000,000.

Senator Henry M. Jackson (Dem. Wash.), ordinarily a staunch administration supporter, questioned whether defence spending could be held to Johnson's estimate.

There was criticism from both parties for Johnson's proposal that excise taxes on automobiles and telephone calls be restored to meet increased military spending.

"Personally I would rather raise taxes on liquor and tobacco than make the changes the president suggests," said Senator Russell B. Long Dem. La., the new senate finance committee chairman.

built a supersonic transport

Domestically, Johnson outlined plans for attacking city slums, river basin pollution control, crime in the streets and further measures promoting civil rights, including discrimination in renting or selling houses.

There would be another effort to repeal the so-called right-to-work laws sought by organized labor.

There would be designed and build a supersonic transport plane capable of exceeding 2,000 miles an hour.

He also proposed to double the terms of the 435 members of the House of Representatives to four years.

Regina Campus Will Defy Any Fee Hike

REGINA (CP)—Students at the Regina campus of the University of Saskatchewan will defy the administration by withholding part of their fees if tuition is raised, Graham Kelly, president of the student council said Wednesday.

Mr. Kelly at a press conference, said, "we will not tolerate any increase in tuition fees."

A. C. McEwan, university vice-president, said recently consideration is being given to raising fees but added he hoped federal grants would make any increase unnecessary.

FEE $285

Arts and science tuition now is $285. Mr. Kelly said he understood the increase would be $50 and would take effect for the 1966-67 term. Fees were increased about $50 in 1963.

"These fees are the lowest in Canada but we feel we must protest any increase," Mr. Kelly said.

He said the Canadian Union of Students would provide financial assistance if students were fined for withholding part of their fees.

The national student organization also will support students at the University of Victoria if they are fined for withholding fees, Mr. Kelly said.

He said there is at least "a 50 per cent opinion" on the Regina campus that tuition fees should be abolished, and the student council will seek meetings with the provincial cabinet and the university board of governors to fight any increase in fees.

Ex-King Injured

CANNES, France (AP)—Former King Leopold of Belgium suffered chest injuries in an automobile collision Wednesday, his doctors reported. They said his injuries apparently are not serious. Leopold's wife, Princess Liliane de Rethy, was driving their car at the time but was not hurt.

More Stolen Cheques Cashed Here

More forged cheques bearing the name of Dolphin Motors have turned up, police said today.

Theft of six blank cheques from the auto dealer's offices on Pandora Avenue was reported earlier this week.

Three, made out for a total of $350, were cashed at city beer parlors, police said.

A fourth, made out for $150, was also cashed at a beer parlor and reported earlier, bringing the total to $500.

Freighter Sinks

NEW YORK (AP)—The Greek freighter Lampsis, abandoned 700 miles east of Bermuda, apparently sank Wednesday night, the U.S. Coast Guard reported today. All 30 of the Lampsis crew previously were removed unhurt and now are aboard the coast guard cutter Androscoggin. The coast guard said they will be taken to Bermuda.

MORE SUPPORT NEEDED BY PRESS

AMHERST, N.S. (CP)—David B. Rogers, retired editor-in-chief of the Regina Leader Post and past-president of The Canadian Press, Wednesday urged the public to give the newspaper industry more support so accurate and detailed news could be reported.

He said the newspaper industry is concerned because it is seldom supported by the public for "the prodding and prying, weighing, examining and investigating" it carries out in the interest of the people.

Mr. Rogers was addressing the 50th anniversary dinner of the Tantramar Chapter of the IODE. A native of Amherst, he now lives in Charlottetown.

He said with government constantly reaching deeper into the affairs and lives of the people "we must not for a moment lessen our vigilance.

"We can rant and rave and write of evil and incompetence but we cannot uncover these and other cancerous conditions unless there is public alertness and willingness and public action to support our efforts."

Mr. Rogers said it is important to realize that newspapers in Canada operate primarily for profit, the same as any other business. He said newspapers, however, have a greater responsibility than most other enterprises.

6-Month Term For Possession

Walter Fyfe, 1695 Fort, received concurrent six-month jail terms in central court Wednesday when convicted of possession of stolen goods.

He pleaded not guilty at a Nov. 5 hearing before Magistrate J. A. Byers.

SHIP PROBE TOLD

By DAVE MacDONALD

SOREL, Que. (CP)—The captain of the first vessel to reach the blazing cruise liner Yarmouth Castle last Nov. 13 said here Tuesday he radioed Nassau three times and got no reply.

Capt. John Lehto, 39, master of the Finnish motor vessel Finnpulp, was testifying at a marine board of inquiry convened by the U.S. Coast Guard into the fire aboard the liner near The Bahamas. The Yarmouth Castle carried 79 passengers and two crew members to the bottom when she capsized and sank.

Capt. Lehto said he radioed the U.S. Coast Guard station in Miami after failing to raise Nassau and got an immediate answer, telling him to assume command of rescue operations. The Finnpulp saved 93 passengers and crew.

The inquiry, originally scheduled to be held in Montreal, was switched to this port 50 miles downriver after icy conditions prevented the 6,500-ton Finnpulp from leaving its dock. It was held here because the Finnpulp's schedule prevented the crew from testifying in Miami.

Capt. Lehto testified that his ship steamed to within one-third of a mile of the Yarmouth Casle after sighting a "red glow" from about seven miles away at 1 a.m. He saw "a lot of flames with a good hold forward of the funnel and into the bridge area."

GOT NO REPLY

He attempted to communicate with the liner with a signalling lamp but got no reply.

Several distress flares he sighted as the Finnpulp closed with the liner "seemed to come from three lifeboats in the area."

When the first lifeboat came alongside, the Finnpulp took off four passengers and some crew. Capt. Lehto then told the rest of the boat's crew to "go back and look for more survivors."

Questioned about his estimate that there were about 20 crew members and four passengers in that lifeboat, he said he was able to count "because the passengers were white and the crewmen were black."

He saw the Yarmouth Castle list 20 degrees to port 1½ hours after all survivors in sight had been picked up. Half an hour later, at about 6 a.m. it capsized and sank.

Before the hearing began, Rear-Admiral Louis M. Thayer, the board chairman, presented Capt. Lehto with a certificate of appreciation for the officers and men of the Finnpulp on behalf of the mayor and city commission of Miami, for the vessel's rescue work.

The Yarmouh Castle was owned by Yarmouth Castle Lines of Miami.

The board is to meet again in Miami Jan. 14.

'Renewed Fellowship'

ANGLICAN, RC LEADERS PLAN SECOND MEETING

RAMSEY
. . . welcome understanding

POPE PAUL
. . . meet March 23

LONDON (CP)—The heads of the Anglican and Roman Catholic Churches will meet in Rome March 23 in another historic move to strengthen relations between the two faiths. It will be the first such meeting in more than five years.

Accompanying the Archbishop of Canterbury, Most Rev. Michael Ramsey, in his Vatican meeting with Pope Paul will be a number of Anglican officers, including Most Rev. Ralph S. Dean, bishop of Cariboo in Canada.

The 52-year-old Bishop Dean, who has travelled 140,000 miles in the last 14 months, goes in his role as executive officer of the Anglican communion.

"I go to make clear that this meeting is not just one between the Pope and the principal representative of the Church of England but one involving the whole Anglican communion," Bishop Dean said in an interview today. Though London-born, he considers his hometown as Kamloops, B.C.

The last meeting between the two church leaders was the Dec. 2, 1960, conference between Archbishop Geoffrey Fisher and Pope John. Previously no Archbishop of Canterbury visited a pope since Pope Boniface IX received Archbishop Arundel in 1397.

But since 1960 the two churches have found more ground for discussion, visits and means of establishing greater friendship. All sessions of the 1962-65 second Vatican council were attended by Anglican observers.

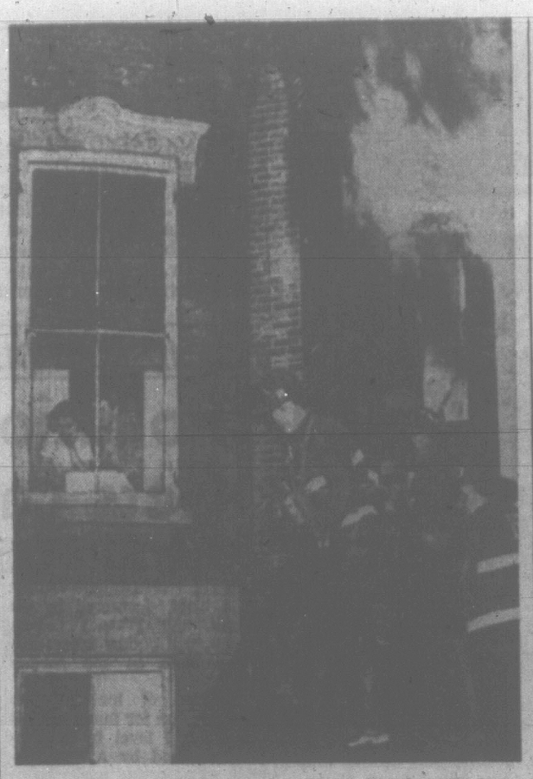

Archbishop Ramsey said his March 23 visit, to be followed by a visit to the Geneva headquarters of the World Council of Churches, will be made "in the spirit of renewed fellowship between all the Christian churches."

"I greatly welcome the increase of friendship and theological understanding now evident amongst the churches of Christendom in spite of the divisions between us," he said in a statement. "It is my hope that my meeting with the Pope will afford opportunity for speaking of some of the matters which emerge from the Vatican council."

WILL TOUR WORLD

Before Bishop Dean accompanies the Archbishop to Rome, he will make another world tour of his own. He will leave next week for Toronto and then go to Brazil, The Philippines, Formosa, Hong Kong, Iran, Iraq, Turkey and then back to London. Bitter Criticism Hurled At Parley by Que. Chief

QUEBEC (CP)—Claude Wagner, Quebec justice minister, lashed out Wednesday against federal representatives who took part with him in last week's federal-provincial conference on organized crime held in Ottawa.

In an interview, he said he had come back from Ottawa disappointed and accused most of the participants of being "spineless and more interested in playing petty politics and being careful not to tread on toes" than in administering justice and carrying on the struggle against crime.

"It does not take a politican" to administer justice, he said.

"In Ottawa," continued Mr. Wagner, "dust was thrown in our eyes. That was the preparation for the conference."

He said Quebec and Ontario were the only delegates which presented concrete proposals.

"When we suggested amendments to the penal code, to the law concerning lotteries, firearms and explosives, and auto-

"The federal representatives said they would seriously consider these matters which would be remitted to a committee for mobile keys, we did not get a single decision," he said.

study which in turn would submit a report to another committee which might be able to take some action next autumn."

Mr. Wagner said the Quebec Provincial Police force has done more in one year to combat organized crime than the RCMP has done since 1951.

The RCMP had done everything in its power, on the first day of the conference, to kill Quebec's proposal for a Canadian Interpol.

In addition, the RCMP had done everything it could finally to settle the fact that only it could be the central gathering point of all police information.

Mr. Wagner said that only in 1961 did the RCMP "start organizing an intelligence network," despite the fact that organized crime had been a problem in Canada since 1951.

Lesage Disagrees With His Minister

QUEBEC (CP)—Shortly after Claude Wagner, Quebec's justice minister, described federal delegates to last week's federal-provincial conference on organized crime spineless, Premier Jean Lesage told a press conference Wednesday his federal government colleagues have never seemed spineless to him.

Questioned about a Wagner comment Tuesday that Quebec jail is a "nest of patronage," Mr. Lesage said: "Patronage has disappeared."

Mr. Lesage said that while he knew nothing of what had transpired at the Ottawa conference, he had certainly never met at any federal-provincial conferences any spineless delegates.

Driver, Pedestrian Blamed For Accident

A coroner's jury Wednesday night blamed both driver and pedestrian in an accident which took the life of Mrs. Annie Bradley, 76, last month.

The jury agreed Mrs. Bradley was at fault because she jay-walked on Pandora Avenue in poor visibility while wearing dark clothing.

Driver Barrie Neff was also blamed because the car he was driving did not conform to Motor Vehicle Act safety standards.

It had several mechanical defects, the jury was told earlier.

Mrs. Bradley died in hospital from multiple internal injuries and fractures of limbs and pelvis Dec. 6.

DIDN'T SEE VICTIM

Mr. Neff testified he did not see Mrs. Bradley or her son-in-law, R. N. Grubb, who received minor injuries, step into the path of his vehicle.

"I felt a bump. I couldn't understand it," he said.

"They must have stepped out from between parked cars."

Policy of Church In Indian Work Hit

VANCOUVER (CP) — United Church ministers were told Tuesday the church's institutionalized approach to working with B.C. Indians is out-dated.

A more up-to-date, flexible approach is needed, said Tom Brown, an Indian community development worker with the University of British Columbia's extension department.

Mr. Brown, who is also a United Church layman, spoke at the annual meeting of the Evangelism and Social Service Committee of the B.C. Conference of the United Church of Canada. Mr. Brown questioned the continued involvement of the church in institutions designed specially for Indians.

Mr. Brown said that "historically, church-operated hospitals and residential schools had a reason for existing, "but I question whether these today have a reason for existing as church-operated institutions."

He said the church should give leadership and provide services in areas where they are not duplicated by other agencies.

A MAJOR REBUILDING PROGRAM began this week at Nahmint Fishing Camp on northern Vancouver Island where up to $40,000 in damage was done in recent storms. Camp owner Gus Beruling (at left) points to several of the buildings which were destroyed.

TRUSTEE DISQUALIFIED

Dr. Jensen was elected in December to represent the rural district of Lantzville.

School officials discovered on a routine check that Dr. Jensen had only been a property owner in the district for two months prior to the election instead of the required 18 months.

The candidate who was defeated by Dr. Jensen, Seth Storey, will be called upon to fill the vacancy.

Four other trustees elected to the board in December were sworn in Wednesday night at the board's inaugural meeting.

FEEDER ROUTE PROPOSED

PRINCE RUPERT (CP) — Establishment of a ferry service between Prince Rupert and the Queen Charlotte Islands and Stewart is being urged as a feeder route for the Vancouver Island-to-Prince Rupert ferry service.

The Chambers of Commerce of the islands and the two north coast towns have agreed to press the government for the ferry, which would be based at Prince Rupert.

Teen Town Studies New Hall

DUNCAN — Hoping to spur local councils into recreation action, Duncan Teen Town is busy getting plans for a community hall.

Adult adviser Jim Quaife said Wednesday night the group had plans from a Vancouver firm for an 11,200 square-foot building.

The cost of the steel-type consturction would be $25,000.

Mr. Quaife said Teen Town was also consulting with four other firms.

He said: "If there's a promise of joint action between the City of Duncan, North Cowichan and unorganized areas to start a recreation complex, Teen Town would try to get their building."

He said the youngsters' organization would donate its plans plus money and materials.

Mr. Quaife said: "We could perhaps pay for half the building outright.

"Members have already raised $1,200 and have the promise of materials to a value of about $4,000."

Duncan Teen Town celebrates its first birthday Jan. 16.

Mr. Quaife claims a fruitful year. The group has 370 members.

Achievments, besides raising $1,200 for a hall include $75 to a burned out family; $50 toward cost of Kinsmen annual children's halloween party; $25 to Cowichan Christmas Cheer fund; Christmas candies to children in hospital; and regular dances with an average 183 teenagers attending.

Mr. Quaife lists on the debit side an attempt to revive Duncan's July 1 Dominion Day celebrations.

He said: "This went over like a lead balloon because of lack of adult public support."

Pension Talk Set on Radio

DUNCAN CONTROVERSY

Music Club in Crisis? Executive Not Certain

By DON DINGWALL

In a Wednesday appeal to the public, club president John Bargus said there is a crisis.

For the first time, the club is having to pay professional musicians to perform as the orchestra for the March production of Gilbert and Sullivan's Gondoliers.

Mr. Bargus says: "The club budget simply doesn't have that kind of money."

But his vice-president, Mrs. Polly Elder, leads a group which dismisses the idea of a crisis—at least this year.

She says: "The Gondoliers music was scored for dual pianos. And the club can afford two pianists."

Mr. Yelland said: "The crisis is not that the club is being held up at the point of a gun by the musicians' union. Duncan musical club has reached the point where it must pay musicians or deteriorate, or go in for smaller productions."

He said: "The musicians' union has bent over backward to be helpful."

Mr. Bargus said the problem was that the last time the club made any real profit was five years ago with a production of The Mikado.

He agreed the club had no strong dispute with the union.

The club budget allowed $250 for orchestra costs but this year the cost was going to be in excess of $1,000.

This was the reason for the financial appeal to the public.

Mr. Bargus said the future hope was for the club to become an incorporated society and set up a patrons' list.

Mrs. Elder said a majority of the musicians who came to Duncan to play were from the HMCS Naden band.

Because most of them also played with the Victoria Symphony orchestra, they had to be union members.

However, Duncan club has an agreement with the musicians to make a kickback of $7 out of each union scale $12 payment.

Arne Bo of Victoria, local secretary of the Musicians' Union, said Wednesday: "We were very understanding with the Duncan club.

"They fished around behind our backs to get union musicians to play for nothing.

"I contacted Peter Yelland and the union agreed to let its members play in Duncan.

"What the members do with their money after they get it is none of my business.

"There has been no pressure from the union. It has been the contrary. We have given the club exactly what it wanted, including permission for professionals to play with amateurs."

Supporting her plea for two Lewis, both former accompanists for the Duncan Club, are the dual pianists for a production of Trial By Jury.

Whatever the arguments, the Gondoliers will go on in Cowichan High School auditorium March 3, 4, and 5.

The municipality, which has 217 miles of road, borrows a sweeper from Victoria, with only 153 miles of road.

Municipal engineer Neville Life said Saanich streets should be swept more often. Curbed streets should be done at least once a month.

He said a sweeper could be kept busy for 100 days a year and cost less to operate than borrowing one from Victoria which wasn't always available when Saanich wanted it.

Annual cost of hiring a sweeper is $9,000, but operating a Saanich sweeper would be $6,400 including wages for a driver.

The public works committee will give the subject further consideration before a decision.

TO PRAIRIE PEOPLE

PAIR TO SOFT-SELL ISLAND WONDERS

A pair of Vancouver Island bus drivers will take a month off at Daffodil Time to pre-sell Prairie people on the splendors of the Island for summer holidays.

John Bamford and Wayne McArthur have established their own travel promotion business with a new slickly-published color, black and white advertising booklet titled Call of the Coast.

Victoria and Vancouver Island Tourist Promotion Service will have as subscribers local firms relying on tourist industry, resorts, fishing camps, transportation interests and others.

Object of the operation is to get as many prairie dwellers committed to Vancouver Island as possible by the time the season opens.

To do it John and Wayne will take their booklet, additional promotional material from clients, a flower-decked booth, 45-minute color slide commentary and a 20-minute sound-color film to public presentations in Calgary, Edmonton, Saskatoon, Regina, Winnipeg and other Prairie centres.

FRIENDLY ATTITUDE

"We're going back with a friendly, soft-sell attitude to give the people an idea of what to expect when they arrive on the coast," Mr. Bamford said.

The drivers will travel by car and be away from home April. 11 - May 11.

How did the pair conceive the idea?

"Tourists deal with us as Grey Line drivers on a very personal basis," Mr. McArthur explained.

WHERE? . . .

"They ask us everything — where to stay, where to eat — so we thought we may as well pre-sell Victoria.

"We felt the tourist industry is getting increasingly competitive and we wanted to go out and do something about it.

"We're aiming at the man who makes about $5,000 a year and who wants to take a vacation, not the ones who make $10,000 or $12,000. He's going to jump on a plane for Nassau," Mr. Bamford said.

Polygamy Outlawed

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (AP) — The Central African Republic has outlawed polygamy, the Congolese press agency reported Tuesday. The decree of the new military government is effective immediately, but not retroactive, the agency said. An estimated 40 per cent of the Central African Republic's 1,250,000 people are Moslems, permitted by their religion to have as many as four wives.

'150' Dash Hopes Of Librarians

Victoria librarians hoped for a confrontation Wednesday night with the book-banning Section 150 Committee but their hopes were dashed when no committee representative showed up for the meeting in the Students' Union Building on the University of Victoria campus.

The meeting was sponsored by the Institute of Victoria Librarians. Professor Tony Emery, chairman for the evening, commented about the failure of committee representatives to appear:

"Apparently the time is not ripe for a revelation of their sentiments."

But those who did attend heard from Bill Duthie, noted Vancouver book seller, of what happens when a store puts on sale a work that police think is obscene.

He said police walked into his store last September and confiscated a copy of Last Exit to Brooklyn, the book that last year was also removed from Victoria stores after a city alderman objected to it.

Mr. Duthie got five experts, including Roderick Haig-Brown, an author who is also a magistrate, to testify that the book is a serious and significant book.

A psychiatrist gave evidence that the depraved type of persons, with whom the novel deals, are found in Vancouver as well as Brooklyn.

But it was no use. Despite the expenditure of $2,000 in defence costs the book was ruled to be obscene. An appeal is now being made to a higher court.

Mrs. Helen Rodney, head of the reference section in the Uvic library, said Last Exit to Brooklyn is on the university shelves.

And she cautioned librarians to be firm in resisting pressures from self-appointed censors. Mrs. Rodney said the censorship laws are ridiculous.

Most controversial books deal with sex, she stated. "Love, legal in fact, is illegal on paper. But murder, illegal in fact, is lawful on paper.

Mrs. Rodney and Professor Emery took the stand that there should be no censorship, not even of hate literature.

Both cited surveys which indicated that most sexual crimes involved persons who were not readers of anything, not even pornographic or smut literature.

C. Saanich Orders Rezoning Halt

No rezoning applications will be considered by Central Saanich Council for the next three months.

Tuesday evening council decided to defer any rezoning until a new zoning plan for the entire municipality is received from the Capital Region Planning Board.

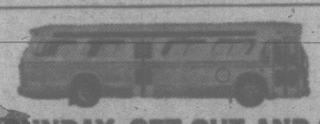

The up-dated plan is now being prepared and is expected to be completed in early April. It will cost the municipality about $1,000.

Deferment of rezoning applications was recommended by municipal clerk Fred Durrand.

THREE PROPERTIES

The decision will primarily affect the three properties in the municipality, presented zoned as special commercial. Council last month gave two readings to a bylaw removing this zoning, contending it would permit undesirable development.

Strong objections to rezoning the property back to agricultural was registered by one of the owners, Phillip Bushy, of 7851 Collins Road. He wants his land rezoned for marina use, but council has hesitated on this point.

Modified Heating Leaves Them Cold

The public works committee of Victoria city council Tuesday approved the expenditure of $3,000 to bring the Centennial Square heating system up to scratch.

But committee members were ont happy at the thought of having to spend money to repair a relatively new heating system.

"I am wondering why brand new equipment is breaking down so early in its life," said Ald. Hugh Stephen.

MODIFICATION

City engineer James Garnett said when the system was installed a shortage of funds forced modifications of the original design.

"I don't recall any instance where the cost of the heating system was cut," said Mayor A. W. Toone.

Mr. Garnett said the matter never came up in committee but that is was indicated at the time that funds were running short and that subsequent changes were made by the designer.

TWO FAILURES

The system, which provides heat for McPherson Playhouse, the senior citizens' centre, the parking garage and other buildings surrounding the square, broke down twice during the Christmas - New Year holiday period.

The heating system is comprised of a boiler and a series of pumps which distributed heated water to the buildings.

Mr. Garnett said the main trouble lay with the pump providing water to heat city hall.

NO STAND-BY

With no stand-by unit available when the pump failed city hall went without heat.

Problems are also being experienced with the pump providing McPherson Playhouse with heat.

Mr. Garnett said it is leaking seriously and is being studied by the designer.

Mr. Garnett added that every effort will be made to have the manufacturer of the equipment make good the faulty parts.

Sentence Suspended

A 19-year-old youth who escaped from the Wilkinson oRad jail on Oct. 15 was given a one-year suspended sentence in Victoria County Court Wednesday.

The youth, Michael Connolly from Kitchener, Ont., was serving a jail term at Wilkinson Road for the theft of a sum exceeding $50.

Judge Montague Drake told him he must report once a month to the probation officer during the suspended sentence and must provide finances for his wife.

VICTORIA, B.C., THURSDAY, JANUARY 13, 1966—PAGE 21

Arthur Mayse

Life continues to lay its little problems on our doorsteps, and if we're lucky, we manage to solve them with dignity and grace. If we aren't, we can land ourselves in some mighty exotic foul-ups, as was the case with an amiable non-conformist of my acquaintance when he undertook to bath his dog one day this week.

Our guy, who had never scrubbed a pooch before, pondered his assignment until he evolved a procedure that impressed him as both logical and neat.

This was to place old muddy-pelt in the family tub, climb in with him, turn on the shower, and get busy with dog shampoo.

Phase one went smoothly enough. The German shepherd, whom we may as well call Dunder, permitted himself to be boosted into the tub, and was delighted when the boss peeled off and joined him.

Phase two, which consisted of lathering the four footed chum with doggy - bubble, proved more difficult, on account of Dunder being ticklish under the arms and chin.

It was finally completed, however, and all was now ready for phase three. This was to be a session of rub-a-dub-dub under the shower.

Our fellow proceeded in orderly fashion to close the curtain. Then he paused to give Dunder some reassuring pats on his head.

Then he twisted both faucets, and all hell broke loose.

Dunder lunged against his master, causing him to skid on the shampoo-slick porcelain and sprawl in the tub, where the dog alternately danced on his chest and stomach, and tried to burrow under him.

He grabbed for the shower curtain to heave himself up. Unequal to the strain, the rod slipped its moorings, spilling the rest of the pine tar shampoo on the floundering pair, and tenting them in daintily-flowered plastic.

Dog leaped through the curtain, leaving a German shepherd-sized hole.

Man expanded this gap, crept out, and received a charge of suds in his eyes as furry friend paused to give himself a vigorous all-over shake.

Blinded, our hero, or victim if you prefer, was pawing and crashing around the bathroom in a cloud of steam when his wife intruded long enough to thrust a bundle of her oldest towels into his grasp.

"See you clean everything up," said this calm chatelaine, who then retired to the safety of her living room

"So," her husband reported moodily to a couple of us later, "I cleaned everything up.

"I cleaned the walls, the floor, the ceiling and the tub, and I used my last towel on Dunder.

"That left me. The shampoo had dried all over me in big yellow flakes. I gave the mirror a wipe, and in it I appeared to be covered with feathers, like some large, ugly bird."

Since we've tagged along this far through the misadventures of one who undertook what had every appearance of a simple, innocent and worthy task, I suppose we might as well go the route with him.

While his dog cowered in a corner, he stepped under the shower, which by this time had exhausted the hot water and was spraying liquid ice from the Sooke hills.

He hopped out, shrieking, struggled into his clothes, and fled the house with Dunder at his heels.

He is still badly shaken by his experience.

Also, he is convinced there must be a way to give a dog a bath which would be less traumatic for both parties involved.

"I've thought of buying more shampoo," he mused over coffee, "then taking Dunder to some lonely beach, soaping him up, and throwing sticks for him to fetch. But he's spoiled, he would expect me to go in with him."

Meanwhile, his dog isn't speaking to him . . . his wife, all smiles and chuckles, is planning a new bathroom decor . . . and when he walks in the rain, you can still smell pine-tar halfway down the block.

SINGING IN THE RAIN may be fine for crooners, but no voices were lifted in joy in the City Hall treasury department Wednesday afternoon as rain swilled through a leaky roof and over record shelves. Pert Linda Holtum, a receptionist-typist in the department, arrived at work prepared for the worst. The records and ceiling may suffer from the steady trickle but, umbrella armed, her hair-do remained untouched by the elements.

B.C. HIGHEST RATE IN MANUFACTURING

Pay Better in Evergreen Land

British Columbians enjoy the best average hours of work and wages in Canadian manufacturing.

This is disclosed in federal labor department statistics covering conditions in the manufacturing industry.

For the last month available — July — British Columbians worked an average 37.8 hours a week for an average $2.59 an hour.

Alberta came second in average hours at 39.9 and Ontario was second in average wages at $2.21.

The labor department estimated 1.5 million Canadians worked in manufacturing industries, including 121,700 in B.C.

British Columbia also led other provinces in the table of average weekly wages and salaries in manufacturing.

Again in July, the last month compiled by statisticians, the average in B.C. was $101.40 a week. Ontario was next with $94.31.

The petro-chemical centre of Sarnia, Ontario, led Canadian cities with the highest average weekly wages and salaries — $116.24.

REFLECTOR LICENCE REQUESTED

Auto Club Gives Brief to Cabinet

B.C. Automobile Association today asked the provincial government to introduce reflectorized five-year vehicle licence plates to cut down night-time accidents and cut down licence costs.

The association also asked for a three-pronged attack on the accident rate, including establishment of a special accident investigation division, compulsory vehicle testing stations and stiffer penalties for impaired and suspended drivers.

The delegation representing the 123,000-member organization, led by president Earle G. Adams, met with the cabinet during the noon hour.

It said B.C. should follow the lead of several states and provinces of Manitoba and Alberta which have decided to issue reflected licence plates.

CUTS REAR-ENDERS

"Wherever the reflectorized plates have been used, experience has shown a substantial reduction in night-time rear-end collisions which are a leading cause of traffic accidents and fatalities," the BCAA brief said.

It added that a survey showed the present cost of producing the annual vehicle plates is $154,000 a year, which totals $770,000 every five years.

"A five-year reflective plate program would cost approximately $557,000 — and $12,000 per year for validating tabs . . . a total of $605,000 or a saving of approximately $165,000 over the five years," the brief said.

The association recommended the government "consider adoption of a permanent reflectorized licence plate" on safety and economy grounds.

The delegation also said there is an urgent need for an accident investigation division —correlating the work of the motor vehicle branch, engineering, enforcement and medical agencies—"as well as investigate the causes of all accidents and initiate remedies for their prevention."

BELOW AVERAGE

It pointed out that Vancouver city accidents, where there is a compulsory motor vehicle testing program, include only 1 per cent attributable to mechanical failures compared with the Canadian average of 9 per cent.

The group also asked the government reconsider the proposed fares to be charged on the Queen of Prince Rupert run from Port Hardy to Prince Rupert starting in May.

'Talented Artist' Jailed 3 Years

Remington Convicted Of Break-In

A former drug addict, said to have "much talent" as an artist and writer, was sentenced to three years in the B.C. Penitentiary today on a charge of breaking and entering and theft from Clark and Cordick's feed store, 2503 Douglas Street, last Sept. 9.

Crown prosecutor Kenneth Murphy said Remington had spent a total of 12 years and three months in jail over the past 20 years.

Defence counsel Dermod Owen-Flood said Remington had been a drug addict but cured himself of the habit while in jail.

"Since 1958 he has never been associated with drugs or been in any way addicted to them," counsel said. "There is a great deal of good in this man. He has much talent as an artist and a writer, and he has sought work whenever it was available."

PAINTED COVER

(Later it was learned that Remington painted the cover of a magazine while in jail and had since written an article on Vancouver's Skid Row, published in a Vancouver newspaper.)

Mr. Owen-Flood said Remington had been "fending for himself" since the age of 12 when his father joined the services and left him without home, relatives or means of support.

After his release from jail in 1964, he spent 10 months working as a logger and diamond driller and at various odd jobs in the construction business.

"He has made every effort to make himself a useful citizen, but he has led a very chequered existence," counsel said.

Remington was found guilty after a three-day trial of breaking and entering Clark and Cordick's feed store and stealing cash and cheques to the total value of $800.

Shirley Lalonde, 21, from Bellingham, Wash., was acquitted on the same charge, but was sentenced to 60 days in jail for having possession of stolen money amounting to less than $50.

TWO CHILDREN

Mr. Owen-Flood said she had two children in a broken marriage. She had no previous criminal record and was anxious to return to her parents in Bellingham after serving sentence.

"Her parents came to see me in Victoria and they assured me they will look after her," counsel said. "She is a young and impressionable girl and she was staying at a house in Victoria with hardened people."

"She has been through the ordeal of four months in custody

Maj.-Gen. Rockingham stops to chat with member of the ranks at Work Point parade farewell.

ROCKY TAKES FINAL SALUTE

In a brief press conference following the parade, the general, head of Western Command, said his retirement had nothing to do with integration of the three services.

"I was offered this civilian job and my retirement was due in six months, so I took it."

Of integration, he commented: "It's a good thing. It will save duplication of jobs and cut down on spending."

ONLY COURSE

His opinion of the Viet Nam war: "I support the American stand. It's the only course they can take to prevent the flood of communism."

On the parade ground he told the assembled men they were doing a wonderful job as a peace-keeping force — "keep it up."

Looking back over his 33 years of army duty, in World War II and in Korea, the greying general said:

"I've got no regrets. I'd do it all over again if I got the chance."

Hawaiians Eye B.C. Ferries, Says Loffmark

Local shipyards may get a chance to build B.C. government-type ferries for the State of Hawaii, Trade and Industry Minister Ralph Loffmark indicated today.

He told reporters he spent the Yuletide holidays in Hawaii discussing ferries and forestry development.

Mr. Loffmark said the Hawaiian government is interested in developing a ferry service to connect its islands and wants all the information it can get on the B.C. ferries and how they have affected Vancouver Island's economy.

FOUR INVOLVED

He said at least four ferries would be involved, likely similar to the sea-going Queen of Prince Rupert which would be suitable in the Hawaiian waters.

Asked if local shipyards which built the B.C. fleet—particularly Victoria Machinery Depot which built many of the queens including the Prince Rupert flagship—would have a chance to obtain Hawaiian ferry contracts, Mr. Loffmark replied:

(The Queen of Prince Rupert contract was worth about $6.5 million.)

Mr. Loffmark said he had to be extremely cautious in his replies because the ferry design and routing questions were hot political issues in Hawaii.

"All I can say is that they have asked us for information and we're giving it to them," he said.

ECONOMIC STIMULUS

He said reams more information will be mailed, including deck and space plans of the B.C. car ferries as well as the economics of operation and the economic stimulus they provided to Vancouver Island's development.

"I looked at several of their islands, particularly their headlands and the situation is very similar to this Island," said Mr. Loffmark. "They don't have ferries serving their islands at the present time, only barges for freight."

Mr. Loffmark, who returned earlier this week, said he had made a report to his cabinet colleagues on his trip.

He revealed three other factors in his report:

- Sales will be clinched soon for B.C.-made logging equipment — worth between $100,000 and $200,000 — to Hawaiian interests;
- Their forest industry, particularly hardwood plywood manufacture, is expanding rapidly but is no threat to B.C. exports, being complementary and involving only a tiny fraction of our production;
- A market for liquified petroleum gas for domestic cooking exists among Honolulu's 5,000,000 people which, when added to the developing Tokyo market, "could tip the scales" towards development of Vancouver as a major LPG exporting centre.

New Car Wiped Out In Chase

A wild chase up to 80 mph early today through city streets resulted in demolition of a $4,000 automobile stolen from Peter Pollen Ford, 1060 Yates.

Police are looking for a youth in his late teens or early 20s in connection with the incident.

Constables D. G. Sleivert and Bill Huckin gave chase at speeds estimated at 80 mph. The incident happened at 1:16 a.m.

The police officers pursued the stolen vehicle east on North Park, north on Chambers for three blocks to Empress.

There the driver lost control of the sports sedan, sideswiped a power pole, continued for another 125 feet, hit a fire hydrant, then knocked down a street sign 45 feet away.

Police said the car finally came to rest at the intersection of Bay and Chambers.

They saw a young man leap from the vehicle and run away west on Bay St.

A tracking dog was used in the search for the driver but he lost the scent on Empress Avenue.

Police said the car was damaged about $3,000. Its speedometer read only 88 miles when it came to rest.

Police said the thief tampered with a chain at the car lot and drove away in the new vehicle.

Welfare Chief Quits to Take Ontario Post

Executive director of Community Welfare Council of Victoria, Jack Anguish is resigning to accept a post in London, Ont.

Mr. Anguish, who has been here five years is returning to the position of executive director London United Community Services—a post he vacated in 1961.

He held that position for five years also.

Mr. Anglish was surprised today when informed of a Canadian Press news items revealing his appointment.

"I haven't heard anything in writing," he said, although he had been in negotiations with the London authorities. And his proposed move had not yet come before the directors of the welfare council here.

Electrical Men's Pay Boosted 19%

A conciliation board has awarded a 19 per cent wage boost to B.C. Hydro electrical workers.

The raise will be spread over three years in steps of 7, 6 and 6 per cent in a contract binding on union and management.

The new contract is retroactive to April 1 of last year and also contains a reduction in the work week from 40 to 37½ hours, effective June 1, 1967. Wages will still be paid for 40 hours.

Hydro employs approximately 1,800 electricians in British Columbia, represented by the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers. There are about 200 on Vancouver Island, about half of them in Victoria area.

The negotiations for the contract began in March, 1965, and many other changes in working practices and conditions were included in the settlement.

NEW CONTRACT

Hydro officials who announced the new contract, said a journeyman lineman prior to the increase was paid $3.42 an hour, or $136.80 per week.

Retroactive pay due this category of employee would be in the neighborhood of $350 at this time.

The conciliation board award was described as unanimous.

Members of the conciliation board were G. W. Rogers, Vancouver real estate dealer, as chairman; Vancouver East MP Harold Winch, delegated by the IBEW, and J. Noel Lyon of the law faculty of University of B.C., as company delegate.

Tundra Environment Influences This Art

By Penny Saver

The arts of a nomadic people are beautiful in their simplicity. They portray the way of life of the group—their foods, weapons, hunting implements, and superstitions. Their arts depict a type of existence that one would think extinct in this modern era.

The ookpik that crazed the nation is a heroic bird. The story goes that an Eskimo woman was saved by one of these Arctic owls, so, in gratitude, she made a replica of one out of seal skin.

In one Victoria shop, original Arctic owls range in price from $3.50 to $10, depending on size. These are made by Canadian Eskimos, out of seal fur. Bits of seal skin are used for the eyes and nose of these creatures.

Miniature seals, made again of seal fur, sell for $4. Their front paws and flippers are made of the skin. These are really adorable creations. I made a gift of one recently, and it really made a hit.

Another inhabitant of the northlands, the Arctic goose, is miniatured in seal too. It stands on hard, seal-skin feet, and is priced at $4.

Many fascinating figures, carved from soapstone, range in price from $2.95. An interesting amulet, a small charm carried for luck and safety while hunting, sells for $2.95. It is a stone face, with a leather thong attached so that it won't be lost.

Baskets, well-made from long, tough grasses, are an example of the domestic arts. These baskets have lids, with soapstone handles. These sell for $4.95.

Slippers and mittens, made of a heavy, woolly fabric called duffle, sell for $5.50 the pair. The slippers have high sides that cover the ankles, and attractive Eskimo designs.

Do you want to know where Penny found these Eskimo arts? Give her a call at 382-3131.

Young Jet-Age Look Seen In Spring Canadian Styles

TORONTO (CP)—Color and youth will set the pace for spring fashions in Canada, judging by what is selling at the Garment Salesman Ontario Market at the Royal York this week.

"The older generation, such as myself, are beginning to accept it."

"The Courreges influence is the greatest for all clothes. A modification of the geometric lines is combined with a filtered-down version of Mondrian as we knew it, or art and a lot of prints and color sets, but not a multi-color splash."

Mr. Kates said color combinations are popular, with camel and white heading the list.

"Skirts still are short, but not shorter.

"The pant story is just phenomenal. Pants for every occasion are selling, mostly in a more slimmed down line than the bell bottom.

"Swimwear has become an ensemble with tie-in jackets and skirts."

Coat and dress costumes and costume suits are selling. Dresses show the influence of the 1920s and 1930s with long torsos and swinging skirts.

Mr. Kates said fashions are making the trip from New York to Canada much faster than they did a few years ago.

"Maybe it's because of the jet age, but the days when a style took a year to get here from New York are over.

"In smaller areas public acceptance still takes a little while. I think the main reason is that the high fashion look isn't as important in the smaller centres as in large cities.

"It isn't price, because when a thing comes into fashion it filters down through the price ranges quickly. If it's way out it will sell in high fashion and then be adapted for the mass market."

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Steel, 1728 Foul Bay Road, announce the forthcoming marriage of their son, Cpl. Lance Thomas Steel, RCEME, to Miss Donna Mae Cooper. The bride-elect is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Cooper of Dorval, P.Q. The wedding will take place on Saturday, January 22, in Dorval United Church. Following the wedding, the couple will leave for Soerst, Germany, where Cpl. Steele has been posted for the next three years.

DEAR ABBY...

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Four of us girls who work together have lunch at a small luncheonette every noon. We leave work a few minutes early to be sure we get a booth. We eat our lunches at a normal rate. The place fills up quickly, and when we have a cigarette leisurely with a second cup of coffee, the glares we get from the customers who are standing over us, breathing down our necks, are enough to kill. We ignore them as though they weren't even there. We do not intentionally sit there just to be mean. We've paid for our lunches and think a second cup of coffee (and a third if we feel like it) with a cigarette is not taking advantage. We'd like your opinion.

THE FOUR DOLLS

DEAR DOLLS: If you can, in good conscience, sit and have a second and third cup of coffee "leisurely," while others are standing and waiting to be fed, then you must expect glares. (I would glare, too.)

DEAR ABBY: I am planning my wedding and would like your opinion on something. We are making up the guest list, and my parents want to invite so many people who are strangers to me and my fiance that we are not able to invite many of our friends.

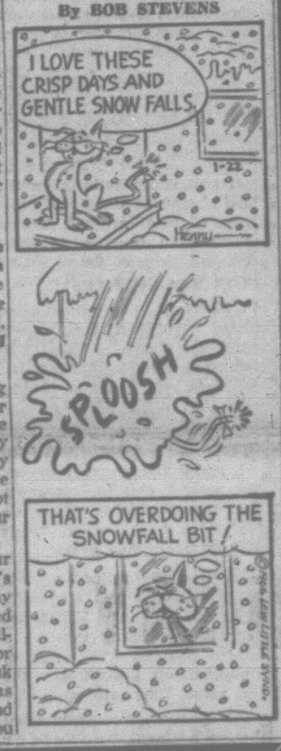

The church is small and our finances are limited. My father's business acquaintances and my mother's club ladies have used up most of the guest list. I realize my parents are paying for this wedding, but I don't think my wedding should be used as an occasion to pay off social and business obligations. How do you feel about this, Abby?

BLUE BRIDE

DEAR BRIDE: The close friends of the bride and groom should be first on the list, followed by relatives, and then close friends of the couple's parents. Since the number of guests must be limited, a compromise should be made. Casual acquaintances of the couple, and business and social friends of the bride's parents should be invited only if there is room.

Troubled? Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

CLEMENTINE By BOB STEVENS

SAYS SIZE IS NO OBSTACLE

Tiny Woman Becomes Judo Expert

SASKATOON (CP) — Size is no obstacle to a woman learning judo, says five-foot-four Mrs. Peter Stevens.

"People are always staggered to think that a small girl can do judo better than a big, muscular one, but it works on a system of levers," she says.

Mrs. Stevens has reached the blue-belt level. Stages of proficiency are designated by advancing through the colors red, white, yellow, orange, green, blue, brown and black.

"I once threw a man six-foot-two, a police inspector. He must have weighed 200 pounds."

A tall person also is easier to throw than a shorter one. "If you're lower than he is, his centre of gravity will be at your shoulder level which is where you're working from."

As the centre of gravity is at the waist, you have to attack from below your own shoulder level to throw a shorter person.

Mrs. Stevens says judo is of real value to a woman who must walk home alone on a dark street. But her training backfired once, she admits. In her native Manchester, England, someone grabbed her from behind. She flung the attacker to the ground before discovering it was a friend trying to have some fun.

He was a judo expert and "should have known better," she said.

Entertain Newlyweds

Mr. and Mrs. H. Gerald Milburn will entertain at a family reunion and buffet supper Sunday evening for newlyweds Mr. and Mrs. Richard Reed. The honor couple was married in Duncan United Church Saturday in a quiet service at which Rev. B. Knipe officiated. The bride, the former Mrs. Laurie Pattinson, wore a dress of beige brocade, complemented with a hat en tone and bouquet of pink carnations. Her only attendant was her sister, Mrs. E. Anderson, Duncan, who was in a suit of turquoise wool with matching hat. Mr. Anderson was best man. A luncheon and reception followed in the Andersons' Duncan home. The newlyweds are now making their home at 1853 Crescent Road.

Family Dinner

Reservations are already being made for a family dinner, to be held in the clubhouse of the Royal Colwood Golf and Country Club on Sunday, Jan. 23, from 4:30 to 6:30 p.m. Members will be joined by their children and friends for the festive affair, which will feature a buffet-style meal, offering Southern fried chicken, roast pork with apple sauce, the club's specialty, deep-fried sausage, and other items. The meal will be capped with a trifle pudding. To entertain the children, it has been arranged to show films after the dinner.

Hosts Speaker

Following the meeting of the Women's Canadian Club, Wednesday afternoon in the Empress Hotel, members of the executive entertained guest speaker, Mrs. R. J. Bower, at tea. Presiding at the refreshment table were Mrs. D. Leslie Macdonell and Alderman Lily Wilson. Attending were president Miss Elizabeth Forbes, Mrs. H. H. Youson, Mrs. R. T. Wallace, Miss Jessie Gordon, Mrs. John Brown, Mrs. Frank Mack, Mrs. T. C. Evans, Mrs. Dal MacLeod, Mrs. C. L. Smith, Mrs. A. S. Stringer, Miss Mary Ashworth, Miss Kathleen Agnew, and Mrs. T. H. Johns.

Announcement

A wedding of interest to many Victorians took place, Wednesday, in the chapel of St. John's Anglican Church, when Miss Isabel Margaret (Peggie) Jackson became the bride of Joseph Leslie Buckley. Canon George Biddle officiated at the quiet ceremony. The bride, well-known in tennis and badminton circles in the city, was formerly a staff member of James Richardson and Sons, and the groom, before retiring here in 1961, was an official of the Saskatchewan Wheat Pool in Regina. Following a honeymoon trip to California, the couple will make their home in Victoria.

Ski Trip

Dr. and Mrs. M. J. Penn and family travelled to Vernon recently on a ski trip. They returned to their Rainbow Street home on Sunday.

RHODESIAN-BORN SPEAKER

A look at the other side of the much criticized apartheid question of the Republic of South Africa was given by Mrs. R. J. Bower Wednesday afternoon.

Speaking to the Women's Canadian Club in the Empress Hotel, Mrs. Bower said, "Most people are justifiably critical of the 'apart-ism' or separation both politically and socially of the Negro and white races. But many don't seem to know what the white government is doing for the Negro.

"Following the Second World War, a tremendous change occurred in Africa; prewar Africa was mainly governed by the European colonial powers," she continued. After 1945, one colony after another was granted self-government.

The white government of South Africa practiced apartheid to keep white supremacy, even though they were outnumbered four to one by other races. They were determined, she stressed, and still are, not to give the Negro the right to govern until he is fully educated and equipped to accept the responsibility.

She cited the fighting in the Congo and economic and political chaos in other recently autonomous countries as results of ill-prepared self-determination

PREPARATIONS

To begin the project of preparing the Negro for governing, she said, the white government drafted a series of eight Negro states, to be ruled mainly by the Banto (negro) with white aid. The first of this was the Transkei, homeland of the Bantu.

The area known as the Transkei, she continued, is about half the size of Scotland and much resembles that country. Here the Bantu is assisted and aided by the whites in agricultural methods and industry to help them in self-determination.

Education is playing an important role in this project. Serving the 270,000 students in the Transkei are 630 schools manned by 5,000 native teachers. Advanced teaching is available in a college and the government has opened industrial schools and even schools for the disabled to help with the problem.

The white government at Pretoria, though, she noted, still retains "the say" in foreign affairs, customs, broadcasting, currency and telephones.

"At present," said Mrs. Bower, "the government of the Republic of South Africa is treating the Transkei simply as a developing colony."

However, if this proves successful, and the rest of the plan of eight similar projects becomes reality, then the republic will combine in a commonwealth of negro states.

President Miss Elizabeth Forbes welcomed the guest speaker, who was thanked by Mrs. R. B. Wallace.

IN STEP WITH STYLE

By NONA DAMASKE

Japanese Designer Wows Fashion Writers

NEW YORK — The transportation strike is still on and as we are transported from place to place by cars and buses, we are gazed upon as if we had just dropped in from the moon. The fashion shows are rolling along . . . a little late and often a model or two short . . . if you can't get there you can't and no one can help.

Damaske

Taking his inspiration from the Maiko . . . the lovely junior Geisha girls, Hosono has developed a collection of light and bright evening clothes, gay and festive at home or play clothes and smart and elegant daytime costumes. Clothes carry at least one authentic Japanese touch . . . bamboo running up the front of an evening dress, kimono sleeves and sash ties beautifully placed and court obies translated into stunning one-of-a-kind dresses. In the January issue of Vancouver Life I found a Japanese expression which seems to tell the story of this collection. SHIBUI . . . Japanese balance of opposites . . . perfected artlessness . . . pronounced understatement . . . refined, a consciously arranged interplay of color.

ALL OF SILK

Next stop . . . the Grand Ballroom of the Plaza Hotel for the "Brilliance of Silk" show arranged by the International Silk Association of U.S.A. This is an outstanding show as it is a preview of designs from each collection seen throughout the week. Eighty-seven of the most outstanding silk garments are chosen to introduce the visiting editors to shows to come. This show is a magnificent production. The runway was thickly scattered with golden glitter . . . the backdrop was a huge butterfly whose wings fluttered gently to allow the models to enter and exit. Mobile butterflies swayed gently about the ballroom and the floral table centrepieces had golden butterflies bursting out like shooting stars.

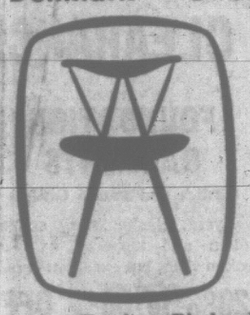

This is the moment of truth when fashion impressions begin to take shape . . . the Spring and Summer 1966 Look emerges as a living story. The look may be slightly exaggerated for the average woman but the indications are there as to what turn fashion is taking. The shortness of skirts is a bit shattering . . . they have not moved up a gentle inch or two but have climbed two and three inches above the knee. When the long torso look is added there just isn't much skirt at all and what there is is inclined to be 'flirty with frills and flounces.' It is definitely a season for the young . . . little smocked dresses worn with pale hose and strapped slippers make one think of girls' birthday party dresses.

"Little Nothing" is an expression which comes to mind as the short late day silks parade the runway. String straps supporting short slender shafts of silk look almost like slips. Colors are brilliant and there is lots of glitter. Hair is very short and earrings very long . . . bouncing on the shoulders in many cases. High slender heels are non-existant . . . shoes say late day by being bare and strappy.

The water shortage is not acute but no water is served with meals and there are notices in every room to conserve water. The downtown hotels are jammed as those who live in the suburbs check in to be sure of getting to work. Hotel staffs are staying in the buildings in order to insure service. Stores are open only on a part-time basis and theatres have tickets to offer even for the top shows . . . my roommate Shirley Davis of Davenport, Iowa, today obtained tickets for us to see Ginger Rogers in "Hello Dolly," which has been booked solid for months . . . bad luck for some people is good luck for others.

TODAY'S RECIPE

ALMOND CRUNCH COFFEE CAKE

Half cup brown sugar, packed; 1 2/3 cups sifted all-purpose flour, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, ½ cup roasted diced almonds, ½ cup granulated sugar, 3 teaspoons baking powder, ¾ teaspoon salt, ¼ cup shortening, 1 egg, ½ cup milk.

Blend brown sugar, 2 tablespoons flour, cinnamon and butter until crumbly; stir in almonds.

Sift remaining flour with granulated sugar, baking powder and salt.

Cut in shortening until well dispersed. Beat egg lightly with milk; blend into flour mixture.

Spread half of dough in greased 9-inch square pan. Sprinkle with half of almond mixture.

Repeat layers.

Bake in 375-degree (moderately hot) oven 25 to 30 minutes.

Serve hot, cut into 3-inch squares.

Makes nine squares.

Ironing Hair Presents Hazards

SYDNEY, N.S.W. (Reuters)—Hairdressers here have been warning Australian girls, who use the household iron to achieve a "straight look" hairdo, that they can damage their hair.

The girls get rid of their curls by dampening their hair, laying it on an ironing board and running over it with a warm iron. They save up to $15—the price they would have to pay to have their hair straightened in a salon.

But, as one leading city hairdresser said: "Ironing is bad for the hair. If heat is applied like this, it will dry the hair and the girls could even burn their scalps. After such treatment, the hair would remain straight for only a few days at most. As soon as it gets wet, too, all the curls and waves will return."

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Most Obvious Way of Losing Weight

This is the fourth in a series of articles in which Josephine Lowman brings you her Beauty Improvement Plan in an attempt to help you lose up to 20 pounds in just eight weeks. Clip the special menus and exercises which appear each day so you may re-use them. Today Josephine Lowman talks about food and YOU!

Well, they did it again! The turkey and dressing and gravy and plum pudding landed just where I didn't want them to. What about you? This the appropriate time to make New Year's resolutions and the time when they are most likely to be put into effect — when the seams are bursting! Act now before you let them out. Don't weaken!

Lowman

Want to join the fun? Thousands and thousands of women are following my Eight-Week Beauty Improvement Plan, many of them for a loss of 15 or 20 pounds in eight weeks. Others wish to see how much they can improve their appearance generally and perfect their measurements in eight weeks.

If you have been following this program, you have now analyzed your figure, decided what your ideal weight is, and weighed and measured yourself. You have also been using the sample menus I have published each day.

The main reason for overweight is simply eating more food than the body needs. The rest is stored as fatty deposits. In a small percentage of cases a glandular deficiency may play a part but this is so rare that you can probably forget all about it.

No one food is fattening or slimming. Any food is fattening if you eat too much of it. However, some foods bring you so many calories that if you indulge in them heavily or regularly, there are not enough calories left for the essential foods and the variety of foods a good reducing diet requires. There just isn't room for many of them or frequent consumption of them when you wish to lose weight.

Clip the menus I am printing. They have been carefully planned and calorie calculated. These will give you a start and you can also refer to them when I analyze them for you on next Monday.

SAMPLE MENUS

BREAKFAST

One large orange,
One egg, boiled or baked;
One slice of whole wheat toast,
Coffee or tea with one teaspoon sugar,
One teaspoon butter may be used on egg and toast.

One glass skim milk (8 ounces),

Use low calorie dressing on salad and no more than one teaspoon butter on roll.

DINNER

Fish fillet—3 x 4 x 1 inch—with lemon juice,
Medium-sized baked potato (seasoned with chives or chopped parsley, or onion or garlic salt),
One-half cup carrots,
One-half cup green beans,
One cup of custard made with an artificial sweetener.
You can use one teaspoon of butter on vegetables.
TOTAL calories for the day 1,185.

If you missed the first part of my Eight-Week Beauty Improvement Plan, it is not too late to join. You can start in right now using the menus and exercises.

My BIP Kit gives you directions you may have already missed, and more, along with a unique chart on which you can plot your progress and see your beauty line rise as your weight line drops. If you would like to have this kit, send 25 cents plus 15 cents for postage and handling, and your printed name and address to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

ACTING ON INFORMATION SUPPLIED BY CONSUMERS' ASSOCIATION OF CANADA

Sizing of Women's Clothing Now Under Study by Special Federal Government Board

The Canadian Government Specifications Board asked the Consumers' Association of Canada what its members thought of the present sizing of women's clothes.

CAC carried out a survey, as the result of which a large number of letters and well over 2,000 completed questionnaires were sent to the national office in Ottawa. It will take several months to sort the information, but some things are already apparent.

There is little uniformity in sizing of dresses made by different manufacturers. One size 10 may fit perfectly, others may be too large or too small for the same person. Many women say that they find that, because more expensive dresses are better cut, they are comfortable in a size smaller than they would buy in cheaper dresses. In fact, cheaper dresses in small sizes appear to be designed for the teenage market, because bust darts are usually too high for the more mature figure.

Nor can you be sure that the right size for one kind of garment will be the right size for another. One woman (36-26-37) tells CAC that she buys size 10 in a shirtwaist dress, size 7 in a party dress and size 14 in shorts.

Small women dislike having to wear the same styles as their teenage daughters. Size 8, for example, seems to be regarded by manufacturers as only a teenage size.

Tall girls feel neglected by dress designers. Older women complain that there are few attractive ready-made clothes for the more mature figure.

Many women commented also on the workmanship of ready-made clothes. 'Skimpy' was used frequently to describe the workmanship of ready-made garments. Many have inadequate seams and hems. As a result, an increasing number of women do their own dress-making to get the proper size as well as style and a wider choice of material.

Several women asked why blouses were so short that they rode up and exposed a strip of bare back whenever they bent over.

No questionnaire fails to produce some amusing results. It was surprising how many women could not bring themselves to reveal their hip measurements, even anonymously. One lady modestly gave her vital statistics fully clothed, and we liked another's observation that narrow skirts are not graceful for mature women when seated.

The Consumers' Association of Canada hopes that its findings will help the clothing industry to work towards better sizing of women's clothes, to the benefit of manufacturers and consumer.

Andy Stephen Looks at TV

Well, kiddo, television's "second" season has hit us complete with a "KRUNCH," "KAPOW," "ZLONK" and "KLONK."

Stephen

"Batman" ushered it in with the biggest hunk of hilarious hokum ever to fill the television screen. It's right out of Detective comics and aimed right for the viewer who enjoys his laughs a la tongue-in-cheek.

All that's realy missing is the Saturday matinee atmosphere filled with juvenile shrieks and bagfuls of popcorn.

Batman is ABC-TV's answer to the mediocre season enjoyed so far. In our area, Channels 6 and 9 get the jump on Channel 4 by putting the twice-weekly episodes back-to-back in the 5 to 6 p.m. Tuesday period.

Batman (Adam West) and Robin the Boy Wonder (Burt Ward) have the gimmicks and dialogue to out-Bond James Bond.

Their nuclear-powered Batmobile has "more lives than a cat." It carries, among other things, a hidden laser beam, a special parachute setup to allow it to turn on a dime at high speeds, a special fire extinguisher, a Batray to konk out car engines and special fireworks to attract attention.

Some dialogue: Batman, in a go-go club, is offered a table but declines with the comment: "No, thanks; I shouldn't wish to attract attention."

Robin informs Batman of The Riddler's plans (he's an arch-enemy, by the way) which he heard while feigning unconsciousness. Batman: "Nice listening, Robin." "Aw, gee, it was nothing," says the blushing Robin.

The pair, high up on a ledge, saw off a window bar and as Robin is about to let it drop stories to the ground, Batman admonishes with: "No; remember—pedestrian safety." They finally hang it on the wall on a special suction-cupped bathook.

As Jill St. John falls to her death into the nuclear reactor in the Batcave, Batman says: "What a terrible way to a-go-go."

Frank Gorshin, the impressionist, played The Riddler in a delightfully maniacal manner. He was not a special guest star but billed as "special guest villain."

Give the network its due. The new series is played for laughs right down the line. The narrator's words even ring with the tried and true hokum spirit.

There's a poke at fun, too, in the athletic-hero Batman's physique. He and many of us have one big thing in common. It's that affinity we label middle-age spread.

N. VIET OFFERED 'FULLEST SUPPORT'

SINGAPORE (Reuters)—Ghana has offered North Viet Nam fullest support in what it termed the struggle of the Vietnamese people for self-liberation, the North Vietnamese news agency reported today.

President Kwame Nkrumah made the offer in a message to North Vietnamese President Ho Chi Minh, greeting the 21st anniversary of the Viet Nam People's Army last month, the agency said.

WORKER HASSLE

Ferry Decision Due in 10 Days

The civil service commission will recommend a solution to a New Year's Day ferry workers' dispute in about 10 days.

More than 140 B.C. Ferries deck and catering personnel are involved in the matter stemming from introduction of a tighter sailing schedule and resulting in a walk-out that cancelled three holiday sailings.

Closed door hearings between employee and government representatives were completed Wednesday by commission chairman Dr. Hugh Morrison, who had no comment to make.

The parties had been asked not to discuss the hearings until Dr. Morrison's recommendations are handed down.

Attending the hearing were representatives of B.C. Ferries including lawyer Louis Lindholm, and lawyer Marney Stevenson, spokesman for unlicensed personnel on ferries running between Swartz Bay and Tsawwassen.

The hearing began last week but was adjourned at the request of Mrs. Stevenson.

On New Year's Day, two ferry crews staged a walkout protesting the new sailing and working schedule.

This calls for hourly instead of two-hourly sailing every Friday, Saturday and Sunday throughout the year.

Ferry crews now must work 12 consecutive day shifts, four days off, 10 consecutive night shifts and so on. Previously, in the slack season, they worked one week on, one week off.

Under the new working schedule, days off must be taken Monday to Thursday. Ferry employees said this means only a few weekends a year at home with their families.

Individual ferry employees have expressed favor for a schedule of five day shifts, two days off, five night shifts and so on.

Unlicensed personnel are seamen, stewards, bus boys, waitresses, stewardesses, cashiers, cleaning women and cooks. Licensed personnel are officers.

IN ELEMENTARY SCHOOLS

Sex Education Answer Is 'No'

TORONTO (CP)—Mr. Justice Emmett Hall of the Supreme Court of Canada asked Wednesday whether sex education should be given in Ontario elementary schools.

Spokesmen for the Federation of Women Teachers' Associations of Ontario said no.

Mr. Justice Hall asked the question as chairman of a session of his committee on the aims and objectives of education in the province.

He wondered whether the curriculum should be constructed to provoke questions about sex and whether the human reproductive system should be taught in the same detail as the digestive system.

Florence Henderson of Sault Ste. Marie replied the federation's view is that all elementary school education should be aimed at meeting the current needs of the children rather than at preparing them for adulthood.

"There's not an awful lot for kindergarten to Grade 6 on the formal digestive system," she said. "It's not a need to often met at this early stage."

Federation President Margaret Grant of Toronto said that while teachers shouldn't dodge children's questions about sex, they "have to be very careful that they do not trespass on the rights of a parent."

There is a place for limited sex education toward the end of Grade 6 and in Grades 7 and 8, she said.

Mr. Justice Hall said he understood that some parents shirk their responsibility about telling their children about sex.

"Should the school be prepared in that situation to take over?" he asked.

Miss Grant said teachers and parents should work together so teachers can learn what parents think.

Virtues of Marriage 'Immoral and Evil'

TORONTO (CP) — Pre-marital sex is not necessarily bad for today's youth in view of the changing pattern "of relations with the opposite sex," Sidney Katz, a Toronto newspaper columnist and social worker said here Tuesday.

He told a Beth Tzedec Synagogue panel on youth that new and relaxed standards of sexual behavior may yield beneficial results in the future.

The old moral code of marriage being the greatest of virtues is "immoral and evil," said Mr. Katz, because people married "not because of love for each other, but through the necessity for physical relief.

MORE OPPORTUNITIES

He said reasons for increased pre-marital sexual activity and experimenting ranged from availability to birth control pills and the motor car.

He noted that many university observers believe that where physical intimacy exists, the boy and girl relationship will be a durable one.

"True, many collapse and marriage doesn't take place, but is it necessarily a bad thing?" he asked.

"Is it good or bad that a couple discover they cannot abide each other before or after marriage, or before or after they have children?"

Today's youth is living "through the greatest social and technical breakthrough in history affecting everything— morality, religion, values and beliefs."

and it has taught her a lesson she will never forget."

Mr. Justice Dryer told Remington he was in grave danger of running into very serious trouble if he did not mend his ways.

"Your record is a substantial one and life hasn't been very pleasant for you over the last 20 years. I wonder you haven't realized by now that it will never be otherwise unless you make a serious effort to become a worthwhile citizen."

Remington and Lalonde were convicted Wednesday night by a 12-man jury which considered its verdict for more than 90 minutes.

During the trial, police told of finding marked dollar bills on the accused after they were arrested at a house at 634 Toronto Street, about two hours after the break-in at Clark and Cordick's store.

SAFE BALLAST

Crown prosecutor Murphy said the store was entered through a skylight, about 13 feet above the deck of a truck.

"There may have been more than two persons involved in this break-in," he told the jury. "But only one of them would need to jump through the skylight. Then he could unlock the back door and let the others in."

Defence counsel Owen-Flood said Remington was obviously surprised when police found a marked bill in his possession.

"He was like Doubting Thomas," counsel said. "He simply couldn't believe it and he asked the police to let him check the numbers on the marked bills."

Mr. Owen-Flood said there had been gambling at the house on Toronto Street and the marked bills could easily have been passed to Remington by others.

Of the accused Lalonde, he said:

"Here was a poor unfortunate girl living in a strange house in which there were continuous wild parties. She was bewildered by all the comings and goings, the drinking and the gambling."

In his charge to the jury, Mr. Justice Dryer noted that, while Remington readily surrendered his money to the police when asked, Lalonde secreted the money she had and it was later taken from her person by a doctor.

He said that when police went to the house on Toronto Street after the break-in they first asked for Sidney Travers and Russell Bowcott because these men were known to them.

Travers had no money on him. Bowcott's money was checked but it did not contain marked notes. (Travers and Bowcott were subsequetnly acquitted in police court.)

Jazz Trio To Play At Campus

A well-known jazz concert group will play in a noon hour concert at University of Victoria Friday. The performance will be open to the public.

The Mitchell-Ruff Jazz Trio will appear at Gordon Head Gymnasium on the campus. Admission will cost 50 cents.

A feature of their program will be the elements of jazz, a discussion and illustration of such jazz elements as rhythm, harmonies and different styles through the years.

Duke Ellington has called the group "one of the freshest, newest sounds in music today.

He made the comment after hearing them at New York's Hickory House in the only club date they have kept in the past four years. With that one exception they have stayed strictly to the concert stage.

They were first Americans to play jazz in the Soviet Union and they have given numerous concerts in western Europe. They appear mostly for universities, clubs and concert societies.

'Want Husband's Jewels Back'

CUERNAVACA, Mexico (AP) "To hell with the money, I want my husband's jewels back," Barbara Hutton said today.

The thieves who entered the palatial Cuernavaca home of the Woolworth millionairess last week also took about $15,000 in cash and about $5,000 in travellers' cheques. Miss Hutton offered a $10,000 reward for the jewels, which belonged to her seventh husband, Laotian Prince Doan Tiane de Champassak.

"I really don't expect the local police to recover them," she said in an interview. "They have been working on the case for a week now and there has been no progress."

The prince said the jewels were rare and could not be replaced. He said their value was impossible to assess.

LOW-COST INSURANCE

Coverage Hiked For Fishermen

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal fishermen's indemnity plan, a low-cost insurance, will be expanded Feb. 1 to cover certain types of shore installations and fixed fishing gear.

The fisheries department said Tuesday the expanded coverage will be available on a one-year experimental basis to fishermen in the Atlantic provinces and British Columbia.

The voluntary indemnity plan was created 12 years ago to insure fishing vessels valued at up to $15,000.

Starting Feb. 1, coverage will be extended to such items of fishing gear as cod traps, herring traps, herring weirs and similar devices with a value ranging from $300 to $15,000. Lobster traps already are covered.

The premium in all cases is one per cent of the appraised value of the vessel or gear. The government pays indemnities of up to 60 per cent of the appraised value of items lost or damaged in storms, fires or ice. Losses from theft or damage by identified third parties are not covered.

Jack Helps 'Born Loser'

By JACK HUTTON

I had just finished toasting the New Year with a solitary soft drink, the only worker in the newspaper office, when the telephone rang. It was two minutes past midnight.

"Hello," said the young male voice. "I'm going to kill my parents."

It was the first call I'd had for two hours, apart from partying drunks who wated to know how fast a puck travels from Bobby Hull's stick. I sat bolt upright.

"Why do you want to do that?" I asked. A crazy question, but it would at least keep him on the line until I figured out whether the caller was serious.

"They've never understood me," he said. The voice was polite and reasonable. After a second he even added "sir", as though this would bolster his credibility.

His Name

"Maybe you think I'm a crank," he went on, "but call me back if you like. My name is ——— and I live at ———. At 2:30 a.m. I'm going up to see my parents with a .303, and a .22 and a revolver."

I scribbled down the information. "Why are you mad at your parents? What have they ever done to you?"

While the voice went on, patient and reasoning, I checked the telephone book. Sure enough, there was someone by that name at the address. That checked out.

"I'm 20-years-old," said the caller. "Just because I spent a little time in jail everyone's down on me, my folks and the cops. How much is a young fellow supposed to take?

"I thought I'd straighten things out on Christmas Day by dropping around to where my folks live. They kicked me out. Can you imagine that, their own son?"

"This is a terrible way to start off 1966," I said. "Why don't you have a good sleep or dorp in to a friend's party? Or come on down and talk to me?"

Girl's Voice

I don't think he even heard me because he didn't pause. For the first time I heard a girl's strident voice behind him, bitter harsh.

"People wonder why we do crazy things," he said. "Well, I tried everything. I kept going to school after I knew I couldn't make it. That was to please the folks and my teachers.

"What happened? They just kept getting madder at me. I kept failing as I knew I would. But they refused to accept that.

"So I helped steal a car one night. It was for kicks, but maybe we were proving something to ourselves too. We were saying to heck with the world. My family would never give me their car.

"Trust my luck, we were picked up. My family said I'd been a terrible trial to them and I was shipped off to a reformatory. (This rang false since it rarely happens on first offence.)

Wants Publicity

"So I'm really going to prove something tonight. I'm taking those guns and I'm going to be on the front page of every newspaper in the country tomorrow."

"Just a minute," I interjected. "Do you think you're the only person in the world who got mad at his parents? Maybe you had a raw deal, but walking around with guns will put you back in prison. Do you want that?"

"That," said my caller, "was the only place I had friends."

It was a weird call, one that stretched over half an hour. Every time I had my caller convinced he should calm down I heard the girl's voice: "Are you a man or aren't you?"

Few people who telephone a reporter to announce violence ever carry out their intentions. But there's always the exception, and this was a particularly tortured young man.

A Loser

In an age when advertising projects the image of laughing, happy, well-adjusted, bright young people, here was one member of the generation who was the exact opposite: a born loser.

Everything he'd done to win approval, to please others, had turned to mud. And, with each failure, violence simmered just a little stronger below the rejected surface.

Finally, close to 1 a.m., he relented: "All right, you've convinced me," he said. "I'll go to bed. And I'm sorry. This has made an awful New Year's Eve for you."

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Jerilyn Brincil, 13, Bridgeport, Conn., for her question:

What Bones Are Used to Make Bone China?

The finest chinaware is porcelain. Potters refer to the two main ingredients in the paste from which it is made as the body and the bone. One of the many imitators of Chinese porcelain used real bones in his receipe, but the original bony ingredient was an earthy mineral.

Bone china is hard and glossy and craftsmen rate it second to the finest of porcelains. English potters began to use real bones in their recipes in the middle of the 18th century. The bones they used most likely came from cattle, but they were first burned to ashes and pulverized. The ashy chemical was calcium phosphate and in the heat of the kiln this chemical helped to fuse the other ingredients in the pasty mixture.

The bones used in the making of our modern bone china also come from cattle. Bones, tons and tons of bones, are a by-product of the meat packing industry. They are reprocessed to make glues and fertilizers, gelatine and glycerine, combs and cattle food and hosts of novelty items such as buckles and buttons.

The packing houses also have plenty of bones to burn. This job is done in slow, hot furnaces that reduce the hard skeletons to ashes and charcoal. This is the material used in the making of bone china. As long as we eat meat, the potters will never run short of supplies.

Makes Fine Porcelains

The history of making fine china has many secrets and this bony ingredient is one of the skeletons in its closet. The original recipe for making fine porcelain was a secret of the potters of China. It is called a hard-paste porcelain because it is hard and has a hard, white surface. The main ingredients in the pasty mixture from which it is baked are two earthy minerals. One is a special clay called kaolin, and the other is a feldspar called petuntse.

Potters refer to the kaolin ingredient as the body and the petuntse as the bone of the mixture. In trying to copy the porcelains of China, the potters of Europe substituted many different materials. Around 1750, an English pottery added real bone ash to the clays. This bone china was a well-fused material, a true porcelain almost as fine as the porcelains imported from China.

Many other fine chinas resulted from 18th and 19th century experiments in Germany, France and Copenhagen. Most of it was soft-paste china, made from clay and silicate minerals, glass and sand. This type of china is less hard and glows with a softer gloss than hard-paste China. Bone china is rated midway between hard-paste and soft-paste china.

BURTON-ON-TRENT, England — The biggest brewery in this home of British brewing is busily pouring barrels by the thousands into the public drains.

The trouble started with a computer used by Bass's brewery to estimate demand for the Christmas and New Year's trade.

The oracle guessed wrong to the tune of 2,800,000 pints, worth $750,000 at bar prices. All has to be poured away.

The brewery for a while denied it was happening. But today its spokesman said:

"I'm afraid it is absolutely true. Neary 10,000 casks have to be disposed of.

"Most of the beer was stockpiled from late November so it would mature for the Christmas rush. But it wasn't needed and we decided to get rid of it because some of it might have gone off.

"The error was caused by the group's computer. The clerks who previously forecast the year-end trade were far more accurate."

New Treatment Tried For Heroin Addicts

By DR. WALTER ALVAREZ

For many years I have been distressed about the problem of addicts to heroin. Years ago, as most of us are old enough to remember, we in the U.S. tried to prohibit the sale of alcoholic liquors, and all we did was to put millions of dollars into the hands of gangsters by setting up speakeasies in every city of the U.S. To get plenty of liquor, all one had to do was to knock on the door and say, "Joe sent me."

Alvarez

It became fashionable to have cocktail parties in homes, and after a few years it became obvious that the law was doing more harm than good. Then fortunately we had sense enough to do away with the law.

Unfortunately, we did not have good sense when it became obvious that the Harrison Act, passed in 1914, which was supposed to prohibit the use of heroin, was doing little more than to put millions of dollars into the pockets of gangsters. It put a dope peddler on many a street corner, and the number of addicts in the U.S. rose spectacularly.

Many devoted and dedicated men went out and worked hard, trying to put a stop to all this, but it could not be done. The government built two great hospitals in which to cure addicts. I once spent several days in Lexington with Drs. Vogel and Isbell, the two very able physicians who ran the big hospital there. They got thousands of men and women off the drug, but soon it was obvious that 9 out of 10, the day they got out of the hospital hunted up a peddler and went on dope again.

Obviously, getting an addict off dope is not the problem; the terrible problem is to keep him off.

What distresses many thoughtful physicians is that today an addict is often regarded as a criminal; and he is certainly treated as a bad criminal if he is caught with a tablet of heroin in his apartment. Worse yet, in order to get his daily ration of heroin from a peddler, he is forced to become a thief, and forced to steal money each day. If he does not get his "fix," he suffers terribly.

Recently, there was a long article on the work of Dr. Nyswander, a fine woman phychiatrist in New York City, who has made friends with many addicts and has tried in several ways to help them.

She has come to see, as have virtually all other workers, that psychiatric or psychoanalytic treatment is not the answer. As many addicts have said — they had a long course in analysis, and it did not do them a particle of good.

Now, Dr. Nyswander feels that she is having a large measure of success by changing the addicts off of heroin and onto methadone, which is a much milder drug, with much less tendency to produce habituation. The least painful way in which to get an addict off of heroin is to shift him to methadone, and then to shift him off of the methadone.

Now, Dr. Nyswander has found that if a heroin addict is put on methadone and is left on it, heroin no longer gives him a kick, or "makes him high," and then the wonderful thing is that he can go back to work and earn a living. The situation then becomes somewhat similar to that in England where, because an addict can buy his heroin for a reasonable price — in a drugstore — he does not have to spend most of every day trying to find some way of stealing much money.

STRIPPERS VS. BARE-BREASTED DANCERS

Arms, Shapely Legs Fly

SYDNEY, N.S.W. (Reuters) —A troupe of African Negro girls, who dance bare-breasted on stage, fought a pitched battle with six Australian strippers in a main street Wednesday night.

Passers-by looked on, as the girls struggled in a flurry of beautiful arms and shapely legs.

The bare-toppers—known as the Bare Top Go-Go Girls—won the fight. The Australian strippers retreated and the African girls staged a victory dance—but with their clothes on.

It all started after a row between the visiting African dancers and the Sydney Amalgamated Strippers' Union.

The performers are mainly from South Africa say advertisements: See the Python Mating Dance . . . Hot . . . Stark . . . Daring.

But six of Sydney's best known strippers — all union members — started picketing the African show because, they say, the African girls are interfering with their livelihood.

Whites Leave Black Africa Civil Service

The transition from a white to black administration and civil service in Africa is proceeding rapidly and relatively smoothly, Dr. Neil J. Perry said this week.

The B.C. deputy education minister was interviewed after returning from a week in Nairobi, Kenya, on a United Nations mission.

"The policy of Africanization has been going on very quickly and only a few key personnel posts are still held by white expatriates," Dr. Perry said in comparing the situation with 1963 when he last saw the area as a UN technical expert.

"I personally was impressed with the young African ministers I met last week—very fluent, well spoken and on their toes," he said of the officials from Kenya, Tanzania and Uganda that he met.

Although many are highly educated, the African government officials as a rule are young and "have not had vast experience" in government administration, Dr. Perry said.

But they are proceeding wisely, seeking and assessing advice on technical problems and moving with caution towards their goals.

STRONG FEELINGS

Dr. Perry said he had no time to discuss the Rhodesian question or the Commonwealth prime ministers meeting in Lagos, Nigeria, with the officials he met but it was apparent they had strong feelings about the situation.

He added he was not aware of any Red Chinese influence, even among the Tanzanians.

"All three governments are very mature in their awareness of (problems involving) external links," said Dr. Perry.

"I would say they are Africans first, very nationally-minded and not much interested in outside viewpoints."

Dr. Perry was one of five consultants selected by the UN to assist a commission set up by Kenya, Tanzania and Uganda to examine possibilities of altering their common market arrangement inherited from colonial days.

Tanzania, an agricultural country wishing to accelerate its light industrial development, last August imposed quotas on imports from the other two partners in the common market, one of the factors leading to the study.

Other indications that the common market arrangement was beginning to break up included questioning about the feasibility of continuing a common university and currency, Dr. Perry said.

DEVELOPMENTS

He stressed that the three governments do not wish to dismantle the common market but may do so unless some pragmatic method of preserving its benefits and eliminating its deterrents to specific developments can be found.

Dr. Perry, who will prepare a paper on the trade aspects of the problem by May 1 for the commission, said he felt the customs union needs some adaptations but they will have to be ingenious.

He said the possibility of establishing the three countries as a federation was under active discussion two years ago but is no longer being considered.

Some method of phasing the inernal free trade conditions to allow one or other component to proceed out of step for a few years until it achieves a desired industrial base and then restoring the normal customs union situation may be the answer, Dr. Perry suggested.

But this would be difficult to put into a formula, he added, declining to speculate further, about a solution because he has not finished his report.

Would-Be Heirs Hear Bad News

PARIS (Reuters)—A dream of sharing a vast American inheritance, cherished for years by thousands of people in 74 countries, has crashed.

Helene Fauraud, 45-year-old former school teacher who founded a world union of heirs to the Mallet fortune, was charged Monday with fraud and false pretences. She has not been detained, and is scheduled to be questioned again Jan. 18.

Justice sources said Mrs. Fauraud confessed she did not have the documents she earlier claimed to own about the estate of Jean Pierre Mallet, a French millionaire said to have died childless in the United States about 80 years ago.

The existence of the Mallet legacy has never been proved.

The heirs' union consisted of 24,000 persons claiming descent from Mallet's 11 brothers who stayed in Limoges when Mallet emigrated to the United States.

TRUCK, DRIVER VANISH ON UP-ISLAND JOURNEY

PORT McNEILL (CP)—A truck loaded with bottled gas has been missing since Sunday on a rugged 150-mile trip to this northern Vancouver Island community from Courtenay.

Police and logging company employees are searching for the truck and driver, Franklin Lowrey, said to have recently moved to the Island from Kamloops.

Wilson, Pearson Carry Day At Commonwealth Meeting

By JOHN RODERICK

TOKYO (AP)—Moscow radio declared today the Soviet Union "will exert full effort to ship modern weapons" to North Viet Nam to help defeat U.S. forces.

The broadcast was an analysis of the trip of Alexander N. Shelepin, No. 2 man in the Kremlin, to Hanoi, the North Vietnamese capital. Shelepin arrived in Peking from Hanoi today for talks with the Chinese, who have been critical of Soviet military aid to North Viet Nam.

"All available aid will be extended to North Viet Nam to defeat the U.S. aggressions," said Moscow's Japanese - language broadcast, monitored here.

Shelepin's 24 - hour stopover came on the heels of President Johnson's State of the Union message in which he pledged anew to defend South Viet Nam from aggression but made new overtures for peace.

A correspondent of the Japanese Kyodo news service reported from Peking that Chinese observers there brushed aside Johnson's peace offers and attached significance only to his determination to fight on in Viet Nam.

TASS REPORTS

Tass, the Soviet news agency, told of the speech in a seven-paragraph dispatch from Washington which said:

"Johnson said that he couldn't foresee how long the Viet Nam war will go on and that it might well be a protracted and tough war or protracted and tough talks or both. On the one hand, the president expressed the hope that he will be able to end the Viet Nam war, and on the other hand he left no doubt as to the United States intention to carry on the war for months or even years."

Watchdog Group Checks Boycott

By IAN MacDONALD
Times Ottawa Correspondent

LAGOS, Nigeria—The Commonwealth pulled itself back from the brink of destruction here Wednesday. In a new found unity it hammered out a positive program for the early toppling of the Rhodesian rebel regime of Prime Minister Ian Smith.

Reached at the end of the two-day crisis talks was a great personal victory for British Prime Minister Harold Wilson, but he was given major assistance by Canada in initiatives suggested by Prime Minister Lester Pearson early in the 16-hours' work of the final day. The conference closed with the issuing of an official communique.

The delegates agreed to accept the plan of Prime Minister Pearson for a watchdog committee to check the effect of economic sanctions against the breakaway country.

In agreeing not to resort to force immediately they thus gave Britain time to prove its claim that it can topple the white-minority government which seized independence Nov. 11.

CARRIES WARNING

But the communique carried the warning that the use of force "could not be precluded if this proved necessary to restore law and order."

The representatives of 20 Commonwealth countries, meeting outside Britain for the first time, also agreed to meet again in July if the Rhodesian rebellion is not ended by then.

The watched dog committee, which will sit in London but whose makeup has not been disclosed, will advise Commonwealth governments on possible action by them or the United Nations, including provision of help for Zambia, Rhodesia's northern neighbor.

The communique showed the meeting resisted some demands for immediate military intervention. How long Prime Minister Wilson had gained to show sanctions could do the job was not indicated. Wilson went to Zambia for talks today with President Kenneth Kaunda. Zambian students demonstrated with shouts of "Wilson go home" and "Action now."

Several spokesmen said Pearson unquestionably was the second key figure at the meeting and that his diplomatic skills helped soothe feelings and pave the way for agreement. The machinery set up to direct the economic-sanction war on Rhodesia was a Pearson proposal. It brings the Africans and other Commonwealth countries directly into the campaign.

WRITTEN ASSURANCE

This was among the factors that mollified the African countries along with a written assurance of determination to overthrow Smith and agreement that use of force is not precluded if necessary to restore law and order. Wilson sold them on his contention that the Smith regime will be on its last legs by about March. Although Wilson conceded in some ways, he skillfully did not pin himself down to any absolute date. However, the undertakings now mean that if need be he can tell his political opponents at home that Britain's hand can be forced eventually by the other Commonwealth countries.

He was described as being both off and on the hook: Wilson's performance in winning over the Africans on the continuation of sanctions and away from militant demands for immediate armed intervention was described as a masterful political and diplomatic move.

By the time he was done he

U.K. MINISTER PLANS VISIT TO SALISBURY

LUSAKA (Reuters) — Commonwealth Secretary Arthur Bottomley of Britain will visit Salisbury, it was announced here today by the British High Commission.

He will have talks with Sir Humphrey Gibbs, the British governor of Rhodesia who is not recognized by Premier Ian Smith.

The date of the visit was not announced.

British sources in Nairobi said Bottomley would go to Salisbury Friday to discuss with Gibbs the current situation and details of a proposed plan to distribute famine relief in Rhodesia.

British MPs Ordered Out

SALISBURY (Reuters)—Three Labor members of Britain's Parliament visiting Rhodesia have been ordered by the Rhodesian government to leave the country immediately, a government spokesman said here tonight.

The government's announcement came less than 15 minutes after the departure for Lusaka of one of the three MPs—Christopher Rowland, a parliamentary private secretary at the foreign office.

The others, David Ennals and Jeremy Bray, spent the day in Bulawayo — Rhodesia's second city, some 300 miles south of Salisbury—and had not yet returned to the capital.

EVERYONE is smiling as New York Mayor John Lindsay, left, and chief Transport Workers' Union negotiator Douglas L. MacMahon announce the end early this morning to the 12-day transit strike. Partial subway and bus service in North America's largest city was restored shortly after the settlement was announced. (AP Wirephoto.)

UNIONISTS FREED

N.Y. Transit Strike Over

NEW YORK (AP) — This city's unprecedented, multi-million-dollar subway and bus strike ended shortly before dawn today, minutes after entering its 13th day.

By noon, near-normal service was restored. The transit authority announced that five hours after the settlement rains were operating on all lines of the subway system and buses were maintaining schedules normal for the time of day.

Cars continued to clog city streets, however, the result of the morning rush of 3,500,000 persons to their jobs in the city.

Mayor John V. Lindsay said in a broadcast that all the city transit authority's 6,500 subway cars and 4,000 buses could not be expected back in use "until late tonight or early Friday."

The striking AFL-CIO unions —the Transport Workers Union and the Amalgamated Transit Union — agreed to mediators' settlement terms shortly before 6:30 a.m. EST.

BUS SERVICE RESUMES

By 8 a.m., the first segment of the 237-mile subway system was carrying its first paying passengers since New Year's Day—on the shuttle train between Grand Central Station and Times Square. A half-hour later the transit authority announced that 3,200 buses were in operation.

Although describing it as "fruitless to get into the numbers game," Lindsay evaluated the new two-year labor contract for 34,400 workers at $52,000,000. But a transport workers union lawyer said it "is for $39,380,000 to the penny."

The Transit Authority estimated the unions' original demands at $680,000,000. The demands were reduced to $216,000,000 before the 5 a.m. Jan. 1 strike and scaled down again to a reported $100,000,000 during negotiations.

"No doubt there will be argument that the terms were too low or too high," Lindsay said. "But the judgment was made in behalf of the public, the city of New York and the rest of the country."

The workers went back to their jobs pending union ratification of the contract.

STRIKE COST MILLIONS

Lindsay placed the strike cost at more than $500,000,000, including $200,000,000 in wages lost.

The Commerce and Industry Association, however, has evaluated the economic impact at more than $100,000,000 a day.

Lindsay said he didn't know exactly where the money would be found to finance the agreement. He expressed the hope of maintaining the 15-cent fare "in the best interests of the people."

Although independently incorporated and supposed self-sustaining, the transit authority for several years has had to turn to the city to make up multi-million-dollar deficits.

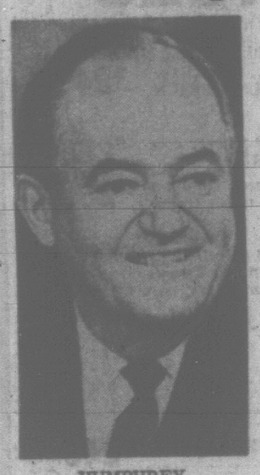

In late morning, Supreme Court Justice Abraham N. Geller signed an order freeing ailing Transport Workers Union President Michael J. Quill and eight other labor leaders from jail sentences he imposed for contempt. At the same time he dismissed a proceeding which sought $324,000-a-day union fines for ignoring an injunction forbidding the strike.

The transit authority requested Geller's actions.

Quill, who collapsed two hours after being jailed, has been in Bellevue Hospital. His colleagues were in jail.

Humphrey Signals Victory

HUMPHREY
. . . leaves for U.S.

NEW DELHI (UPI)—Vice-President Hubert H. Humphrey and Secretary of State Dean Rusk conferred at length today with Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin, reportedly on Viet Nam.

The hour and 43-minute secret session was one of the longest between American and Soviet leaders in years. It ran 15 minutes longer than scheduled.

He was solemn-faced when reporters caught a momentary glimpse of him through the glass doors of a conference room during the meeting.

But the vice-president later emerged smiling from the conference. He and Ambassador Chester Bowles, who also attended the session, held up two fingers in the traditional V for victory sign as they sped away in a limousine for meetings with Indian officials.

U.S. and Russian spokesmen refused to disclose what was discussed, and by mutual consent Humphrey and Kosygin refused to answer reporters' questions.

But reliable sources said the talks centered around the war in Viet Nam.

Famine Aid For India

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government is planning to send $9,500,000 worth of wheat and $1,300,000 worth of rapeseed to India as famine relief, a government source said today.

Other purchases being made include $750,000 worth of dried peas and $450,000 worth of dried milk powder.

The balance of the $15,000,000 special relief program will go in purchase of other foodstuffs to be shipped to India. The kind of food is being discussed with Indian government representatives.

Gun-Butter Formula For a 'Mighty' U.S.

WASHINGTON (CP)—The United States is mighty enough to provide all the guns required in Viet Nam while building "a great society" at home, President Johnson said Wednesday night.

The U.S. will stay in Viet Nam until Communist aggression ceases, Johnson told the nation in the annual State of the Union address to the new session of Congress. (See Story Page 3).

Democrats and Republicans applauded his determination to press for peace in Viet Nam although "we have received no response to prove either success or failure" on the current American peace offensive.

Republicans attacked many of Johnson's domestic program proposals and his assertion that the budget deficit for the next fiscal year would be held to $1,800,000,000.

Johnson said it sacrifices have to be made at home because of commitments abroad they will be borne by those able to pay rather than the poor—perhaps in reference to the general tax increase about which there has been speculation.

Johnson did recommend resumption of excise tax rates on autos and telephone service which had been reduced only 12 days ago, and also some tax-structure overhaul to improve revenues.

If the "necessities of Viet Nam require it, I will not hesitate to return to Congress for additional revenues," he said.

He forecast budget spending

Viets, U.S. To Observe Tet Truce

SAIGON (UPI)—The United States and South Viet Nam announced today they will observe a ceasefire in Viet Nam during the lunar new year celebrations starting next week. The truce is expected to last at least three days.

The Communist Viet Cong earlier announced they would observe a four-day ceasefire beginning at 12:01 a.m. Jan. 20.

The lunar new year, called Tet, begins at 12:01 a.m. Jan. 21, ushering in the Year of the Horse in the Oriental calendar, and ending the Year of the Snake. The horse is considered the most propitious of the calendar.

HIGHWAY HOLE OPENS AND TRUCK FALLS IN

ABBOTSFORD, B.C. (CP) — A Sumas man was injured today when the truck in which he was riding dropped 30 feet when a section of the Sumas highway caved in.

George Streber is in hospital here for examination, but is believed to have suffered only minor injuries. His son, also in the truck at the time, was not injured.

Police said an old mine shaft caved in during the night, leaving the hard surface of the road intact. The road collapsed as the truck passed over, dropping the vehicle into a deep hole.

Ousted MLA Demands 'Immediate' Byelection

William Hartley, who lost his seat in the legislature this week due to mistakes by government-appointed returning officers two years ago, today demanded that Premier Bennett call a byelection immediately to fill the Yale seat during the coming session.

Premier Bennett today brushed off the demand, reinforcing his refusal Wednesday to call byelections in either Yale or North Okanagan (where MLA George McLeod died last month).

Instead, the premier said he personally would look after the needs of the two ridings—as well as his own South Okanagan—during the session.

"The premier will be a special watchdog," Mr. Bennett put it.

"He thinks he's some sort of 'big daddy,'" snapped Mr. Hartley, who sat through two sessions as a New Democratic Party member. He was contacted in his home at Merritt by The Times.

"The people of Yale are quite competent to run their own affairs and select their own representative.

"If he can get away with this in North Okanagan and in Yale, how much longer are the people going to have representative government in this province?

"The government appointed the returning officers who committed the irregularities in the election.

"So it is the government, through its own mismanagement, that has caused this elec-

ROUND-A-BOUT

By DOUGLAS HILLSIDE

A spy tells us that city motorcycle policemen have been ticketing city garbage trucks double-parked in the course of their duties.

While the fine income will make little difference to the civic budget (unless it's the driver personally who pays the fine), the idea seems commendable. Double parking, done chiefly by commercial vehicles, has long been a hazard and a nuisance downtown.

Spelling "mistakes" wrong we thought we'd make you smile in sympathy with stupid writers and flub-fingered printers.

But down in the printer's realm somebody made a mistake and spelled the word right . . .

During Safe Driving Week (Dec. 1 to 7) there were 78 Canadians killed on our streets and highways and 1,500 injured.

"This may not be attributed either to faulty roads or vehicle design," said Canadian Highway Safety Council director W. Arch Bryce. He blamed "ignorance, inattention and willful breaking of the law."

But just recently CBC-TV aired a campaign showing up the unsafe features which could be remedied in new cars—rigid rear view mirrors which scalp people, projecting knobs and door handles which could be recessed, rigid steering posts which spear drivers.

Letting car designers completely off the hook may make Mr. Bryce's comment the sweeping statement of the week.

Ex-Gestapo Chief, Aides Under Arrest

MUNICH (AP)—Dr. Wilhelm Harster, chief of the Gestapo in Naiz-occupied Holland, was arrested Wednesday on suspicion of complicity in the murder of 83,000 persons. One of them was Anne Frank, whose diary immortalized the ordeal of Dutch Jews under Nazi rule.

Two wartime assistants, one a woman, were arrested with Harster.

Harster, 61, is also suspected of complicity in the attempted murder of 317 persons. He was a major - general in the SS (Elite Guard) and was responsible for transporting Jews to concentration camps.

Those arrested with him were: Wilhelm Zoepf, 57, an adviser to the Nazi security police on Jewish matters. He is suspected of aiding and abetting 94,328 cases of murder.

Gertrude Slottje, 63, also an expert on Jewish matters for the security police in Holland. She is suspected of aiding and abetting in 93,328 cases of murder.

ONLY FATHER SURVIVED

Anne Frank and three members of her family died in a concentration camp after they hid from the Nazis in an Amsterdam attic for nearly four years. Only her father, Otto Frank, survived.

Their fate became one of the famous epics of the war through publication of The Diary of Anne Frank. It later was made into a successful play and a movie.

A Vienna police officer, Karl Silverbauer, admitted in 1963 that he took part in the arrest of the Frank family while serving with the Gestapo in Amsterdam.

He was suspended from the Vienna police force and while Austrian authorities probed into his wartime activities fled to Switzerland. There, he told an interviewer the Franks had been betrayed by a Dutchman who worked in their drugstore.

The authorities said Harster, Zoepf and Miss Slottke would probably be brought before a Munich court to answer the charges.

NEGOTIATIONS UNDER WAY

City Police Seek 9 Per Cent Pay Hike

The increase would raise first class constables from $528 to $570 per month.

Victoria City Police Commission was told by the policemen's union that Port Moody police were recently granted an 8.2 per cent hike to move ahead of the Victoria level.

Other items mentioned in Wednesday's preliminary discussions on what promises to be lengthy negotiations included a request for changes in annual vacation regulations. There was also an indication that the old problem of courtroom appearances could be a major negotiating factor.

The commission countered union requests by asking for a two-year agreement rather than the existing one-year contract.

The union officials indicated that they would be prepared to accept a two-year wage contract but they would want to be able to open the contract for discussion on working conditions at any time during the two-year period.

The commission is also asking for the insertion of a clause denying a policeman the right to work at any other job.

A police union spokesman said no members of the force were at present "moonlighting."

"I can say definitely that no members of this department work at other jobs," he said. "We might be able to go along with this providing the word employment was clearly defined. If it included off-duty police work I don't think we could go along with it."

The police commission stand was that it was not the intention of the commission to ban an off-duty policeman from doing off-duty police work.

A major balk came from the union officials when Police Chief J. F. Gregory asked for a clause to be inserted in the agreement giving him the right to appoint a sergeant-major to be in charge of police force discipline.

Union discussions on this point had resulted in unanimous disagreement with the idea, the meeting was told.

Chief Gregory said the man he was looking for should be an expert in the field of discipline but need not be an expert in law.

The police union stand was that anyone with the rank of sergeant-major should be proficient in all phases of police work to earn the respect of the force.

Further discussions will be held during the next two weeks.

TWO KINDS IN BRAIN

'Secretary' Cell Found

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Discovery that the brain has two different kinds of cells—one of which secretes a substance that prevents repetition of harmful actions and thus may be a key factor in learning—was reported Wednesday by a British scientist.

Dr. John Z. Young, professor of human anatomy at University College in London, spoke at a conference at the California Institute of Technology.

He said his research was with small octopi but he is sure the newly found cell exists in the brain of all animals, including man.

Scientists heretofore have believed the brain has only one kind of cell, the function of which is to pass along electrical impulses.

BLOCKS THE SIGNALS

The special, substance-secreting cell, Dr. Young said, gives off an enzyme which blocks the passage of signals through other cells when those signals tell the body to do something which the brain has learned will be harmful.

He discovered the existence of the cells and the secreted enzime in studying how an octopus learns when to attack and when to retreat from an unfamiliar object.

The two kinds of brain cells apparently form an electrochemical switching system. The switch remains open when the octopus touches something that means food but closes—through action of the secretary cell — when it touches something that means danger, Dr. Young said.

Structural difference between the two types of brain cells was found with aft extremely powerful electron microscope.

UNION IN TRAVEL BUSINESS

VANCOUVER (CP) — The British Columbia Federation of Labor (CLC) has gone into the travel business.

The 100,000-member body will charter a DC-8 aircraft from Canadian Pacific Airlines to carry unionists to Britain and back for a three-week holiday.

Secretary-treasurer Pat O'Neal said Wednesday if all 140 seats available are filled the unionists will pay about $350 per person for the trip.

Affiliated unions will be told the seats will be filled on a first-come-first-serve basis.

The flight will leave Vancouver Sept. 24 and return Oct. 15.

Gallop to Freedom

FURTH IM WALD, West Germany (AP) — Two Czechs galloped across the Iron Curtain border into West Germany on horses Monday night, Bavarian police said Tuesday. The pair told police they were dissatisfied with political conditions in Czechoslovakia and asked for asylum.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

Pressures were falling rapidly again this morning as the next disturbance in the current series approaches the coast followed by still another 24 hours behind. The mild flow of Pacific air associated with these systems will maintain considerable rainfall over the coast while only scattered shower activity will reach the interior.

Victoria Daily Times

Arthur Mayse

Life continues to lay its little problems on our doorsteps, and if we're lucky, we manage to solve them with dignity and grace. If we aren't, we can land ourselves in some mighty exotic foul-ups, as was the case with an amiable non-conformist of my acquaintance when he undertook to bath his dog one day this week.

Our guy, who had never scrubbed a pooch before, pondered his assignment until he evolved a procedure that impressed him as both logical and neat.

This was to place old muddy-pelt in the family tub, climb in with him, turn on the shower, and get busy with dog shampoo.

Phase one went smoothly enough. The German shepherd, whom we may as well call Dunder, permitted himself to be boosted into the tub, and was delighted when the boss peeled off and joined him.

Phase two, which consisted of lathering the four footed chum with doggy - bubble, proved more difficult, on account of Dunder being ticklish under the arms and chin.

It was finally completed, however, and all was now ready for phase three. This was to be a session of rub-a-dub-dub under the shower.

Our fellow proceeded in orderly fashion to close the curtain. Then he paused to give Dunder some reassuring pats on his head.

Then he twisted both faucets, and all hell broke loose.

Dunder lunged against his master, causing him to skid on the shampoo-slick porcelain and sprawl in the tub, where the dog alternately danced on his chest and stomach, and tried to burrow under him.

He grabbed for the shower curtain to heave himself up. Unequal to the strain, the rod slipped its moorings, spilling the rest of the pine tar shampoo on the floundering pair, and tenting them in daintily-flowered plastic.

Dog leaped through the curtain, leaving a German shepherd-sized hole.

Man expanded this gap, crept out, and received a charge of suds in his eyes as furry friend paused to give himself a vigorous all-over shake.

Blinded, our hero, or victim if you prefer, was pawing and crashing around the bathroom in a cloud of steam when his wife intruded long enough to thrust a bundle of her oldest towels into his grasp.

"See you clean everything up," said this calm chatelaine, who then retired to the safety of her living room.

"So," her husband reported moodily to a couple of us later, "I cleaned everything up.

"I cleaned the walls, the floor, the ceiling and the tub, and I used my last towel on Dunder.

"That left me. The shampoo had dried all over me in big yellow flakes. I gave the mirror a wipe, and in it I appeared to be covered with feathers, like some large, ugly bird."

Since we've tagged along this far through the misadventures of one who undertook what had every appearance of a simple, innocent and worthy task, I suppose we might as well go the route with him.

While his dog cowered in a corner, he stepped under the shower, which by this time had exhausted the hot water and was spraying liquid ice from the Sooke hills.

He hopped out, shrieking, struggled into his clothes, and fled the house with Dunder at his heels.

He is still badly shaken by his experience.

Also, he is convinced there must be a way to give a dog a bath which would be less traumatic for both parties involved.

"I've thought of buying more shampoo," he mused over coffee, "then taking Dunder to some lonely beach, soaping him up, and throwing sticks for him to fetch. But he's spoiled, he would expect me to go in with him."

Meanwhile, his dog isn't speaking to him . . . his wife, all smiles and chuckles, is planning a new bathroom decor . . . and when he walks in the rain, you can still smell pine-tar halfway down the block.

SINGING IN THE RAIN may be fine for crooners, but no voices were lifted in joy in the City Hall treasury department Wednesday afternoon as rain swilled through a leaky roof and over record shelves. Pert Linda Holtum, a receptionist-typist in the department, arrived at work prepared for the worst. The records and ceiling may suffer from the steady trickle but, umbrella armed, her hair-do remained untouched by the elements.

B.C. HIGHEST RATE IN CANADA

Pay Better in Evergreen Land

This is disclosed in federal labor department statistics covering conditions in the manufacturing industry.

For the last month available — July — British Columbians worked an average 37.8 hours a week for an average $2.59 an hour.

Alberta came second in average hours at 39.9 and Ontario was second in average wages at $2.21.

The labor department estimated 1.5 million Canadians worked in manufacturing industries, including 121,700 in B.C.

British Columbia also led other provinces in the table of average weekly wages and salaries.

Again in July, the last month compiled by statisticians, the average in B.C. was $101.40 a week. Ontario was next with $94.31.

Bottom of the list was Prince Edward Island with $62.13 a week.

The petro-chemical centre of Sarnia, Ontario, led Canadian cities with the highest average weekly wages and salaries — $116.24.

In B.C., the Vancouver figure was $97.74 and the Victoria average $89.60. There were no figures from other provincial cities.

REFLECTOR LICENCE REQUESTED

Auto Club Gives Brief to Cabinet

B.C. Automobile Association today asked the provincial government to introduce reflectorized five-year vehicle licence plates to cut down night-time accidents and cut down licence costs.

The association also asked for a three-pronged attack on the accident rate including establishment of a special accident investigation division, compulsory vehicle testing stations and stiffer penalities for impaired and suspended drivers.

It said B.C. should follow the lead of several states and provinces of Manitoba and Alberta which have decided to issue reflected licence plates.

CUTS REAR-ENDERS

"Wherever the reflectorized plates have been used, experience has shown a substantial reduction in night-time rear-end collisions which are a leading cause of traffic accidents and fatalities," the BCAA brief said.

It added that a survey showed the present cost of producing the annual vehicle plates is $154,000 a year, which totals $770,000 every five years.

"A five-year reflective plate program would cost approximately $557,000 — and $12,000 per year for validating tabs . . . a total of $605,000 or a saving of approximately $165,000 over the five years," the brief said.

The association recommended the government "consider adoption of a permanent reflectorized licence plate" on safety and economy grounds.

The delegation also said there is an urgent need for an accident investigation division —correlating the work of the motor vehicle branch, engineering, enforcement and medical agencies—"as well as investigate the causes of all accidents and initiate remedies for their prevention."

BELOW AVERAGE

It pointed out that Vancouver city accidents, where there is a compulsory motor vehicle testing program, include only 1 per cent attributable to mechanical failures compared with the Canadian average of 9 per cent.

The group also asked the government reconsider the proposed fares to be charged on the Queen of Prince Rupert run from Port Hardy to Prince Rupert starting in May.

'Talented Artist' Jailed 3 Years

Remington Convicted Of Break-In

A former drug addict, said to have "much talent" as an artist and writer, was sentenced to three years in the B.C. Penitentiary today on a charge of breaking and entering and theft from Clark and Cordick's feed store, 2503 Douglas Street, last Sept. 9.

Steve Remington, 43, of Victoria, was sentenced by Mr. Justice Victor Dryer at the close of the winter Assizes in Victoria Courthouse.

Crown prosecutor Kenneth Murphy said Remington had spent a total of 12 years and three months in jail over the past 20 years.

Defence counsel Dermod Owen-Flood said Remington had been a drug addict but cured himself of the habit while in jail.

"Since 1958 he has never been associated with drugs or been in any way addicted to them," counsel said. "There is a great deal of good in this man. He has much talent as an artist and a writer, and he has sought work whenever it was available."

PAINTED COVER

(Later it was learned that Remington painted the cover of a magazine while and jail and had since written an article on Vancouver's Skid Row, published in a Vancouver newspaper.)

Mr. Owen-Flood said Remington had been "fending for himself" since the age of 12 when his father joined the services and left him without home, relatives or means of support.

After his release from jail in 1964, he spent 10 months working as a logger and diamond driller and at various odd jobs in the construction business.

"He has made every effort to make himself a useful citizen, but he has led a very chequered existence," counsel sad.

Remington was found guilty after a three-day trial of breaking and entering Clark and Cordick's feed store and stealing cash and cheques to the total value of $800.

Shirley Lalonde, 21, from Bellingham, Wash., was acquitted on the same charge, but was sentenced to 60 days in jail for having possession of stolen money amounting to less than $50.

TWO CHILDREN

Mr. Owen-Flood said she had two children in a broken marriage. She had no previous criminal record and was anxious to return to her parents in Bellingham after serving sentence.

"Her parents came to see me in Victoria and they assured me they will look after her," counsel said. "She is a young and impressionable girl and she was staying at a house in Victoria with hardened people."

"She has been through the ordeal of four months in custody

Maj.-Gen. Rockingham stops to chat with member of the ranks at Work Point parade farewell.

ROCKY TAKES FINAL SALUTE

In a brief press conference following the parade, the general, head of Western Command, said his retirement had nothing to do with integration of the three services.

"I was offered this civilian job and my retirement was due in six months, so I took it."

Of integration, he commented: "It's a good thing. It will save duplication of jobs and cut down on spending."

ONLY COURSE

His opinion of the Viet Nam war: "I support the American stand. It's the only course they can take to prevent the flood of communism."

On the parade ground he told the assembled men they were doing a wonderful job as a peace-keeping force — "keep it up."

Looking back over his 33 years of army duty, in World War II and in Korea, the greying general said:

Electrical Men's Pay Boosted 19%

A conciliation board has awarded a 19 per cent wage boost to B.C. Hydro electrical workers.

The raise will be spread over three years in steps of 7, 6 and 6 per cent in a contract binding on union and management.

The new contract is retroactive to April 1 of last year and also contains a reduction in the work week from 40 to 37½ hours, effective June 1, 1967. Wages will still be paid for 40 hours.

Hydro employs approximately 1,800 electricians in British Columbia, represented by the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers. There are about 200 on Vancouver Island, about half of them in Victoria area.

The negotiations for the contract began in March, 1965, and many other changes in working practices and conditions were included in the settlement.

NEW CONTRACT

Hydro officials who announced the new contract, said a journeyman lineman prior to the increase was paid $3.42 an hour, or $136.80 per week.

Retroactive pay due this category of employee would be in the neighborhood of $350 at this time.

The conciliation board award was deseribed as unanimous.

Members of the conciliation board were G. W. Rogers, Vancouver real estate dealer, as chairman; Vancouver East MP Harold Winch, delegated by the IBEW, and Dr. Noel Lyon of the law faculty of University of B.C., as company delegate.

Hawaiians Eye B.C. Ferries, Says Loffmark

Local shipyards may get a chance to build B.C. government-type ferries for the State of Hawaii, Trade and Industry Minister Ralph Loffmark indicated today.

He told reporters he spent the Yuletide holidays in Hawaii discussing ferries and forestry development.

Mr. Loffmark said the Hawaiian government is interested in developing a ferry service to connect its islands and wants all the information it can get on the B.C. ferries and how they have affected Vancouver Island's economy.

FOUR INVOLVED

He said at least four ferries would be involved, likely similar to the sea-going Queen of Prince Rupert which would be suitable in the Hawaiian waters.

Asked if local shipyards which built the B.C. fleet—particularly Victoria Machinery Depot which built many of the queens including the Prince Rupert flagship—would have a chance to obtain Hawaiian ferry contracts, Mr. Loffmark replied:

(The Queen of Prince Rupert contract was worth about $6.5 million.)

Mr. Loffmark said he had to be extremely cautious in his replies because the ferry design and routing questions were hot political issues in Hawaii.

"All I can say is that they have asked us for information and we're giving it to them," he said.

ECONOMIC STIMULUS

He said reams more information will be mailed, including deck and space plans of the B.C. car ferries as well as the economics of operation and the economic stimulus they provided to Vancouver Island's development.

"I looked at several of their islands, particularly their headlands and the situation is very similar to this Island," said Mr. Loffmark. "They don't have ferries serving their islands at the present time, only barges for freight."

Mr. Loffmark, who returned earlier this week, said he had made a report to his cabinet colleagues on his trip.

He revealed three other factors in his report:

- Sales will be clinched soon for B.C.-made logging equipment — worth between $100,000 and $200,000 — to Hawaiian interests;
- Their forest industry, particularly hardwood plywood manufacture, is expanding rapidly but is no threat to B.C. exports, being complementary and involving only a tiny fraction of our production;
- A market for liquified petroleum gas for domestic cooking exists among Honolulu's 5,000,000 people which, when added to the developing Tokyo market, "could tip the scales" towards development of Vancouver as a major LPG exporting centre.

New Car Wiped Out In Chase

A wild chase up to 80 mph early today through city streets resulted in demolition of a $4,000 automobile stolen from Peter Pollen Ford, 1060 Yates.

Police are looking for a youth in his late teens or early 20s in connection with the incident.

Constables D. G. Sleivert and Bill Huckin gave chase at speeds estimated at 80 mph. The incident happened at 1:16 a.m.

The police officers pursued the stolen vehicle east on North Park, north on Chambers for three blocks to Empress.

There the driver lost control of the sports sedan, sideswiped a power pole, continued for another 125 feet, hit a fire hydrant, then knocked down a street sign 45 feet away.

Police said the car finally came to rest at the intersection of Bay and Chambers.

They saw a young man leap from the vehicle and run away west on Bay St.

A tracking dog was used in the search for the driver but he lost the scent on Empress Avenue.

Police said the car was damaged about $3,000. Its speedometer read only 88 miles when it came to rest.

Police said the thief tampered with a chain at the car lot and drove away in the new vehicle.

Executive director of Community Welfare Council of Victoria, Jack Anguish is resigning to accept a post in London, Ont.

Mr. Anguish, who has been here five years is returning to the position of executive director London United Community Services—a post he vacated in 1961.

He held that position for five years also.

Mr. Anguish was speechless today when informed of a Canadian Press news item concerning his appointment.

"I haven't heard anything in writing," he said, although he had been in negotiations with the London authorities. And his proposed move had not yet come before the directors of the welfare council here.

FOUL BAY FLIERS strike again—and residents of Foul Bay-Gonzales area are fed up. That telephone pole behind G. P. V. City council has asked for report on costs of improving grade which could mean raising Gonzales a couple of feet, could be costly. (Times Photo.)

Tundra Environment Influences This Art

By Penny Saver

The arts of a nomadic people are beautiful in their simplicity. They portray the way of life of the group—their foods, weapons, hunting implements, and superstitions. Their arts depict a type of existence that one would think extinct in this modern era.

The ookpik that crazed the nation is a heroic bird. The story goes that an Eskimo woman was saved by one of these Arctic owls, so, in gratitude, she made a replica of one out of seal skin.

In one Victoria shop, original Arctic owls range in price from $3.50 to $10, depending on size. These are made by Canadian Eskimos, out of seal fur. Bits of seal skin are used for the eyes and nose of these creatures.

Miniature seals, made again of seal fur, sell for $4. Their front paws and flippers are made of the skin. These are really adorable creations. I made a gift of one recently, and it really made a hit.

Another inhabitant of the northlands, the Arctic goose, is miniatured in seal too. It stands on hard, seal-skin feet, and is priced at $4.

Many fascinating figures, carved from soapstone, range in price from $2.95. An interesting amulet, a small charm carried for luck and safety while hunting, sells for $2.95. It is a stone face, with a leather thong attached so that it won't be lost.

Baskets, well-made from long, tough grasses, are an example of the domestic arts. These baskets have lids, with soapstone handles. These sell for $4.95.

Slippers and mittens, made of a heavy, woolly fabric called duffle, sell for $5.50 the pair. The slippers have high sides that cover the ankles, and attractive Eskimo designs.

Do you want to know where Penny found these Eskimo arts? Give her a call at 382-3131.

Tiny Woman Becomes Judo Expert

SASKATOON (CP) — Size is no obstacle to a woman learning judo, says five-foot-four Mrs. Peter Stevens.

"People are always staggered to think that a small girl can do judo better than a big, muscular one, but it works on a system of levers," she says.

Mrs. Stevens has reached the blue-belt level. Stages of proficiency are designated by advancing through the colors red, white, yellow, orange, green, blue, brown and black.

"I once threw a man six-foot-two, a police inspector. He must have weighed 200 pounds."

A tall person also is easier to throw than a shorter one. "If you're lower than he is, his centre of gravity will be at your shoulder level which is where you're working from."

As the centre of gravity is at the waist, you have to attack from below your own shoulder level to throw a shorter person.

Mrs. Stevens says judo is of real value to a woman who must walk home alone on a dark street. But her training backfired once, she admits. In her native Manchester, England, someone grabbed her from behind. She flung the attacker to the ground before discovering it was a friend trying to have some fun.

He was a judo expert and "should have known better," she said.

DEAR ABBY...

It's Prejudicial!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Four of us girls who work together have lunch at a small luncheonette every noon. We leave work a few minutes early to be sure we get a booth. We eat our lunches at a normal rate. The place fills up quickly, and when we have a cigarette leisurely with a second cup of coffee, the glares we get from the customers who are standing over us, breathing down our necks, are enough to kill. We ignore them as though they weren't even there. We do not intentionally sit there just to be mean. We've paid for our lunches and think a second cup of coffee (and a third if we feel like it) with a cigarette is not taking advantage. We'd like your opinion.

THE FOUR DOLLS

DEAR DOLLS: If you can, in good conscience, sit and have a second and third cup of coffee "leisurely," while others are standing and waiting to be fed, then you must expect glares. (I would glare, too.)

DEAR ABBY: I am planning my wedding and would like your opinion on something. We are making up the guest list, and my parents want to invite so many people who are strangers to me and my fiance that we are not able to invite many of our friends.

The church is small and our finances are limited. My father's business acquaintances and my mother's club ladies have used up most of the guest list. I realize my parents are paying for this wedding, but I don't think my wedding should be used as an occasion to pay off social and business obligations. How do you feel about this, Abby?

BLUE BRIDE

DEAR BRIDE: The close friends of the bride and groom should be first on the list, followed by relatives, and then close friends of the couple's parents. Since the number of guests must be limited, a compromise should be made. Casual acquaintances of the couple, and business and social friends of the bride's parents should be invited only if there is room.

SHOWING IN TORONTO

Young Jet-Age Look Seen In Spring Canadian Styles

TORONTO (CP)—Color and youth will set the pace for spring fashions in Canada, judging by what is selling at the Garment Salesman Ontario Market at the Royal York this week.

Murray Kates, market vice-president, said fashions in every preident, said fashions in every line feature a young, jet-age look.

"The older generation, such as myself, are beginning to accept it."

"The Courreges influence is the greatest for all clothes. A modification of the geometric lines is combined with a filtered -down version of Mondrian as we knew it, or art and a lot of prints and color sets, but not a multi-color splash."

Mr. Kates said color combinations are popular, with camel and white heading the list.

"Skirts still are short, but not shorter.

"Swimwear has become an ensemble with tie-in jackets and skirts."

Coat and dress costumes and costume suits are selling. Dresses show the influence of the 1920s and 1930s with long torsos and swinging skirts.

Mr. Kates said fashions are making the trip from New York to Canada much faster than they did a few years ago.

"Maybe it's because of the jet age, but the days when a style took a year to get here from New York are over.

"In smaller areas public acceptance still takes a little while. I think the main reason is that the high fashion look isn't as important in the smaller centres as in large cities.

"It isn't price, because when a thing comes into fashion it filters down through the price ranges quickly. If it's way out it will sell in high fashion and then be adapted for the mass market."

TRUCK, DRIVER VANISH ON UP-ISLAND JOURNEY

PORT McNEILL (CP)—A truck loaded with bottled gas has been missing since Sunday on a rugged 150-mile trip to this northern Vancouver Island community from Courtenay.

Police and logging company employees are searching for the truck and driver, Franklin Lowrey, said to have recently moved to the Island from Kamloops.

Wilson, Pearson Carry Day At Commonwealth Meeting

By JOHN RODERICK

TOKYO (AP)—Moscow radio declared today the Soviet Union "will exert full effort to ship modern weapons" to North Viet Nam to help defeat U.S. forces.

The broadcast was an analysis of the trip of Alexander N. Shelepin, No. 3 man in the Kremlin, to Hanoi, the North Vietnamese capital. Shelepin arrived in Peking from Hanoi today for talks with the Chinese, who have been critical of Soviet military aid to North Viet Nam.

"All available aid will be extended to North Viet Nam to defeat the U.S. aggressions," said Moscow's Japanese - language broadcast, monitored here.

Shelepin's 24 - hour stopover came on the heels of President Johnson's State of the Union message in which he pledged anew to defend South Viet Nam from aggression but made new overtures for peace.

A correspondent of the Japanese Kyodo news service reported from Peking that Chinese observers there brushed aside Johnson's peace offers and attached significance only to his determination to fight on in Viet Nam.

TASS REPORTS

Tass, the Soviet news agency, told of the speech in a seven-paragraph dispatch from Washington which said:

"Johnson said that he couldn't foresee how long the Viet Nam war will go on and that it might well be a protracted and tough war or protracted and tough talks or both. On the one hand, the president expressed the hope that he will be able to end the Viet Nam war, and on the other hand he left no doubt as to the United States intention to carry on the war for months or even years."

Watchdog Group Checks Boycott

By IAN MacDONALD
Times Ottawa Correspondent

LAGOS, Nigeria—The Commonwealth pulled itself back from the brink of destruction here Wednesday. In a new found unity it hammered out a positive program for the early toppling of the Rhodesian rebel regime of Prime Minister Ian Smith.

Reached at the end of the two-day crisis talks was a great personal victory for British Prime Minister Harold Wilson, but he was given major assistance by Canada in initiatives suggested by Prime Minister Lester Pearson early in the 16-hours' work of the final day. The conference closed with the issuing of an official communique.

The delegates agreed to accept the plan of Prime Minister Pearson for a watchdog committee to check the effect of economic sanctions against the breakaway country.

In agreeing not to resort to force immediately they thus gave Britain time to prove its claim that it can topple the white-minority government which seized independence Nov. 11.

CARRIES WARNING

But the communique carried the warning that the use of force "could not be precluded if this proved necessary to restore law and order."

The representatives of 20 Commonwealth countries, meeting outside Britain for the first time, also agreed to meet again in July if the Rhodesian rebellion is not ended by then.

The watched dog committee, which will sit in London but whose makeup has not been disclosed, will advise Commonwealth governments on possible action by them or the United Nations, including provision of help for Zambia, Rhodesia's northern neighbor.

The communique showed the meeting resisted some demands for immediate military intervention. How long Prime Minister Wilson had gained to show sanctions could do the job was not indicated. Wilson went to Zambia for talks today with President Kenneth Kaunda. Zambian students demonstrated with shouts of "Wilson go home" and "Action now."

Several spokesmen said Pearson unquestionably was the second key figure at the meeting and that his diplomatic skills helped soothe feelings and pave the way for agreement. The machinery set up to direct the economic-sanction war on Rhodesia was a Pearson proposal. It brings the Africans and other Commonwealth countries directly into the campaign.

WRITTEN ASSURANCE

This was among the factors that molified the African countries along with a written assurance of determination to overthrow Smith and agreement that use of force is not precluded if necessary to restore law and order. Wilson sold them on his contention that the Smith regime will be on its last legs by about March. Although Wilson conceded in some ways, he skillfully did not pin himself down to any absolute date. However, the undertakings now mean that if need be he can tell his political opponents at home that Britain's hand can be forced eventually by the other Commonwealth countries.

He was described as being both off and on the hook. Wilson's performance in winning over the Africans on the continuation of sanctions and away from militant demands for immediate armed intervention was described as a masterful political and diplomatic move.

U.K. MINISTER PLANS VISIT TO SALISBURY

LUSAKA (Reuters) — Commonwealth Secretary Arthur Bottomley of Britain will visit Salisbury, it was announced here today by the British High Commission.

He will have talks with Sir Humphrey Gibbs, the British governor of Rhodesia who is not recognized by Premier Ian Smith.

The date of the visit was not announced.

British sources in Nairobi said Bottomley would go to Salisbury Friday to discuss with Gibbs the current situation and details of a proposed plan to distribute famine relief in Rhodesia.

British MPs Ordered Out

SALISBURY (Reuters)—Three Labor members of Britain's Parliament visiting Rhodesia have been ordered by the Rhodesian government to leave the country immediately, a government spokesman said here tonight.

The government's announcement came less than 15 minutes after the departure for Lusaka of one of the three MPs—Christopher Rowland, a parliamentary private secretary at the foreign office.

The others, David Ennals and Jeremy Bray, spent the day in Bulawayo — Rhodesia's second city, some 300 miles south of Salisbury—and had not yet returned to the capital.

Famine Aid For India

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government is planning to send $9,500,000 worth of wheat and $1,300,000 worth of rapeseed to India as famine relief, a government source said today.

Other purchases being made include $750,000 worth of dried peas and $450,000 worth of dried milk powder.

The balance of the $15,000,000 special relief program will go in purchase of other foodstuffs to be shipped to India. The kind of food is being discussed with Indian government representatives.

WIRE BRIEFS

Brezhnev Opens Talk

MOSCOW (AP) — Leonid I. Brezhnev, leader of the Soviet Communist party, began talks in Outer Mongolia today and diplomatic sources in Moscow said the consultations probably centred on tightening defences against China.

N.Y. Transit Strike Over

NEW YORK (AP) — This city's unprecedented, multi-million-dollar subway and bus strike ended shortly before dawn today, minutes after entering its 13th day.

By noon, near-normal service was restored. The transit authority announced that five hours after the settlement trains were operating on all lines of the subway system and buses were maintaining schedules normal for the time of day.

Cars continued to clog city streets, however, the result of the morning rush of 3,500,000 persons to their jobs in the city.

Mayor John V. Lindsay said in a broadcast that all the city transit authority's 6,500 subway cars and 4,000 buses could not be expected back in use "until late tonight or early Friday."

The striking AFL-CIO unions —the Transport Workers Union and the Amalgamated Transit Union — agreed to mediators' settlement terms shortly before 6:30 a.m. EST.

BUS SERVICE RESUMES

By 8 a.m., the first segment of the 237-mile subway system was carrying its first paying passengers since New Year's Day—on the shuttle train between Grand Central Station and Times Square. A half-hour later the transit authority announced that 3,200 buses were in operation.

Although describing it as "fruitless to get into the numbers game," Lindsay evaluated the new two-year labor contract for 34,400 workers at $52,000,000. But a transport workers union lawyer said it "is for $69,930,000 to the penny."

The Transit Authority estimated the unions' original demands at $680,000,000. The demands were reduced to $216,000,000 before the 5 a.m. Jan. 1 strike and scaled down again to a reported $100,000,000 during negotiations.

"No doubt there will be argument that the terms were too low or too high," Lindsay said. "But the judgment was made in behalf of the public, the city of New York and the rest of the country."

The workers went back to their jobs pending union ratification of the contract.

STRIKE COST MILLIONS

Lindsay placed the strike cost at more than $500,000,000, including $200,000,000 in wages lost.

The Commerce and Industry Association, however, has evaluated the economic impact at more than $109,000,000 a day.

Lindsay said he didn't know exactly where the money would be found to finance the agreement. He expressed the hope of maintaining the 15-cent fare "in the best interests of the people."

Although independently incorporated and supposed self-sustaining, the transit authority for several years has had to turn to the city to make up multi-million-dollar deficits.

In late morning, Supreme Court Justice Abraham N. Geller signed an order freeing ailing Transport Workers Union President Michael J. Quill and eight other labor leaders from jail sentences he imposed for contempt. At the same time he dismissed a proceeding which sought $324,000-a-day union fines for ignoring an injunction forbidding the strike.

The transit authority requested Geller's actions.

Quill, who collapsed two hours after being jailed, has been in Bellevue Hospital. His colleagues were in jail.

AFTER TALKS WITH KOSYGIN

Humphrey Signals Victory

HUMPHREY
... leaves for U.S.

NEW DELHI (UPI)—Vice-President Hubert H. Humphrey and Secretary of State Dean Rusk conferred at length today with Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin, reportedly on Viet Nam.

The hour and 43-minute secret session was one of the longest between American and Soviet leaders in years. It ran 15 minutes longer than scheduled.

He was solemn-faced when reporters caught a momentary glimpse of him through the glass doors of a conference room during the meeting.

But the vice-president later emerged smiling from the conference. He and Ambassador Chester Bowles, who also attended the session, held up two fingers in the traditional V for victory sign as they sped away in a limousine for meetings with Indian officials.

U.S. and Russian spokesmen refused to disclose what was discussed, and by mutual consent Humphrey and Kosygin refused to answer reporters' questions.

But reliable sources said the talks centered around the war in Viet Nam.

Gun-Butter Formula For a 'Mighty' U.S.

WASHINGTON (CP)—The United States is mighty enough to provide all the guns required in Viet Nam while building "a great society" at home, President Johnson said Wednesday night.

The U.S. will stay in Viet Nam until Communist aggression ceases, Johnson told the nation in the annual State of the Union address to the new session of Congress. (See Story Page 3).

Democrats and Republicans applauded his determination to press for peace in Viet Nam although "we have received no response to prove either success or failure" on the current American peace offensive.

Republicans attacked many of Johnson's domestic program proposals and his assertion that the budget deficit for the next fiscal year would be held to $1,800,000,000.

Johnson said if sacrifices have to be made at home because of commitments abroad they will be borne by those able to pay rather than the poor—perhaps a reference to the general tax increase about which there has been speculation.

Johnson did recommend resumption of excise tax rates on autos and telephone service which had been reduced only 12 days ago, and also some tax-structure overhaul to improve revenues.

If the "necessities of Viet Nam require it, I will not hesitate to return to Congress for additional revenues," he said.

He forecast budget spending

Viets, U.S. To Observe Tet Truce

SAIGON (UPI)—The United States and South Viet Nam announced today they will observe a ceasefire in Viet Nam during the lunar new year celebrations starting next week. The truce is expected to last at least three days.

The Communist Viet Cong earlier announced they would observe a four-day ceasefire beginning at 12:01 a.m. Jan. 20.

The lunar new year, called Tet, begins at 12:01 a.m. Jan. 21, ushering in the Year of the Horse in the Oriental calendar, and ending the Year of the Snake. The horse is considered the most propitious of the calendar.

HIGHWAY HOLE OPENS AND TRUCK FALLS IN

ABBOTSFORD, B.C. (CP) — A Sumas man was injured today when the truck in which he was riding dropped 50 feet when a section of the Sumas highway caved in.

George Streber is in hospital here for examination, but is believed to have suffered only minor injuries. His son, also in the truck at the time, was not injured.

Police said an old mine shaft caved in during the night, leaving the hard surface of the road intact. The road collapsed as the truck passed over, dropping the vehicle into a deep hole.

Ousted MLA Demands 'Immediate' Byelection

William Hartley, who lost his seat in the legislature this week due to mistakes by government-appointed returning officers two years ago, today demanded that Premier Bennett call a byelection immediately to fill the Yale seat during the coming session.

Premier Bennett today brushed off the demand, reinforcing his refusal Wednesday to call byelections in either Yale or North Okanagan (where MLA George McLeod died last month).

Instead, the premier said he personally would look after the needs of the two ridings—as well as his own South Okanagan —during the session.

"The premier will be a special watchdog," Mr. Bennett put it.

"He thinks he's some sort of 'big daddy,'" snapped Mr. Hartley, who sat through two sessions as a New Democratic Party member. He was contacted in his home at Merritt by The Times.

"The people of Yale are quite competent to run their own affairs and select their own representative.

"If he can get away with this in North Okanagan and in Yale, how much longer are the people going to have representative government in this province?

"The government appointed the returning officers who committed the irregularities in the election.

"So it is the government, through its own mismanagement, that has caused this elec-

ROUND-A-BOUT

By DOUGLAS HILLSIDE

A spy tells us that city motorcycle policemen have been ticketing city garbage trucks double-parked in the course of their duties.

While the fine income will make little difference to the civic budget (unless it's the driver personally who pays the fine), the idea seems commendable. Double parking, done chiefly by commercial vehicles, has long been a hazard and a nuisance downtown.

We didn't mean to sound the way we sounded in that item Tuesday when we said, "We never make mistakes."

We were trying to be funny, see. After drawing attention to some mistakes made by others, we were trying to take the sting out, by adding, "We never make misteaks."

Spelling "mistakes" wrong we thought we'd make you smile in sympathy with stupid writers and flub-fingered printers.

But down in the printer's realm somebody made a mistake and spelled the word right . . .

Does anybody follow this?

During Safe Driving Week (Dec. 1 to 7) there were 78 Canadians killed on our streets and highways and 1,500 injured.

"This may not be attributed either to faulty roads or vehicle design," said Canadian Highway Safety Council director W. Arch Bryce. He blamed "ignorance, inattention and willful breaking of the law."

But just recently CBC-TV aired a campaign showing up the unsafe features which could be remedied in new cars—rigid rear view mirrors which scalp people, projecting knobs and door handles which could be recessed, rigid steering posts which spear drivers.

Letting car designers completely off the hook may make Mr. Bryce's comment the sweeping statement of the week.

Ex-Gestapo Chief, Aides Under Arrest

MUNICH (AP)—Dr. Wilhelm Harster, chief of the Gestapo in Naiz-occupied Holland, was arrested Wednesday on suspicion of complicity in the murder of 83,000 persons. One of them was Anne Frank, whose diary immortalized the ordeal of Dutch Jews under Nazi rule.

Two wartime assistants, one a woman, were arrested with Harster.

Harster, 61, is also suspected of complicity in the attempted murder of 317 persons. He was a major - general in the SS (Elite Guard) and was responsible for transporting Jews to concentration camps.

Those arrested with him were: Wilhelm Zoepf, 57, an adviser to the Nazi security police on Jewish matters. He is suspected of aiding and abetting 94,328 cases of murder.

Gertrude Slottje, 63, also an expert on Jewish matters for the security police in Holland. She is suspected of aiding and abetting in 93,328 cases of murder.

ONLY FATHER SURVIVED

Anne Frank and three members of her family died in a concentration camp after they hid from the Nazis in an Amsterdam attic for nearly four years. Only her father, Otto Frank, survived.

Their fate became one of the famous epics of the war through publication of The Diary of Anne Frank. It later was made into a successful play and a movie.

A Vienna police officer, Karl Silverbauer, admitted in 1963 that he took part in the arrest of the Frank family while serving with the Gestapo in Amsterdam.

He was suspended from the Vienna police force and while Austrian authorities probed into his wartime activities fled to Switzerland. There, he told an interviewer the Franks had been betrayed by a Dutchman who worked in their drugstore.

The authorities said Harster, Zoepf and Miss Slottke would probably be brought before a Munich court to answer the charges.

NEGOTIATIONS UNDER WAY

City Police Seek 9 Per Cent Pay Hike

Victoria City Police Commission was told by the policemen's union that Port Moody police were recently granted an 8.2 per cent hike to move ahead of the Victoria level.

Other items mentioned in Wednesday's preliminary discussions on what promises to be lengthy negotiations included a request for changes in annual vacation regulations. There was also an indication that the old problem of courtroom appearances could be a major negotiating factor.

The commission countered union requests by asking for a two-year agreement rather than the existing one-year contract.

The union officials indicated that they would be prepared to accept a two-year wage contract but they would want to be able to open the contract for discussion on working conditions at any time during the two-year period.

The commission is also asking for the insertion of a clause denying a policeman the right to work at any other job.

"I can say definitely that no members of this department work at other jobs," he said. "We might be able to go along with this providing the word employment was clearly defined. If it included off-duty police work I don't think we could go along with it."

The police commission stand was that it was not the intention of the commission to ban an off-duty policeman from doing off-duty police work.

A major balk came from the union officials when Police Chief J. F. Gregory asked for a clause to be inserted in the agreement giving him the right to appoint a sergeant-major to be in charge of police force discipline.

Union discussions on this point had resulted in unanimous disagreement with the idea, the meeting was told.

Chief Gregory said the man he was looking for should be an expert in the field of discipline but need not be an expert in law.

The police union stand was that anyone with the rank of sergeant-major should be proficient in all phases of police work to earn the respect of the force.

Further discussions will be held during the next two weeks.

'Secretary' Cell Found

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Discovery that the brain has two different kinds of cells—one of which secretes a substance that prevents repetition of harmful actions and thus may be a key factor in learning—was reported Wednesday by a British scientist.

Dr. John Z. Young, professor of human anatomy at University College in London, spoke at a conference at the California Institute of Technology.

He said his research was with small octopi but he is sure the newly found cell exists in the brain of all animals, including man.

Scientists heretofore have believed the brain has only one kind of cell, the function of which is to pass along electrical impulses.

BLOCKS THE SIGNALS

The special, substance-secreting cell, Dr. Young said, gives off an enzyme which blocks the passage of signals through other cells when those signals tell the body to do something which the brain has learned will be harmful.

He discovered the existence of the cells and the secreted enzime in studying how an octopus learns when to attack and when to retreat from an unfamiliar object.

The two kinds of brain cells apparently form an electrochemical switching system. The switch remains open when the octopus touches something that means food but closes—through action of the secretary cell — when it touches something that means danger, Dr. Young said.

Structural difference between the two types of brain cells was found with an extremely powerful electron microscope.

VANCOUVER (CP) — The British Columbia Federation of Labor (CLC) has gone into the travel business.

The 100,000-member body will charter a DC-8 aircraft from Canadian Pacific Airlines to carry unionists to Britain and back for a three-week holiday.

Affiliated unions will be told the seats will be filled on a first-come-first-serve basis.

The flight will leave Vancouver Sept. 24 and return Oct. 15.

IN STEP WITH STYLE

Japanese Designer Wows Fashion Writers

NEW YORK — The transportation strike is still on and as we are transported from place to place by cars and buses, we are gazed upon as if we had just dropped in from the moon. The fashion shows are rolling along . . . a little late and often a model or two short . . . if you can't get there you can't and no one can help.

Damaske

Taking his inspiration from the Maiko . . . the lovely junior Geisha girls, Hosono has developed a collection of light and bright evening clothes, gay and festive at home or play clothes and smart and elegant daytime costumes. Clothes carry at least one authentic Japanese touch . . . bamboo running up the front of an evening dress, kimono sleeves and sash ties beautifully placed and court obies translated into stunning one-of-a-kind dresses. In the January issue of Vancouver Life I found a Japanese expression which seems to tell the story of this collection. SHIBUI . . . Japanese balance of opposites . . . perfected artlessness . . . pronounced understatement . . . refined, a consciously arranged interplay of color.

ALL OF SILK

Next stop . . . the Grand Ballroom of the Plaza Hotel for the "Brilliance of Silk" show arranged by the International Silk Association of U.S.A. This is an outstanding show as it is a preview of designs from each collection seen throughout the week. Eighty-seven of the most outstanding silk garments are chosen to introduce the visiting editors to shows to come. This show is a magnificent production. The runway was thickly scattered with golden glitter . . . the backdrop was a huge butterfly whose wings fluttered gently to allow the models to enter and exit. Mobile butterflies swayed gently about the ballroom and the floral table centrepieces had golden butterflies bursting out like shooting stars.

This is the moment of truth when fashion impressions begin to take shape . . . the Spring and Summer 1966 Look emerges as a living story. The look may be slightly exaggerated for the average woman but the indications are there as to what turn fashion is taking. The shortness of skirts is a bit shattering . . . they have not moved up a gentle inch or two but have climbed two and three inches above the knee. When the long torso look is added there just isn't much skirt at all and what there is is inclined to be 'flirty with frills and flounces.' It is definitely a season for the young . . . little smocked dresses worn with pale hose and strapped slippers make one think of girls' birthday party dresses.

"Little Nothing" is an expression which comes to mind as the short late day silks parade the runway. String straps supporting short slender shafts of silk look almost like slips. Colors are brilliant and there is lots of glitter. Hair is very short and earrings very long . . . bouncing on the shoulders in many cases. High slender heels are non-existant . . . shoes say late day by being bare and strappy.

The water shortage is not acute but no water is served with meals and there are notices in every room to conserve water. The downtown hotels are jammed as those who live in the suburbs check in to be sure of getting to work. Hotel staffs are staying in the buildings in order to insure service. Stores are open only on a part-time basis and theatres have tickets to offer even for the top shows . . . my roommate Shirley Davis of Davenport, Iowa, today obtained tickets for us to see Ginger Rogers in "Hello Dolly," which has been booked solid for months . . . bad luck for some people is good luck for others.

Entertain Newlyweds

Mr. and Mrs. H. Gerald Milburn will entertain at a family reunion and buffet supper Sunday evening for newlyweds Mr. and Mrs. Richard Reed. The honor couple was married in Duncan United Church Saturday in a quiet service at which Rev. B. Knipe officiated. The bride, the former Mrs. Laurie Pattinson, wore a dress of beige brocade, complemented with a hat en tone and bouquet of pink carnations. Her only attendant was her sister, Mrs. E. Anderson, Duncan, who was in a suit of turquoise wool with matching hat. Mr. Anderson was best man. A luncheon and reception followed in the Andersons' Duncan home. The newlyweds are now making their home at 1853 Crescent Road.

Family Dinner

Reservations are already being made for a family dinner, to be held in the clubhouse of the Royal Colwood Golf and Country Club on Sunday, Jan. 23, from 4:30 to 6:30 p.m. Members will be joined by their children and friends for the festive affair, which will feature a buffet-style meal, offering Southern fried chicken, roast pork with apple sauce, the club's specialty, deep-fried sausage, and other items. The meal will be capped with a trifle pudding. To entertain the children, it has been arranged to show films after the dinner.

Hosts Speaker

Following the meeting of the Women's Canadian Club, Wednesday afternoon in the Empress Hotel, members of the executive entertained guest speaker, Mrs. R. J. Bower, at tea. Presiding at the refreshment table were Mrs. D. Leslie Macdonell and Alderman Lily Wilson. Attending were president Miss Elizabeth Forbes, Mrs. H. H. Youson, Mrs. R. T. Wallace, Miss Jessie Gordon, Mrs. John Brown, Mrs. Frank Mack, Mrs. T. C. Evans, Mrs. Dal MacLeod, Mrs. C. L. Smith, Mrs. A. S. Stringer, Miss Mary Ashworth, Miss Kathleen Agnew, and Mrs. T. H. Johns.

Announcement

A wedding of interest to many Victorians took place, Wednesday, in the chapel of St. John's Anglican Church, when Miss Isabel Margaret (Peggie) Jackson became the bride of Joseph Leslie Buckley. Canon George Biddle officiated at the quiet ceremony. The bride, well-known in tennis and badminton circles in the city, was formerly a staff member of James Richardson and Sons, and the groom, before retiring here in 1961, was an official of the Saskatchewan Wheat Pool in Regina. Following a honeymoon trip to California, the couple will make their home in Victoria.

Ski Trip

Dr. and Mrs. M. J. Penn and family travelled to Vernon recently on a ski trip. They returned to their Rainbow Street home on Sunday.

RACIAL ISSUE EXPLAINED

A look at the other side of the much criticized apartheid question of the Republic of South Africa was given by Mrs. R. J. Bower Wednesday afternoon.

Speaking to the Women's Canadian Club in the Empress Hotel, Mrs. Bower said, "Most people are justifiably critical of the 'apart-ism' or separation both politically and socially of the Negro and white races. But many don't seem to know what the white government is doing for the Negro.

"Following the Second World War, a tremendous change occurred in Africa; prewar Africa was mainly governed by the European colonial powers," she continued. After 1945, one colony after another was granted self-government.

The white government of South Africa practiced apartheid to keep white supremacy, even though they were outnumbered four to one by other races. They were determined, she stressed, and still are, not to give the Negro the right to govern until he is fully educated and equipped to accept the responsibility.

She cited the fighting in the Congo and economic and political chaos in other recently autonomous countries as results of ill-prepared self-determination

PREPARATIONS

To begin the project of preparing the Negro for governing, she said, the white government drafted series of eight Negro states, to be ruled mainly by the Banto (negro) with white aid. The first of this was the Transkei, homeland of the Bantu.

The area known as the Transkei, she continued, is about half the size of Scotland and much resembles that country. Here the Bantu is assisted and aided by the whites in agricultural methods and industry to help them in self-determination.

Education is playing an important role in this project. Serving the 270,000 students in the Transkei are 630 schools manned by 5,000 native teachers. Advanced teaching is available in a college and the government has opened industrial schools and even schools for the disabled to help with the problem.

The white government at Pretoria, though, she noted, still retains "the say" in foreign affairs, customs, broadcasting, currency and telephones.

"At present," said Mrs. Bower, "the government of the Republic of South Africa is treating the Transkei simply as a developing colony."

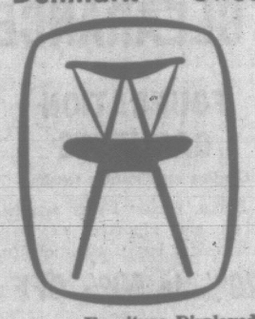

However, if this proves successful, and the rest of the plan of eight similar projects becomes reality, then the republic will combine in a commonwealth of negro states.

President Miss Elizabeth Forbes welcomed the guest speaker, who was thanked by Mrs. R. B. Wallace.

ALMOND CRUNCH COFFEE CAKE

Half cup brown sugar, packed; 1 2/3 cups sifted all-purpose flour, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, ½ cup roasted diced almonds, ½ cup granulated sugar, 3 teaspoons baking powder, ¾ teaspoon salt, ¼ cup shortening, 1 egg, ½ cup milk.

Blend brown sugar, 2 tablespoons flour, cinnamon and butter until crumbly; stir in almonds.

Sift remaining flour with granulated sugar, baking powder and salt.

Cut in shortening until well dispersed. Beat egg lightly with milk; blend into flour mixture.

Spread half of dough in greased 9-inch square pan. Sprinkle with half of almond mixture.

Repeat layers.

Bake in 375-degree (moderately hot) oven 25 to 30 minutes.

Serve hot, cut into 3-inch squares.

Ironing Hair Presents Hazards

SYDNEY, N.S.W. (Reuters)—Hairdressers here have been warning Australian girls, who use the household iron to achieve a "straight look" hairdo, that they can damage their hair.

The girls get rid of their ourls by dampening their hair, laying it on an ironing board and running over it with a warm iron. They save up to $15—the price they would have to pay to have their hair straightened in a salon.

But, as one leading city hairdresser said: "Ironing is bad for the hair. If heat is applied like this, it will dry the hair and the girls could even burn their scalps. After such treatment, the hair would remain straight for only a few days at most. As soon as it gets wet, too, all the curls and waves will return."

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Most Obvious Way of Losing Weight

This is the fourth in a series of articles in which Josephine Lowman brings you her Beauty Improvement Plan in an attempt to help you lose up to 20 pounds in just eight weeks. Clip the special menus and exercises which appear each day so you may re-use them. Today Josephine Lowman talks about food and YOU!

Well, they did it again! The turkey and dressing and gravy and plum pudding landed just where I didn't want them to. What about you? This the appropriate time to make New Year's resolutions and the time when they are most likely to be put into effect — when the seams are bursting! Act now before you let them out. Don't weaken!

Lowman Eight-Week

Want to join the fun? Thousands and thousands of women are following my Beauty Improvement Plan, many of them for a loss of 15 or 20 pounds in eight weeks. Others wish to see how much they can improve their appearance generally and perfect their measurements in eight weeks.

If you have been following this program, you have now analyzed your figure, decided what your ideal weight is, and weighed and measured yourself. You have also been using the sample menus I have published each day.

The main reason for overweight is simply eating more food than the body needs. The rest is stored as fatty deposits. In a small percentage of cases a glandular deficiency may play a part but this is so rare that you can probably forget all about it.

No one food is fattening or slimming. Any food is fattening if you eat too much of it. However, some foods bring you so many calories that if you indulge in them heavily or regularly, there are not enough calories left for the essential foods and the variety of foods a good reducing diet requires. There just isn't room for many of them or frequent consumption of them when you wish to lose weight.

Clip the menus I am printing. They have been carefully planned and calorie calculated. These will give you a start and you can also refer to them when I analyze them for you on next Monday.

RESCUE CENTRE EXPECTED HERE

The air-sea rescue co-ordinations centre at Vancouver is expected to be moved to Victoria this summer, it was learned today.

The rescue centre, now located at Sea Island RCAF station, co-ordinates rescue work by aircraft there and at Comox RCAF base with coast guard vessels and civilian spotters located throughout B.C.

The Times was unable to confirm the move with service authorities but unofficially learned an announcement will be made at an early date.

He will operate under jurisdiction of the overall marine commander in Halifax, Rear Admiral William Landymore.

Rear Admiral Stirling's command will include Neptunes and air-sea rescue Albatross aircraft and helicopters now based at Comox.

There was no indication that any of the rescue aircraft would be based here.

Viets, U.S. To Observe Tet Truce

SAIGON (UPI)—The United States and South Viet Nam announced today they will observe a ceasefire in Viet Nam during the lunar new year celebrations starting next week. The truce is expected to last at least three days.

The Communist Viet Cong earlier announced they would observe a four-day ceasefire beginning at 12:01 a.m. Jan. 20.

The lunar new year, called Tet, begins at 12:01 a.m. Jan. 21, ushering in the Year of the Horse in the Oriental calendar, and ending the Year of the Snake. The horse is considered the most propitious of the calendar.

Modern Arms Promised N. Viet Nam

By JOHN RODERICK

TOKYO (AP)—Moscow radio declared today the Soviet Union "will exert full effort to ship modern weapons" to North Viet Nam to help defeat U.S. forces.

The broadcast was an analysis of the trip of Alexander N. Shelepin, No. 3 man in the Kremlin, to Hanoi, the North Vietnamese capital. Shelepin arrived in Peking from Hanoi today for talks with the Chinese, who have been critical of Soviet military aid to North Viet Nam.

"All available aid will be extended to North Viet Nam to defeat the U.S. aggressions," said Moscow's Japanese - language broadcast, monitored here.

Shelepin's 24 - hour stopover came on the heels of President Johnson's State of the Union message in which he pledged anew to defend South Viet Nam from aggression but made new overtures for peace.

A correspondent of the Japanese Kyodo news service reported from Peking that Chinese observers there brushed aside Johnson's peace offers and attached significance only to his determination to fight on in Viet Nam.

Tass, the Soviet news agency, told of the speech in a seven-paragraph dispatch from Washington which said:

"Johnson said that he couldn't foresee how long the Viet Nam war will go on and that it might well be a protracted and tough war or protracted and tough talks or both. On the one hand, the president expressed the hope that he will be able to end the Viet Nam war, and on the other hand he left no doubt as to the United States intention to carry on the war for months or even years."

TNT Plot Alleged

Bennett Rejects Byelection Demand

Premier Takes 'Watchdog Role'

William Hartley, who lost his seat in the legislature this week due to mistakes by government-appointed returning officers two years ago, today demanded that Premier Bennett call a byelection immediately to fill the Yale seat during the coming session.

Premier Bennett today brushed off the demand, reinforcing his refusal Wednesday to call byelections in either Yale or North Okanagan (where MLA George McLeod died last month).

Instead, the premier said he personally would look after the needs of the two ridings—as well as his own South Okanagan—during the session.

"The premier will be a special watchdog," Mr. Bennett put it.

"He thinks he's some sort of 'big daddy,'" snapped Mr. Hartley, who sat through two sessions as a New Democratic Party member. He was contacted in his home at Merritt by The Times.

"The people of Yale are quite competent to run their own affairs and select their own representative.

"If he can get away with this in North Okanagan and in Yale, how much longer are the people going to have representative government in this province?

"The government appointed the returning officers who committed the irregularities in the election.

"So it is the government, through its own mismanagement, that has caused this election to be declared void and it is the government that will be responsible for Yale going unrepresented in the third session of the 27th Parliament opening January 27."

Mr. Hartley said his chief concern is that there be a quick

AFTER TALKS WITH KOSYGIN

VP Signals Victory

HUMPHREY ... leaves for U.S.

NEW DELHI (UPI)—Vice-President Hubert H. Humphrey and Secretary of State Dean Rusk conferred at length today with Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin, reportedly on Viet Nam.

The hour and 43-minute secret session was one of the longest between American and Soviet leaders in years. It ran 15 minutes longer than scheduled.

He was solemn-faced when reporters caught a momentary glimpse of him through the glass doors of a conference room during the meeting.

But the vice-president later emerged smiling from the conference. He and Ambassador Chester Bowles, who also attended the session, held up two fingers in the traditional V for victory sign as they sped away in a limousine for meetings with Indian officials.

U.S. and Russian spokesmen refused to disclose what was discussed, and by mutual consent Humphrey and Kosygin refused to answer reporters' questions.

But reliable sources said the talks centered around the war in Viet Nam.

Gun-Butter Formula For a 'Mighty' U.S.

WASHINGTON (CP) — The United States is mighty enough to provide all the guns required in Viet Nam while building "a great society" at home, President Johnson said Wednesday night.

The U.S. will stay in Viet Nam until Communist aggression ceases, Johnson told the nation in the annual State of the Union address to the new session of Congress. (See Story Page 3).

Democrats and Republicans applauded his determination to press for peace in Viet Nam although "we have received no response to prove either success or failure" on the current American peace offensive.

Republicans attacked many of Johnson's domestic program proposals and his assertion that the budget deficit for the next fiscal year would be held to $1,800,000,000.

Johnson said if sacrifices have to be made at home because of commitments abroad they will be borne by those able to pay rather than the poor—perhaps a reference to the general tax increase about which there has been speculation.

Johnson did recommend resumption of excise tax rates on autos and telephone service which had been reduced only 12 days ago, and also some tax-structure overhaul to improve revenues.

If the "necessities of Viet Nam require it, I will not hesitate to return to Congress for additional revenues," he said.

He forecast budget spending

He will have talks with Sir Humphrey Gibbs, the British governor of Rhodesia who is not recognized by Premier Ian Smith.

The date of the visit was not announced.

British sources in Nairobi said Bottomley would go to Salisbury Friday to discuss with Gibbs the current situation and details of a proposed plan to distribute famine relief in Rhodesia.

UNIONISTS FREED

N.Y. Transit Strike Over

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson said today the transit strike settlement in New York violates the federal government's wage-price guidelines.

NEW YORK (AP) — This city's unprecedented, multi-million-dollar subway and bus strike ended shortly before dawn today, minutes after entering its 13th day.

By noon, near-normal service was restored. The transit authority announced that five hours after the settlement trains were operating on all lines of the subway system and buses were maintaining schedules normal for the time of day.

Cars continued to clog city streets, however, the result of the morning rush of 3,500,000 persons to their jobs in the city.

Mayor John V. Lindsay said in a broadcast that all the city transit authority's 6,500 subway cars and 4,000 buses could not be expected back in use "until late tonight or early Friday."

The striking AFL-CIO unions —the Transport Workers Union and the Amalgamated Transit Union — agreed to mediators' settlement terms shortly before 6:30 a.m. EST.

BUS SERVICE RESUMES

By 8 a.m., the first segment of the 237-mile subway system was carrying its first paying passengers since New Year's Day—on the shuttle train between Grand Central Station and Times Square. A half-hour later the transit authority announced that 3,200 buses were in operation.

Although describing it as "fruitless to get into the numbers game," Lindsay evaluated the new two-year labor contract for 34,400 workers at $52,000,000. But a transport workers union lawyer said it "is for $58,980,000 to the penny."

The Transit Authority estimated the unions' original demands at $680,000,000. The demands were reduced to $216,000,000 before the 5 a.m. Jan. 1 strike and scaled down again to a reported $100,000,000 during negotiations.

"No doubt there will be argument that the terms were too low or too high," Lindsay said. "But the judgment was made in behalf of the public, the city of New York and the rest of the country."

The workers went back to their jobs pending union ratification of the contract.

STRIKE COST MILLIONS

Lindsay placed the strike cost at more than $500,000,000, including $200,000,000 in wages lost.

The Commerce and Industry Association, however, has evaluated the economic impact at more than $100,000,000 a day.

Lindsay said he didn't know exactly where the money would be found to finance the agreement. He expressed the hope of maintaining the 15-cent fare "in the best interests of the people."

RHODESIA PARLEY

Pearson, Wilson In Star Roles

By IAN MacDONALD
Times Ottawa Correspondent

LAGOS, Nigeria—The Commonwealth pulled itself back from the brink of destruction here Wednesday. In a new found unity it hammered out a positive program for the early toppling of the Rhodesian rebel regime of Prime Minister Ian Smith.

Reached at the end of the two-day crisis talks was a great personal victory for British Prime Minister Harold Wilson, but he was given major assistance by Canada in initiatives suggested by Prime Minister Lester Pearson early in the 16-hours' work of the final day. The conference closed with the issuing of an official communique.

The delegates agreed to accept the plan of Prime Minister Pearson for a watchdog committee to check the effect of economic sanctions against the breakaway country.

In agreeing not to resort to force immediately they thus gave Britain time to prove its claim that it can topple the white-minority government which seized independence Nov. 11.

CARRIES WARNING

But the communique carried the warning that the use of force "could not be precluded if this proved necessary to restore law and order."

The representatives of 20 Commonwealth countries, meeting outside Britain for the first time, also agreed to meet again in July if the Rhodesian rebellion is not ended by then.

The watched dog committee, which will sit in London but whose makeup has not been disclosed, will advise Commonwealth governments on possible action by them or the United Nations, including provision of help for Zambia, Rhodesia's northern neighbor.

The communique showed the meeting resisted some demands for immediate military intervention. How long Prime Minister Wilson had gained to show sanctions could do the job was not indicated. Wilson went to Zambia for talks today with President Kenneth Kaunda. Zambian students demonstrated with shouts of "Wilson go home" and "Action now."

Several spokesmen said Pearson unquestionably was the second key figure at the meeting and that his diplomatic skills helped soothe feelings and pave the way for agreement. The machinery set up to direct the economic-sanction war on Rhodesia was a Pearson proposal. It brings the Africans and other Commonwealth countries directly into the campaign.

WRITTEN ASSURANCE

This was among the factors that molified the African countries along with a written assurance of determination to overthrow Smith and agreement that use of force is not precluded if necessary to restore law and order. Wilson told them on his contention that the Smith regime will be on its last legs by about March. Although Wilson conceded in some ways, he skillfully did not pin himself down to any absolute date. However, the undertakings now mean that if need be he can tell his political opponents at home that Britain's hand can be forced eventually by the other Commonwealth countries.

He was described as being both off and on the hook. Wilson's performance in winning over the Africans on the continuation of sanctions and away from militant demands for immediate armed intervention was described as a masterful political and diplomatic move.

By the time he was done he

HIGHWAY HOLE OPENS AND TRUCK FALLS IN

ABBOTSFORD, B.C. (CP) — A Sumas man was injured today when the truck in which he was riding dropped 50 feet when a section of the Sumas highway caved in.

George Streber is in hospital here for examination, but is believed to have suffered only minor injuries. His son, also in the truck at the time, was not injured.

Police said an old mine shaft caved in during the night, leaving the hard surface of the road intact. The road collapsed as the truck passed over, dropping the vehicle into a deep hole.

ROUND-A-BOUT

By DOUGLAS HILLSIDE

A spy tells us that city motorcycle policemen have been ticketing city garbage trucks double-parked in the course of their duties.

While the fine income will make little difference to the civic budget (unless it's the driver personally who pays the fine), the idea seems commendable. Double parking, done chiefly by commercial vehicles, has long been a hazard and a nuisance downtown.

We didn't mean to sound the way we sounded in that item Tuesday when we said, "We never make mistakes."

Spelling "mistakes" wrong we thought, we'd make you smile in sympathy with stupid writers and flub-fingered printers.

But down in the printer's realm somebody made a mistake and spelled the word right . . .

During Safe Driving Week, (Dec. 1 to 7) there were 78 Canadians killed on our streets and highways and 1,500 injured.

"This may not be attributed either to faulty roads or vehicle design," said Canadian Highway Safety Council director W. Arch Bryce. He blamed "ignorance, inattention and willful breaking of the law."

But just recently CBC-TV aired a campaign showing up the unsafe features which could be remedied in new cars—rigid rear view mirrors which scalp people, projecting knobs and door handles which could be recessed, rigid steering posts which spear drivers.

Letting car designers completely off the hook may make Mr. Bryce's comment the sweeping statement of the week.

Ex-Gestapo Chief, Aides Under Arrest

MUNICH (AP)—Dr. Wilhelm Harster, chief of the Gestapo in Naiz-occupied Holland, was arrested Wednesday on suspicion of complicity in the murder of 83,000 persons. One of them was Anne Frank, whose diary immortalized the ordeal of Dutch Jews under Nazi rule.

Two wartime assistants, one a woman, were arrested with Harster.

Harster, 61, is also suspected of complicity in the attempted murder of 317 persons. He was a major - general in the SS (Elite Guard) and was responsible for transporting Jews to concentration camps.

Those arrested with him were: Wilhelm Zoepf, 57, an adviser to the Nazi security police on Jewish matters. He is suspected of aiding and abetting 94,328 cases of murder.

Gertrude Slottje, 63, also an expert on Jewish matters for the security police in Holland. She is suspected of aiding and abetting in 93,328 cases of murder.

ONLY FATHER SURVIVED

Anne Frank and three members of her family died in a concentration camp after they hid from the Nazis in an Amsterdam attic for nearly four years. Only her father, Otto Frank, survived.

Their fate became one of the famous epics of the war through publication of The Diary of Anne Frank. It later was made into a successful play and a movie.

A Vienna police officer, Karl Silverbauer, admitted in 1963 that he took part in the arrest of the Frank family while serving with the Gestapo in Amsterdam.

He was suspended from the Vienna police force and while Austrian authorities probed into his wartime activities fled to Switzerland. There, he told an interviewer the Franks had been betrayed by a Dutchman who worked in their drugstore.

The authorities said Harster, Zoepf and Miss Slottke would probably be brought before a Munich court to answer the charges.

NEGOTIATIONS UNDER WAY

City Police Seek 9 Per Cent Pay Hike

The increase would raise first class constables from $528 to $570 per month.

Victoria City Police Commission was told by the policemen's union that Port Moody police were recently granted an 8.2 per cent hike to move ahead of the Victoria level.

Other items mentioned in Wednesday's preliminary discussions on what promises to be lengthy negotiations included a request for changes in annual vacation regulations. There was also an indication that the old problem of courtroom appearances could be a major negotiating factor.

The commission countered union requests by asking for a two-year agreement rather than the existing one-year contract.

The union officials indicated that they would be prepared to accept a two-year wage contract but they would want to be able to open the contract for discussion on working conditions at any time during the two-year period.

The commission is also asking for the insertion of a clause denying a policeman the right to work at any other job.

A police union spokesman said no members of the force were at present "moonlighting."

"I can say definitely that no members of this department work at other jobs," he said. "We might be able to go along with this providing the word employment was clearly defined. If it included off-duty police work I don't think we could go along with it."

The police commission stand was that it was not the intention of the commission to ban an off-duty policeman from doing off-duty police work.

A major balk came from the union officials when Police Chief J. F. Gregory asked for a clause to be inserted in the agreement giving him the right to appoint a sergeant-major to be in charge of police force discipline.

Union discussions on this point had resulted in unanimous disagreement with the idea, the meeting was told.

Chief Gregory said the man he was looking for should be an expert in the field of discipline but need not be an expert in law.

The police union stand was that anyone with the rank of sergeant-major should be proficient in all phases of police work to earn the respect of the force.

Further discussions will be held during the next two weeks.

'Secretary' Cell Found

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Discovery that the brain has two different kinds of cells—one of which secretes a substance that prevents repetition of harmful actions and thus may be a key factor in learning—was reported Wednesday by a British scientist.

Dr. John Z. Young, professor of human anatomy at University College in London, spoke at a conference at the California Institute of Technology.

He said his research was with small octopi but he is sure the newly found cell exists in the brain of all animals, including man.

Scientists heretofore have believed the brain has only one kind of cell, the function of which is to pass along electrical impulses.

BLOCKS THE SIGNALS

The special, substance-secreting cell, Dr. Young said, gives off an enzyme which blocks the passage of signals through other cells when those signals tell the body to do something which the brain has learned will be harmful.

He discovered the existence of the cells and the secreted enzime in studying how an octopus learns when to attack and when to retreat from an unfamiliar object.

The two kinds of brain cells apparently form an electrochemical switching system. The switch remains open when the octopus touches something that means food but closes—through action of the secretary cell — when it touches something that means danger, Dr. Young said.

Structural difference between the two types of brain cells was found with an extremely powerful electron microscope.

. . . MEETING

had the Africans feeling they were on the general staff of the drive to beat Smith. There were signs of relief among many delegates including Canada when the communique was hammered out and released.

Some African nations went into the talks in a mood that was angry to the point they might have walked out on the Commonwealth. The seeds of destruction of the 22-nation organization were strewn at Lagos but they did not germinate. Prime Minister Pearson later commented that he had come to the conference knowing it would be a difficult one.

He was the only head of the old Commonwealth to come, which also made it easier for Wilson to attend. Australia did not participate and New Zealand Prime Minister K. J. Holyoake also stayed home and sent representatives. A total of 19 of the 22 member countries participated.

Ghana and Tanzania boycotted the talks called by Nigeria. Pearson said the issue dealt with was one "which could have had unfortunate consequences not only for the Rhodesian people but for the Commonwealth as a whole if it (the conference) had ended in division."

He added: "The communique shows that danger has been avoided.

"I believe the Commonwealth conference in facing this problem and reaching agreement has shown once again the Commonwealth's capacity for adaptability to new situations and confirms its value as multi-racial association."

The communique hammered out by officials and approved by the heads of delegations at the Federal Palace Hotel conference site showed the agreement reached after a rocky opening day when Britain was bitterly attacked by Sierra Leone and some other countries. It pointed out it was the first Commonwealth conference of its type outside of London and the first held since the Commonwealth secretariat was set up last June. Secretary-General Arnold Smith of Canada also is credited with major achievements in the results reached.

The communique said the prime ministers reaffirmed that the responsibility for guiding Rhodesia to independence was Britain's but acknowledged the problem is of concern to the entire world. The leaders recalled a 1965 communique that stated that the principle of "one man one vote" is the basis of democracy and should be applied in Rhodesia. The communique expressed their concern at the danger to all multi-racial communities in the Commonwealth if the Rhodesian situation was to continue. It added: "The prime ministers declared that any political system based on racial discrimination was intalerable."

The communique also asserted "the goal of future progress in Rhodesia should be the establishment of a just society based on equality of opportunity to which all sections of the community could contribute their full potential and from which all could enjoy the benefits due to them without discrimination or unjust impediment."

He is not particularly interested in the appeal launched by his lawyer, Gordon Dowding, a fellow-NDP MLA, from Mr. Justice J. G. Ruttan's decision voiding the election nor in NDP Leader Robert Strachan's urging that he force an issue by trying to take his seat on opening day.

"I told Mr. Dowding I would go along with an appeal if he wanted it but I'm not especially interested in that aspect. I will write Premier Bennett today formally demanding a byelection and if he calls one I certainly will order Mr. Dowding to drop the appeal right away.

"And I don't think I'll go to Victoria to hang around the Legislature.

"The election has been declared void and I fell—okay, let's get on with the job of electing someone.

"Whether it's me or Corbett or someone else doesn't matter, that's for the people to decide, but at least let's have someone representing this constituency when the laws are made."

(He was referring to Social Credit candidate Irvine Corbett who lost re-election in 1963 by six votes on a judicial recount and launched the petition to void the result, pressing the case only last fall.)

ATTEND FUNERAL

Mr. Hartley said he was late in learning the results of the court case because he was at North Bend attending the funeral of an Indian constituent's son.

But, while making his way back to his home in Merritt he visited Lytton, Boston Bar and several other communities where he was sought out by residents.

"The people are most disturbed that they haven't a representative in the legislature. Quite frankly, I was surprised because I didn't think they paid that much attention to it. But they are deeply disturbed about it."

"Premier Bennett is obliged to call an election but both he and (Highways Minister) Gaglardi are getting so cocky and conceited they seem to think they can bypass democracy."

Mr. Bennett this morning, asked for his reaction to Mr. Hartley's demand, said only that he would read his letter.

"Any time I get a letter from an MLA I read it with great interest," he said adding, with a laugh, "or any former MLA or any citizen of the province.

SMITH'S CLOTHES TORN BY RUSHING REPORTERS

LAGOS (Reuters)—Distribution of the communique following the close of the Commonwealth prime ministers' conference here touched off a frenzied scene Wednesday night as reporters mobbed an official carrying the documents.

Arnold Smith of Canada, the Commonwealth secretary-general, was shouldered aside and the conference official carrying the papers had his clothing torn as he was rammed against a wall.

. . . GUN-BUTTER

for the year beginning next July 1 of $112,800,000,000, revenues of $111,000,000,000 and a consequent deficit of $1,800,000,000 This would be the lowest deficit in some years, the president said.

The military would take $58,300,000,000 or an increase of almost $10,000,000,000 on last year. Of this, $5,800,000,000 is specially marked for Viet Nam.

The non-military sector of the budget would see an increase of only $600,000,000, the president said. The modest increase implied — despite the president's formula for guns and butter too —that the axe has been used on poverty, education and other pieces of the greaty society program launched under the Johnson administration.

Johnson said too the U.S. balance-of-payments deficit would be reduced in 1965 to $1,300,000,000 compared with $2,800,000,000 in 1964. He called for eradication of the deficit in 1966.

Without elaboration, he touched briefly on some old foreign-policy goals and one or two new ones.

The U.S. remained pledged to pursuing controls on nuclear spread and disarmament.

"We will take new steps this year to help strengthen the Alliance for Progress (in Latin America), the unity of Europe, the community of the Atlantic, the regional organizations of developing continents and that supreme association, the United Nations," he said.

He said Congress will be asked to approve an international health and an international education bill for 1966—giving a new shape to foreign aid.

As last year, the president said Congress will be asked to remove special tariff restrictions impeding east-west trade. He also gave a reminder of his intent to make U.S. foreign aid more effectively used abroad—and contingent on good behavior by recipients—when he forecast "major new directions of our program of foreign assistance to help those countries who help themselves."

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen said appropriations committees will take apart Johnson's domestic money proposals.

"Overly optimistic," said House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford of Johnson's prediction revenues would soar to $111,000,000,000.

Senator Henry M. Jackson (Dem. Wash.), ordinarily a staunch administration supporter, questioned whether defence spending could be held to Johnson's estimate.

There was criticism from both parties for Johnson's proposal that excise taxes on automobiles and telephone calls be restored to meet increased military spending.

"Personally I would rather raise taxes on liquor and tobacco than make the changes the president suggests," said Senator Russell B. Long Dem. La., the new senate finance committee chairman.

built a supersonic transport

Domestically, Johnson outlined plans for attacking city slums, river basin pollution control, crime in the streets and further measures promoting civil rights, including discrimination in renting or selling houses.

There would be another effort to repeal the so-called right-to-work laws sought by organized labor.

There would be designed and build a supersonic transport plane capable of exceeding 2,000 miles an hour.

He also proposed to double the terms of the 435 members of the House of Representatives to four years.

Truck Driver Killed

More Stolen Cheques Cashed Here

More forged cheques bearing the name of Dolphin Motors have turned up, police said today.

Theft of six blank cheques from the auto dealer's offices on Pandora Avenue was reported earlier this week.

Three, made out for a total of $350, were cashed at city beer parlors, police said.

A fourth, made out for $150, was also cashed at a beer parlor and reported earlier, bringing the total to $500.

Regina Campus Will Defy Any Fee Hike

REGINA (CP)—Students at the Regina campus of the University of Saskatchewan will defy the administration by withholding part of their fees if tuition is raised, Graham Kelly, president of the student council said Wednesday.

Mr. Kelly at a press conference, said, "we will not tolerate any increase in tuition fees."

A. C. McEwan, university vice-president, said recently consideration is being given to raising fees but added he hoped federal grants would make any increase unnecessary.

FEE $285

Arts and science tuition now is $285. Mr. Kelly said he understood the increase would be $50 and would take effect for the 1966-67 term. Fees were increased about $50 in 1963.

"These fees are the lowest in Canada but we feel we must protest any increase," Mr. Kelly said.

He said the Canadian Union of Students would provide financial assistance if students were fined for withholding part of their fees.

The national student organization also will support students at the University of Victoria if they are fined for withholding fees, Mr. Kelly said.

He said there is at least "a 50 per cent opinion" on the Regina campus that tuition fees should be abolished, and the student council will seek meetings with the provincial cabinet and the university board of governors to fight any increase in fees.

Ex-King Injured

. . . TRANSIT

Although independently incorporated and supposed self-sustaining, the transit authority for several years has had to turn to the city to make up multi-million-dollar deficits.

In late morning, Supreme Court Justice Abraham N. Geller signed an order freeing ailing Transport Workers Union President Michael J. Quill and eight other labor leaders from jail sentences he imposed for contempt. At the same time he dismissed a proceeding which sought $324,000-a-day union fines for ignoring an injunction forbidding the strike.

The transit authority requested Geller's actions.

Quill, who collapsed two hours after being jailed, has been in Bellevue Hospital. His colleagues were in jail.

MORE SUPPORT NEEDED BY PRESS

AMHERST, N.S. (CP)—David B. Rogers, retired editor-in-chief of the Regina Leader Post and past-president of The Canadian Press, Wednesday urged the public to give the newspaper industry more support so accurate and detailed news could be reported.

He said the newspaper industry is concerned because it is seldom supported by the public for "the prodding and prying, weighing, examining and investigating" it carries out in the interest of the people.

Mr. Rogers was addressing the 50th anniversary dinner of the Tantramar Chapter of the IODE. A native of Amherst, he now lives in Charlottetown.

He said with government constantly reaching deeper into the affairs and lives of the people "we must not for a moment lessen our vigilance.

"We can rant and rave and write of evil and incompetence but we cannot uncover these and other cancerous conditions unless there is public alertness and willingness and public action to support our efforts."

Mr. Rogers said it is important to realize that newspapers in Canada operate primarily for profit, the same as any other business. He said newspapers, however, have a greater responsibility than most other enterprises.

6-Month Term For Possession

Walter Fyfe, 1695 Fort, received concurrent six-month jail terms in central court Wednesday when convicted of possession of stolen goods.

He pleaded not guilty at a Nov. 5 hearing before Magistrate J. A. Byers.

Police recovered goods valued at $300 stolen from Rankin's Ladies Wear and $360 from Victoria Color Photo from Fyfe.

SHIP PROBE TOLD

By DAVE MacDONALD

SOREL, Que. (CP)—The captain of the first vessel to reach the blazing cruise liner Yarmouth Castle last Nov. 13 said here Tuesday he radioed Nassau three times and got no reply.

Capt. John Lehto, 39, master of the Finnish motor vessel Finnpulp, was testifying at a marine board of inquiry convened by the U.S. Coast Guard into the fire aboard the liner near The Bahamas. The Yarmouth Castle carried 79 passengers and two crew members to the bottom when she capsized and sank.

Capt. Lehto said he radioed the U.S. Coast Guard station in Miami after failing to raise Nassau and got an immediate answer, telling him to assume command of rescue operations. The Finnpulp saved 93 passengers and crew.

The inquiry, originally scheduled to be held in Montreal, was switched to this port 50 miles downriver after icy conditions prevented the 6,500-ton Finnpulp from leaving its dock. It was held here because the Finnpulp's schedule prevented the crew from testifying in Miami.

Capt. Lehto testified that his ship steamed to within one-third of a mile of the Yarmouth Casle after sighting a "red glow" from about seven miles away at 1 a.m. He saw "a lot of flames with a good hold forward of the funnel and into the bridge area."

GOT NO REPLY

He attempted to communicate with the liner with a signalling lamp but got no reply.

Several distress flares he sighted as the Finnpulp closed with the liner "seemed to come from three lifeboats in the area."

When the first lifeboat came alongside, the Finnpulp took off four passengers and some crew. Capt. Lehto then told the rest of the boat's crew to "go back and look for more survivors."

Questioned about his estimate that there were about 20 crew members and four passengers in that lifeboat; he said he was able to count "because the passengers were white and the crewmen were black."

He saw the Yarmouth Castle list 20 degrees to port 1½ hours after all survivors in sight had been picked up. Half an hour later, at about 6 a.m. it capsized and sank.

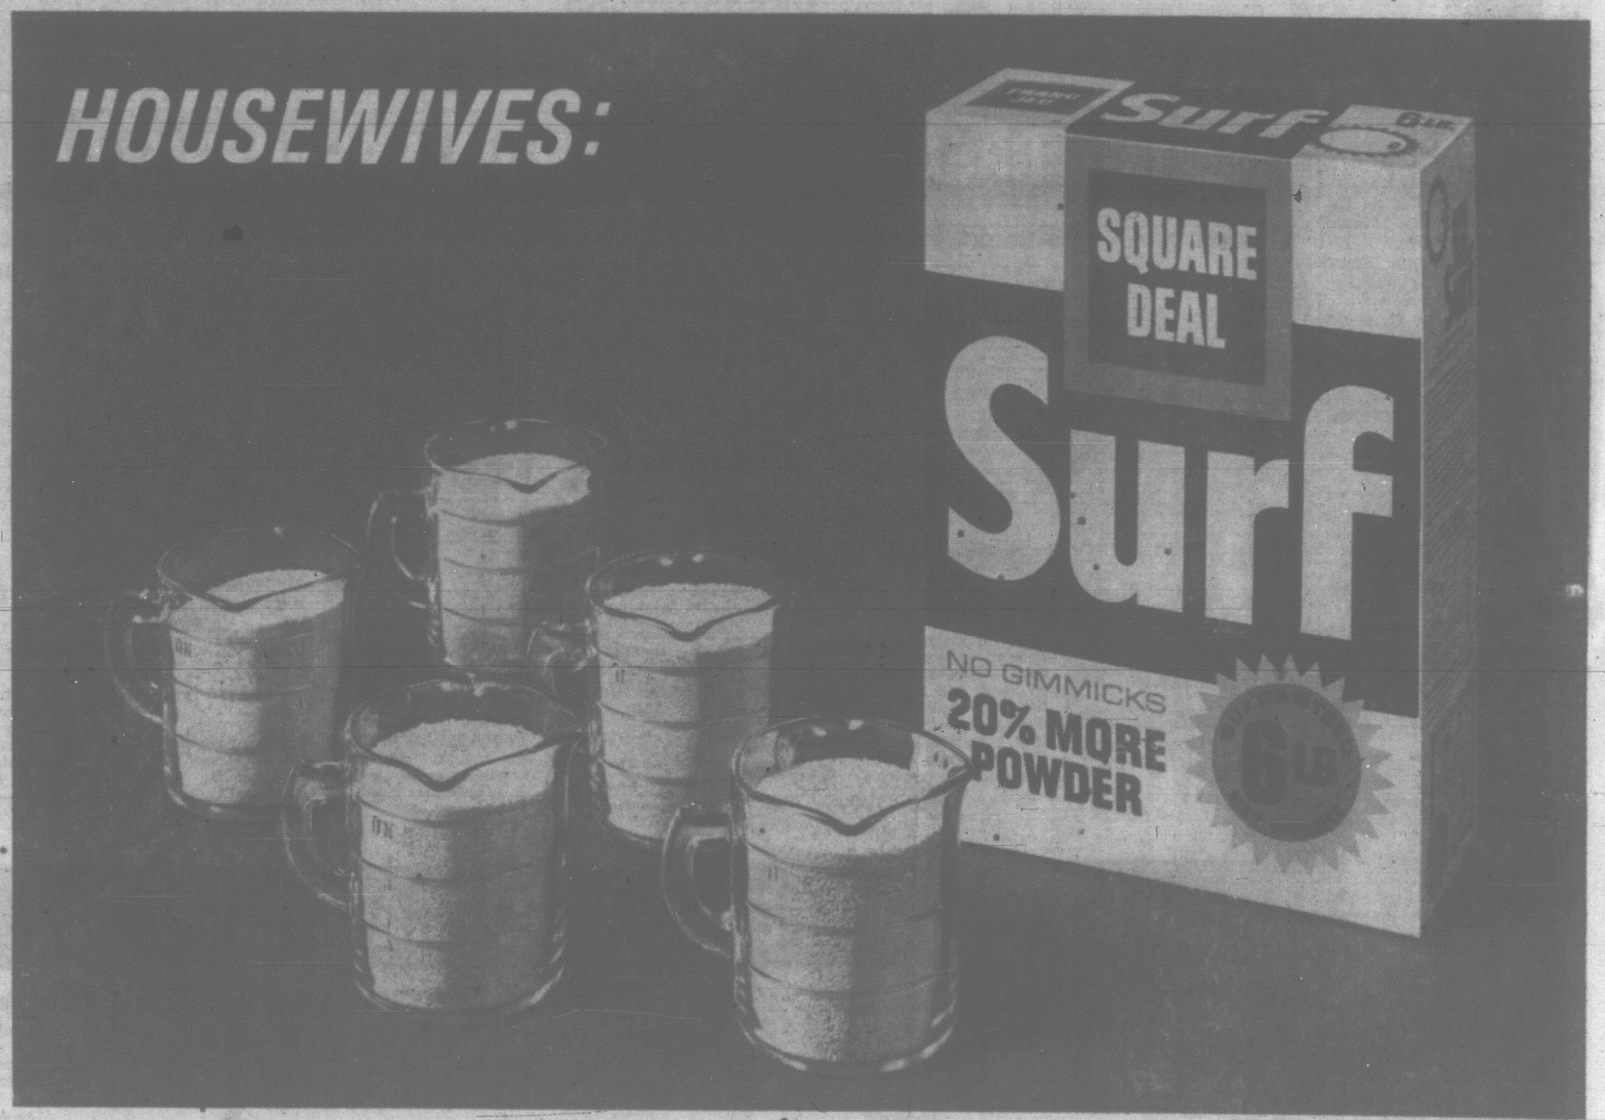

Before the hearing began, Rear-Admiral Louis M. Thayer, the board chairman, presented Capt. Lehto with a certificate of appreciation for the officers and men of the Finnpulp on behalf of the mayor and city commission of Miami, for the vessel's rescue work.

The Yarmouh Castle was owned by Yarmouth Castle Lines of Miami.

The board is to meet again in Miami Jan. 14.

RIVER 'CLOGGED WITH BODIES'

150,000 Communists, Sympathizers Killed in Indonesia

KUALA LUMPUR (AP)—Malaysian government sources said today that as many as 150,000 Communists and sympathizers may have been killed in Indonesia in the last three months.

The wave of killing broke out after the army accused the Indonesian Communist party, the PKI, of masterminding the attempted coup last Sept. 30.

Recently an average of 1,000 pro-Peking Communists and sympathizers were being killed each week in North Sumatra, another source said.

"The killings were so ferocious in the Medan area," he added, "that the authorities issued warnings to the people not to take the law into their own hands."

One report said parts of the Medan River in North Sumatra "were clogged with bodies for a while." Many of the killers were led by Moslem villagers, sources said.

One source in Singapore said the people, not the army, were leading the purge in some areas.

"In North Sumatra and west Java the situation exploded and the army has gone along with it," the source said. "But in central Java the army is more active in the anti-Communist drive."

The size of the bloodbath "helps to explain some of President Sukarno's fears and why he has called for an end to the anti-Communist drive," a Singapore government source said.

"The army has kept the killings somewhat under control, but this thing is not going to simmer down for a long time. We still do not know what is happening in some remote areas."

In Jakarta, meanwhile, Indonesian student demonstrators demanded the expulsion of Peking's New China news agency from Jakarta. They said the Chinese agency had supported the attempted coup.

Big Jet Needed By Ottawa

(Times Ottawa Bureau)

OTTAWA — The government's need for a trans-oceanic jet has been illustrated twice in the past week, acting Prime Minister Paul Martin said here Tuesday.

Shortly after the news of the death of Prime Minister Shastri of India the Canadian government was faced once again with the embarrassment of having to approach the United States and get its official representative on board the American government VIP plane flying to the funeral.

The Canadian government's jet stars are only capable of flying a limited range. They cannot cross the ocean. The Douglas DC-8's and Boeing 707's are the big jets that fly the ocean. The Canadian government or RCAF do not possess such large jets.

When it had been decided that Prime Minister Pearson should attend the Lagos Nigeria conference it was realized that the 19-hour flight by the RCAF transport command's trans-oceanic turbo-prop Yukons was too long in the air for a man carrying the responsibilities of the Canadian nation. It was decided to charter a DC-8 from Air Canada which could make the flight to Lagos in half the time.

Uvic Man To Assist In Frontier

A University of Victoria student is to spend three months teaching under-educated, unemployed men at the Elliott Lake Centre for Continuing Education in Ontario.

Gerald Scholefield, 21, of 823 Sea Drive, Brentwood, has been appointed an instructor at Elliott Lake under a joint arrangement by the federal and Ontario governments. He was recruited by Clifford Waite, western representative of Canada's Frontier College.

"He will work with other university men recruited by Frontier College from various universities across Canada," Mr. Waite said.

"For many Canadians, the lack of simple educational skills presents an insurmountable barrier to steady employment. Forty-three per cent of the labor force in Canada, and 70 per cent of the unemployed have less than Grade 8 education."

Mr. Waite siad Frontier College is concerned for the welfare of 500,000 Canadians who now live under bunkhouse conditions.

Licence Suspended For Impaired Driving

Motorist Walter Ernest Ward, 851 Esquimalt Rd., was fined $500 in central court Wednesday when he pleaded guilty to impaired driving and leaving an accident scene.

Police said he was involved in a rear-end collision Dec. 19 on Esquimalt Rd., told the other driver police weren't needed and drove away.
